MR. CHAMBERLAIN QUESTIONED.

USUAL PROTESTS TO TOKIO.

M.P. AND HOLDING UP OF HANDS.

Mr. HENDERSON (Lab., Kings Winford), in the British Commons, asked for a statement regarding the recent bombing of Canton.

Mr. CHAMBERLAIN said he regretted to say that reports which had been received of the Japanese bombardment of Canton on May 28, 29 and 30 showed that whatever may have been the objectives aimed at most of the bombs fell at places which could not be considered to have any military importance. No reports had been received of British subjects having been killed or injured. Instructions had been sent to the British Ambassador at Tokio to protest urgently against the indiscriminate bombing of areas.

Mr. DAY (Lab., Southwark) asked whether British warships were standing by for the purpose of taking off British residents, if necessary.

Mr. CHAMBERLAIN said he ought really to have notice of that question, but he rather thought they were.

Mr. THORNE (Lab., Plaistow)—Is it not possible to get the representatives of a number of European States to agree to the abolition of bombing altogether?

Mr. CHAMBERLAIN—I do not think that would have the slightest effect in China.

Mr. HENDERSON—In view of the special obligations of this country and other countries who signed the Nine-Power Treaty will the Prime Minister consider making an approach to these other countries with a view to joint representations to the Japanese Government?

Mr. CHAMBERLAIN—I will do anything that I think will be really effective in preventing the Japanese Government sanctioning raids or bombing of this character.

Mr. MANDER (L., Wolverhampton E.)—Beyond holding up their hands in horror, do the Government propose to do anything at all?

Mr. CHAMBERLAIN—If we can hold up the hands of other people we will certainly do it.

SALE OF A HOUSE IN PORTRUSH.

COASTGUARD PLAINTIFF

AGREEMENT SET ASIDE.

DEFENDANT TO REPAY £300.

A Coastguard officer stationed at Portrush was the plaintiff in an action which was heard in the Chancery Division of the Ulster High Court yesterday before Mr. Justice Megaw.

The plaintiff, James M'Bride, of Main Street, Portrush, sought to set aside an agreement between himself and the defendant, William Collins, Causeway Street, Portrush, on the ground of misrepresentation and asking for the return of the deposit.

There was a counter-claim by the defendant that the agreement was valid and asking for the payment of the balance.

Mr. S. C. Porter, K.C. and Mr. C. A. Nicholson (instructed by Messrs. Thomas Taggart & Sons, Ballymoney) represented the plaintiff; Mr. William Lowry, K.C. and Mr. E. W. Jones (instructed by Messrs. Wray and Baxter, Coleraine and Portrush) were for the defence.

Plaintiff's case was that he was retiring from the service and agreed to purchase from defendant a house in Causeway Street, Portrush, and paid £10 deposit. Collins told him not to bother about the lease. Witness did not know that the house was held under a lease from Lord Antrim for 99 years and had only 20 years to run.

THE DEFENCE.

Defendant said M'Bride told him he was not going to complete the purchase of the house in Rodney Street, and witness then informed plaintiff that there was a larger house in Causeway Street which he could have for £450. He told M'Bride there was a lease of some 20 years to go, and then it would be possible for him to arrange with Lord Antrim to get a new lease or buy it. Witness subsequently asked plaintiff if he was going to buy the house, and M'Bride said he was. Witness then mentioned that he had received a wire.

His Lordship—Have you got that wire here?

Witness—I have not.

Mr. Lowry—Did you make inquiry at the Post Office for the original. What did you learn there?

Witness—They told me they might not be able to trace it.

Witness added that he advised M'Bride to go and sign for the house. Witness told him his solicitor was Mr. Cunningham, and proposed that Mr. Cunningham should act for them both—M'Bride saying he was quite agreeable.

William I. Cunningham, jun., said it was made clear that the house was being taken for the residue of Mr. Collins' lease. He did not recollect whether there was any mention of the actual number of years. The deed was in the bank and witness had not seen it.

JUDGE AND THE DEFENDANT.

This concluded the evidence and his Lordship then observed—"I cannot accept any of Mr. Collins' evidence. He is the most unreliable and shifty witness I have had before me for some time. I think all the other witnesses were telling the truth so far as they remembered."

His Lordship said the plaintiff's evidence commended itself to him. He was quite satisfied defendant neglected to tell the plaintiff that the lease had only 20 years to run and that the representation made by the defendant as to the tenure of the property was untrue.

Judgment was given for the plaintiff in that the agreement was set aside and an order made for the repayment by defendant of £300 paid by the plaintiff. "The action of Collins was pretty well a trap and I'll allow plaintiff costs," observed his Lordship.

His Lordship added that having heard Mr. Cunningham's explanation as to the agreement he thought Mr. Cunningham acted as properly as a solicitor could and that he would have protected the plaintiff if he had known.

Mr. Porter said the plaintiff had never made any charge against Mr. Cunningham and he agreed with the remarks made.

DEAD ULSTERMEN'S ESTATES

MAY REVERT TO CROWN.

NO RELATIVE CAN BE FOUND.

The estates of two Ulstermen which will revert to the Crown failing claimants were the subject of the applications in the Ulster King's Bench, before the Lord Chief Justice, when Mr. Gerald Dougherty (instructed by Mr. R. Haldane Carson, chief Crown solicitor) applied that leave be given to the chief Crown solicitor to apply for letters of administration.

The first estate, amounting to £1,400, was that of Thomas Alexander M'Lean, who died intestate in the City and County Hospital, Londonderry, on June 1, 1934, he having previously been lodging with Mrs. S. J. Parker, 65 Clarendon Street, Londonderry.

Counsel said the deceased was a bachelor, who had no relatives. He had worked in the Electricity Department of the Londonderry Corporation in 1903 or 1904 and remained there until 1914, when he went to Glasgow. He came back to Londonderry in 1931 and was employed as an electrician with the Londonderry Port and Harbour Commissioners, and remained in that employment to his death.

FARM IN CO. TYRONE.

In the second application Mr. Dougherty said the estate consisted of a farm, 33 acres in extent, at Killadroy, Beragh, Co. Tyrone, the property of Samuel Reid, otherwise Anderson, who died on July 20, 1937, in the Tyrone County Hospital as the result of a motor accident. He was a bachelor and left no will.

The closest search and widest advertisement had failed to trace any relative.

There was a charge of £12 a year on the farm for an annuity.

The Lord Chief Justice said the matter of the annuity could be safely left in the hands of Mr. Carson.

He granted both the orders sought.

MASONIC ACHIEVEMENT.

THE PEACE MEMORIAL SCHEME.

At the quarterly meeting of the United Grand Lodge of England, Freemason's Hall, London, the Earl of Harewood presided, and the principal business consisted of the resolution accepting the dissolution of the special committee formed in September, 1919, for the Masonic Peace Memorial.

Sir Kynaston Studd, in bringing up the final report, said that the great sum raised represented accumulated donations of brethren from every part of the jurisdiction. The number of memorial jewels issued was 52,500, of which only 422 represented individual contributions from 100 guineas and upwards.

A total of 1,316 lodges had attained full hallstone qualification and many of them continued to help the fund after the jewel had been presented.

The hallstone lodges represented £664,921 of the total and at the close of 1936 the Grand Master specially appealed for £50,000 to complete the furnishing and equipment of the building of which over £45,000 had already been received.

Lord Harewood, in moving a resolution of thanks, said the whole craft was deeply indebted to those who had been members of the committee from the formation for the splendid work they had rendered.

FOOTBALL IN LETTERKENNY.

In the Letterkenny Summer League Association football competition at Letterkenny on Thursday night Buncrana Juveniles beat Derry Olympic by one goal to nil, the scorer being H. Doherty.

GERMAN BULLETS FROM SPAIN.

SHOWN AT CONFERENCE.

WHAT A SPANISH LEADER SAID.

Mr. P. C. Little, the President of the Amalgamated Engineering Union, produced part of a machine-gun belt containing cartridges captured from Franco's forces in Spain to the National Committee of the Union at Morecambe

"If you look at the markings," he said, "you will see that they are made in Germany."

Mr. Little declared that a Spanish Government military leader had told him: "If your people would let us have a few hurricane chasers we would soon stop Franco's bombing."

Mr. Little was speaking on a resolution instructing the Executive to support all organised efforts to force the British Government into recognising the international rights of the Spanish Government.

He described how a British Trade Union delegation with which he recently visited Barcelona was welcomed by Franco with an air-raid and said he wanted to go into the front line himself but was told that he would be more useful in England.

He was assured that Italy was lending materials to Franco — not selling them —and sending airmen for training for two or three months. Then they returned and a fresh batch arrived.

"The people of Spain may be exterminated, but they will never be conquered" concluded Mr. Little.

The resolution on Spain was carried with an addendum demanding that arms should be supplied to the legal Spanish Government. It was also decided to establish a voluntary levy fund in order to purchase motor-lorries for the Spanish Government and to invite each member to contribute a shilling a month, the ultimate aim being to raise fifty thousand pounds.

The week's supplies were 447 Irish cattle, 514 Canadian cattle, and 4,384 lambs.

DUBLIN CORN—With some export demand for black oats values here have advanced, otherwise conditions remain unchanged, there being just a fair sale for other samples around previous values. White oats 14s to 15s 6d, black 12s 3d to 13s 3d, and barley 18s to 19s per barrel delivered.

GLASGOW CORN—The market presents a rather steadier tone, and No. 1 Manitoba wheat is now quoted around 43s per 480lbs. c.i.f. Glasgow. Plate maize on spot is held for 8s per cwt., while forward prices range from 7s 7½d to 7s 4½d per cwt. according to position. Grinding barley is rather steadier at 7s 9d per cwt. on spot and 6s 9d to 6s 10½d in forward positions. Home red bran is easier at 6s 10½d per cwt.; other class of offals keep firm at recent levels. First grade Australian flour is nominal at 24s per 280lbs, ex-store plus quota.

GLASGOW IRON AND STEEL—Scrap metals—In common with other sections of the market the general position shows no change. Supplies are apparently more than adequate and obtainable as required.

FISHING BOAT CAPSIZES.

FIFTEEN FEARED DROWNED.

Fifteen persons are feared to have been drowned when a fishing boat off Douarnenez capsized in the Archipelago of Molene, wires the "Daily Telegraph and Morning Post" Paris correspondent.

The wrecked fishing boat was towed back to Douarnenez and the bodies of five men were found in the bunks. It is concluded that the remaining members of the crew must have perished.

BELFAST PLUMBER GASSED

WHILE FITTING A METER.

EVIDENCE AT INQUEST.

A verdict of accidental death was returned by the Belfast Coroner (Mr. T. E. Alexander) at the inquest touching the death of Robert Charles Boland, aged 40, of Ceylon Street, a plumber, employed by the Belfast Corporation.

Victor Watson said he was helping Boland, who was fitting a gas meter at Eglantine Avenue, on Monday last. Boland was sitting with his legs through a trap in the floor and with his face towards the meter, working at the service pipe. Witness left to do some work in the yard, and when he returned about ten minutes later spoke to Boland. He then noticed his head was on the floor about a yard away from the open service pipe, and he appeared to be unconscious. Witness got assistance and applied artificial respiration. A doctor was called and the ambulance summoned.

W. J. Harrison, distribution superintendent, said the procedure for fitting gas meters was the same in Belfast as in other cities. The service pipe was usually corked or plugged with waste and a certain amount of gas was bound to escape, but that depended on the quickness of the fitter. Boland had extensive experience and was an expert. Mr. Harrison added that his department made over 200 fittings per month, and that was the first fatal accident which had ever occurred

The Coroner said no one was to blame, and Boland's death was purely an accident. Some persons were more susceptible to gas poisoning. He expressed sympathy with the relatives.

Mr. J. Craig, who appeared for the Corporation, joined in the expression of sympathy on behalf of the Gas Committee and the officials of the Gas Department.

FLOGGING CHARGES.

BELFAST CIVIC INQUIRY.

TOWN CLERK IN ATTENDANCE.

Councillor F. J. Lavery (chairman) presided at a special meeting of the Children Act Committee of the Belfast Corporation, held yesterday at Balmoral Boys' School, to inquire into the allegations of flogging made at the monthly meeting of the City Council.

The Town Clerk was present, and a number of witnesses were examined.

Answering a "Telegraph" inquiry, Councillor Lavery said:—

"It would be irregular to anticipate the finding of the Committee. This will be arrived at when a summary of the evidence is prepared by the Town Clerk.

"On one point the public can rest assured; we went into the whole matter exhaustively in order to reach a fair and impartial decision.

"I expect a meeting will be called early next week to review the evidence, and I would be in favour of our findings getting the same publicity as the allegations made in the Council chamber."

ENNISKILLEN C.E. UNION.

IRVINESTOWN RALLY.

21 DISTRICTS REPRESENTED.

The annual rally of the Enniskillen and District C.E. Union opened on Thursday afternoon in Irvinestown Methodist Church, County Fermanagh.

Mr. G. E. Warren, solicitor, Enniskillen, presided over a large attendance. Rev. James Ritchie, Ballinamallard (chairman Enniskillen and Clones District) and Rev. James Wisheart also took part.

In the evening a public meeting was held in the Orange Hall, Irvinestown. There was a large attendance. After devotional exercises, Mr. Geo. E. Warren, solicitor, Enniskillen, president, addressed the meeting and intimated that owing to Methodist Conference changes, Rev. W. J. Carson, Ballybay, president-elect, would be leaving the district and was unable to act as president for the coming year. The Council had then requested him (Mr. Warren) to continue for another year. He expressed gratitude for the honour, and then delivered an interesting address.

The President announced that the Senior Shield had been won by Irvinestown C.E. Society and the Junior Shield by Lisnaskea Junior C.E. Society. The competition for C.E. experts had been won by 4 members of the Irvinestown Society, viz., Miss E. M. Keys, Miss Elizabeth Clarke, Miss Lily M'Collum, and Miss May Johnston.

Miss Pierce, corresponding secretary, called the roll of societies to which the following responded:—Inishmore, Knockninny, Lisnaskea, Florencecourt, Maguiresbridge, Newtownbutler, Sligo, Tullycherry, Togherdoo, Clabby, Churchhill, Enniskillen, Fintona, Irvinestown, Ballinamallard, Ballybay, Ballyconnell, Brookeboro' Blacklion, and Killadeas.

Pastor D. Burrows, Bangor, president of the Bangor and Ards C.E. Union, gave an appropriate address based on the words "Follow Me."

ARBITRATOR'S AWARD.

The prices for coal to Lancs cotton firms for 1938, proposed by the Executive Board of the Lancs and Cheshire District Coal Mines Scheme, though in excess of the prices charted in 1935 and 1937, are not contrary to the public interest, unfair or inequitable.

This observation is made by Mr. John Forster, who presided over the arbitration between the Lancs and Cheshire coal investigation and the Executive Board in his award issued to-day.

CHOIR FESTIVAL AT BALLYMENA.

A choir festival service under the auspices of South Connor Choral Union was held in St. Patrick's Church, Ballymena, Mr. H. G. Lockett, A.R.C.M., presided at the organ.

Choirs were present from Antrim, Cairncastle, Connor, Craigs, Glynn, Larne, Muckamore, and Randalstown.

An address was given by Rt. Rev. Dr. J. F. MacNeice, Lord Bishop of the Diocese.

Rev. F. J. Mitchell, B.A., rector of St. Patrick's; Rev. H. C. Townsend, M.A., Craigs; and Rev. T. J. Forsyth, M.A., Randalstown, took part in the service.

ROSSLEA PETTY SESSIONS.

At Rosslea Petty Sessions yesterday—before Major Dickie, R.M.—John M'Namee, Tonnitybog, was fined 5s for behaving in a disorderly manner in Rosslea Fair on May 9.

Sergt. Hunter stated defendant was fighting with other men in the street and followed one of the men out to the road and witness had to turn him back. Defendant struck Constable Magee with his fist.

Defendant denied the offence and stated Constable Magee struck him for nothing.

Michael M'Clave, Derrygelly, was fined 5s for a similar offence on the same date. Constable M'Elnea said defendant had his coat off and wanted to fight.

The Probation of Offenders Act was applied in a case in which Patrick M'Carron, Greaghacholla, was summoned for burning heather in a bog on payment of 2s costs.

NORFOLK MURDER CHARGE.

MRS. SANDFORD FREE.

NO PRIMA FACIE CASE.

RULING OF THE COURT.

The magistrates at Downham Market, Norfolk, yesterday, discharged Mrs. Rose Emma Sandford (27), who had been accused of murdering her 30-year-old husband, Lewis Arthur Sandford, a farm hand. They found that there was no prima facie case.

Mrs. Sandford remained very calm after hearing the magistrates' decision, made after a retirement of 45 minutes. She sat at a table for a few moments and then there was an affectionate reunion with her mother and sisters.

Mr. Pollock, defending, said that the case as opened by Mr. G. R. Paling, prosecuting, had not in any way been supported by evidence.

Referring to the first day's evidence Mr. Pollock said, "I hope I am not overstating my case when I say there is not one tittle, one shadow, one vestige of evidence on which one could hang a fly."

He attached great importance to the evidence that the Sandfords were normally a happy married couple.

Mrs. Sandford's husband died in January and was exhumed two months later. He was alleged to have died from strychnine poisoning.

Mrs. Sandford told a reporter—"I knew if Scotland Yard and all their officers searched from here to Land's End they would never find any trace of strychnine coming from me."

PROCEEDINGS AT LENGTH.

After Chief Inspector Bridger had given evidence of an interview with Mrs. Sandford at her solicitor's office, the clerk read a statement in which Mrs. Sandford was alleged to have replied to a question asking her if she could say where a green bottle containing strychnine recovered from the vault of the lavatory had come from: "This is the first time I have seen that bottle."

Chief Inspector Bridger said that when formally charged and cautioned Mrs. Sandford answered "I am innocent."

Before concluding his evidence he was questioned about interviews he had had with "Bill" Barker, who is alleged by the prosecution to have been in the habit of meeting Mrs. Sandford. He said that he had administered a caution to him.

"Perhaps we shall be hearing the members of the local slate club next," remarked Mr. George Pollock, defending, when he said that he had no questions to ask a member of a weekly clothing club who gave evidence.

Mr. G. R. Paling, prosecuting, was understood to say that that was an observation which was not called for.

Mrs. Gertrude Annie Mason, a neighbour of the Sandfords, described how she had seen Mrs. Sandford at dances at West Dereham.

On one occasion when Mrs. Sandford left the dance hall for half an hour she asked her where she had been. Mrs. Sandford replied, "I have been to have a drink with Billy," meaning Barker. That was before Sandford's death.

Mr. Pollock—So far as you know as a next door neighbour, were Mr. and Mrs. Sandford a normal married couple.

Mrs. Mason—Yes.

And other than possibly village gossip, to which we do not pay much attention, you do not know anything against her character?—No.

The case for the prosecution was closed, and before the court adjourned for lunch Mr. Pollock intimated that on the resumption he would make a submission that there was no case for trial.

ADDRESS FOR THE ACCUSED.

Mr. Pollock immediately submitted after the luncheon adjournment that there was no case to go for trial. He said that the case as opened by Mr. Paling had not in any way been supported by evidence.

"There is not one tittle, one shadow, one vestige of evidence on which one would hang a fly,' declared Mr. Pollock, who said that he attached great importance to the evidence that the Sandfords were normally a happy married couple."

Regarding the evidence that Mrs. Sandford and "Bill" Barker had gone home from work together, Mr. Pollock asked "Can it be said against me that because we go the same way home I went that way with another man's wife?"

There was no word in any of the statements produced which was not consistent with Mrs. Sandford's evidence. Mrs. Sandford made no attempt to wash up or to conceal any receptacle in which poison might have been retained.

"It would be a cruel and monstrous thing, as I am sure you would agree, to subject any person to the ordeal of being tried for the gravest offence known to our laws unless there are good grounds on which you can say the law requires that it shall be done."

If there was an allegation of a guilty association with Barker why didn't the prosecution bring him to the Court so that he could give the lie to tittle-tattle of that kind?

"Where is the evidence of the witnesses going to tell of the guilty association with Barker? We have not seen them. Have witnesses said anything which would bring a moment's blush to the cheek of that woman or any woman?"

He could not deal with evidence pointing to Mrs. Sandford having done anything because he did not know what it was.

THE COURT DECISION.

The magistrates were in retirement for 50 minutes.

On their return the chairman (Alderman J. R. Bennett) said:—

"We have carefully considered this case and we find on the facts placed before us there is not a prima facie case made out justifying this bench in sending this woman for trial.

"We are unanimous in this. She is therefore discharged."

Mrs. Sandford heard the fateful words of the chairman in the same impassive manner which had characterised her bearing throughout the hearing.

Then the words of the chairman made her a free woman and from the back of the court there was subdued applause, quickly silenced by the chairman.

Mrs. Dye, the elderly mother of Mrs. Sandford, with her two daughters, who had listened to every word of the hearing, went forward and greeted Mrs. Sandford with affection.

Holding their mother's hands were Ivy and Elsie, Mrs. Sandford's two sisters, who had come day after day to the court and kissed Mrs. Sandford as she arrived and when she left in the evening.

"Now we shall all be together," said Ivy in a choking voice.

Mrs. Sandford had hardly understood the full significance of the chairman's prosaic announcement that they found no prima facie case. She had remained calm and unmoved, but now that her mother and sisters and friends were around her the reaction set in, and for some minutes she stood trembling, unable to speak.

Mrs. Sandford pulled the deep black collar of her coat around her face as if to escape the gaze of those people who still hung around the court.

It was market day in the old town, and stall-holders, farmers and their wives, shopkeepers, and villagers quickly gathered, nearly 1,000 strong, to see Mrs. Sandford leave the court.

THE GARDENER'S CORNER

June Brings Many Fragrant Blooms

By "THE MAN WITH THE HOE"

FLOWERS generally are rather scarce for indoor use. A few doronicums, Solomon's seals and bachelor's buttons still linger. Campanula grandis, nephetas, verbascums, and brooms are bright. This is lupin time, their bright spikes are beginning to show in the herbaceous border. The Russell lupins, if raised from seed in the spring, will be late to flower, if they flower at all this year, but there should be good displays of them next May and June, as everyone seems to be growing them. The yellow and white tree lupins are showing their flowers all over the countryside, where they always attract the eye.

The trollius family are now showing their pretty golden globules and beside them scabious caucasica is in bud. What a beautiful flower it is. The red stalks of lobelia cardinalis are pushing through a protective material of peat litter and ashes with which they were covered during the winter months. One of the finest bushes grown at the side of a lawn is tricuspidaria lanceolata. It is now covered with its attractive red flowers, which hang down from its branches. Once it is established it grows quickly.

Olearia stellulata is covered with its snow white flowers at present. It is one of the best of the olearia family as O. Haastii after flowering looks dingy and is not recommended for planting.

A Suitable Climber.

For a north or east wall escallonia macrantha grown as a climber is suitable. It is ever-green and looks well at present with its red flowers. It is easily raised from cuttings taken in September. It succeeds in seaside districts alongside veronicas, which seem to thrive so well in sandy soil. Orchards do not look well this year. The long continued spell of north and east winds and the drought has been detrimental to the apple, pear and plum trees flowering and setting properly. It looks like small crops here generally.

Roses are now coming into bloom in the climbing and standard sections. Amongst the climbers noticed are Gloire De Dijon, Climbing Shot Silk, Madame Butterfly and Richmond, and the two standard Madame Edourd Herriot and Golden Spray are also filled with buds and flowers.

The rugosas are showing many of their fragrant red flowers. A good watering with a rose fertiliser is very useful at this time. The beds should also be hoed and kept clear of weeds which spring up rapidly after the showers of rain.

Pinks are now coming into bloom. Their fragrance is always attractive. Mrs. Sinkins is a variety that is especially sweet.

In the kitchen garden June is the month for planting broccoli, cauliflowers and celery. Showery weather should be chosen if available. The old saying: "A dripping June brings all things in tune."

The ridges at the sides of celery trenches should be made use of for sowing the seed of lettuce or endive. Radishes may now be sown once a fortnight to keep up the supply and turnips should also be sown thinly. Short mown grass is recommended as a preventive of the turnip fly and carrot fly and light dustings of soot and wood ashes are good also. Those who try ridge cucumbers may do so now, either planting them from pots or sowing them on ridges in the open. This is a good time to sow coltworts as they come in after the summer cabbage season is over. Spinach beet may still be sown. Its leaves can be used during the winter and the following spring when other vegetables are scarce.

Sow Wallflowers.

June is a favourite month for sowing wallflowers and many other perennials in the open ground, or in pots which should be placed in cold frames or in a spot facing north. Hardy plant seeds will not stand the strong heat of a greenhouse at this time when the sun is blazing.

It is very interesting to grow plants from seed in the open. The following have been sown in pots and will be left to take their chance, as if only a few plants come up in each pot they are worth watching. This is a list of the plants sown this year:—Pyrethrum, papaver orientale (mixed), viburnum opulus, ribes alpinumdureum, ribes atrosanguineum, ribes speciosum, eulalia-japonica, broom hybrids, and polygonum baldschuanicum.

Carnations are also easily raised from seed, and the seedlings are said to be more floriferous than cuttings. Some beautiful specimens were raised in this way in recent years.

SATURDAY COMMENTARY BY LADY OXFORD AND ASQUITH

The PASSING PAGEANT

King Who Hid Under the Table

QUEEN MARY

I WENT to write my name in Queen Mary's book at Marlborough House on her birthday, and was not surprised to find a large crowd outside the gates hoping to catch a glimpse of their former and much-loved Queen. No nation has ever shown more fidelity—one might say no Empire—to a Royal family than ours, and this is not merely a respect for the Crown, but a love for those who represent it.

And why is this? It is because they have always been in complete sympathy with their subjects and are even more human than royal. Being human, a Sovereign of Queen Mary's years might sometimes feel tired of the many functions in which she is expected to appear, and, since she is no longer in the Palace, might easily make excuses but the great sense of duty, to which she has devoted her whole life, will never permit her to disappoint the public, and if possible she is better known and more loved to-day than she ever was.

SECRET Of Royal Youth.

THIS, added to her true enjoyment of seeing other people happy, has kept her young. I knew her when she was first Princess May of Teck, and then the Princess of Wales, and when my husband became Prime Minister, and she was the Queen, we had the honour of seeing her very often in public and in private. She has not changed in any way, and looks far younger than she did 10 years ago.

I well remember the first time I ever went to Marlborough House when the beautiful Queen Alexandra—then Princess of Wales—asked me to see Princess Maud's wedding presents. I was very young, and knew little of London society, so I was thrilled at receiving such an invitation. I think it was through Lady Ripon, who knew of my passionate admiration for the Queen, that I was invited. She and I went together. I knew very few people in the room except the Prince of Wales, with whom I had danced the Cotillion at Lord Rothchild's ball, as the party consisted of no one but intimate friends, the Household, and members of the Royal family.

DUCKED Under The Table.

I was standing with King Edward—then the Prince of Wales, of course—looking at some of the wonderful presents given to Princess Maud, now the Queen of Norway. They were set out on large tables covered with green baize, when suddenly there was a pause, and a powdered servant in scarlet threw open the double doors, and announced in a loud voice: "Her Majesty the Queen!" At which the Prince of Wales dipped down behind the table, and slid out of the room.

Nor was I surprised, as Queen Victoria did not get on too well with the Heir to the Throne, and by her dignity and courage was fundamentally alarming. It was the first and last time that I ever spoke to Queen Victoria, and after that I left the room as hurriedly as I could. There is one thing quite certain; that our present King and Queen will never inspire fear of any kind in their happy little Princesses.

MIGHT Have Been Dictator.

A distinguished critic, whose comments I always read, writes that he always thought Toscanini looked more like a politician than a musician, and that he has since learnt that the maestro had been defeated, when in former days he was a candidate, in an Italian General Election. If anyone can point to a politician who ever looked like Arturo Toscanini he will deserve a V.C., unless he knows a member of Parliament who looks like a poet or a philosopher, either of which might be likened to Toscanini's beautiful, thoughtful face.

The critic goes on in his notes to say that, had Toscanini been successful in his candidature, he might have become a dictator similar to Mussolini, and "easily more relentless."

GREATEST Living Italian.

IT is obvious that he knows little of the man of whom he was writing, which surprises me, as although he may not know him, he must have heard much of him and known the reason why the greatest living Italian ceased to conduct the fine orchestra in the Milan Opera House. I do not confine myself to Italy—where, for all I know, there may be many great men—nor do I think it is conducting which alone has made everyone in every country want to meet Toscanini.

He would have won world-wide fame whatever his nationality. His modesty, mastery, courage and nobility of character, have made him one of the outstanding figures of the day. Merely to conduct an orchestra would never have given him the renown which he has achieved. He has been offered enormous sums of money to conduct by every Dictator, and he told me that his answer had always been the same: "I will do nothing for countries which suppress liberty."

I warned him at Salzburg last autumn that he was perhaps unwise in expressing this opinion so freely on every occasion, as possibly he might be put in an Italian prison. He looked at me with his beautiful, slow smile and said: "The prison is not made that would hold me." It speaks well for the Duce that what Toscanini said is true, as he goes to Italy whenever he likes, lives on an Italian island, and has never been molested since he was nearly killed by the Fascists on leaving the Milan Opera House.

MUSIC That Is Forbidden.

HAD he been of German birth, we would never have heard of him again. It is curious to think that the Germans, who are the most musical race in Europe, should have got rid of all their great conductors and discouraged their best composers. I am told, with what truth I do not know, that Mendelssohn's music is forbidden, and that the beautiful songs set to Heine's words have ceased to be sung.

This is probably an exaggeration, but the present Foreign Secretary in Germany told me himself that Heine was not considered "a constructive poet." It was a new idea to me, as I never associated poetry with architecture: I found no difficulty in agreeing with Herr von Ribbentrop. The Germans of my time would have adored Toscanini, as for a very small sum you could hear the finest concerts, watch the greatest conductors in Dresden and Berlin—but to-day they prefer militarism to music.

THE TRADE UNION ACTS.

BRITAIN CAN TEACH THE U.S.

WASHINGTON, Friday. — President Roosevelt stated at a conference to-day that a commission was being sent to England to study the working of the Trade Union Acts. He emphasised that this was not being done with a view to amending the National Labour Relations' Board, but he expressed the opinion that the United States could learn much about Labour relations from foreign countries.—Central News.

BELFAST ROYAL ACADEMY.

TEACHING STAFF CHANGES.

A former pupil of Belfast Royal Academy has been appointed classical teacher for the coming session. She is Miss Eileen Hamilton, B.A., a graduate with first-class honours of the Queen's University. She will occupy the position held by Dr. Harte, who became headmaster of Belfast Mercantile College.

Mr. D. J. Carpenter, A.R.C.Sc.L., who has been in charge of the science department at the Academy, is retiring after 37 years' service, while Miss M'Aleese, M.Sc., is also retiring in view of her approaching marriage.

The vacancies will be filled by the appointments of Mr. T. C. C. Adam, M.Sc., and Mr. J. A. Stewart, M.Sc., graduates with high honours of Queen's and London Universities.

Mr. Adam has had successful experience in Royal Belfast Academical Institution and Mr. Stewart in Lisburn Intermediate School.

DEATH AFTER TONSIL OPERATION.

A twelve hours' struggle by three doctors to save the live of a 12-year-old boy ended in Worcester Royal Infirmary on Friday morning.

Stephen Lewis, only child of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Lewis, of Redland Road, Malvern, left the Worcester Grammar School on Wednesday to have his tonsils removed Haemorrhage set in after the operation on Thursday morning. A blood transfusion was finally arranged, but the boy collapsed when it was almost completed.

It was described as a unique case at the inquest when a verdict of death by misadventure was recorded.

S. AFRICAN ANTHEM STORM.

NAMES OF DUTCH LEADERS JEERED.

The storm over the omission to play the National Anthem at the Union Day military parades in South Africa on Monday shows no signs of abating.

A protest meeting was held in the City Hall, Capetown, on Friday night and there were boohs and jeers when the names of General Hertzog, the Prime Minister, and General Smuts, the Deputy Prime Minister, were mentioned by the speakers.

Among those who addressed the large audience was Mr. C. W. A. Coulter, deputy leader of the Dominion Party, who was beaten at the General Election last month. When he stood up to speak he was greeted by the singing of "for he's a jolly good fellow" and "God Save the King."

GOLD RIOTS IN MEXICO.

SIX DEAD IN GUN BATTLE.

MEXICO CITY, Friday. — Six persons were killed to-day in a fight which developed between prospectors for possession of a large gold nugget which was unearthed near Coyuca de Catalan, in the State of Guerrero, in the south-western mining region. One of those killed was a girl of nine, who was running to fetch help for the 18 who were wounded in the gun fight.

THE BELFAST PLAYHOUSE.

"MY WIFE'S FAMILY" NEXT WEEK.

It is a well-known fact that laughter is one of the finest tonics in existence. Whether you are in need of a tonic or not a visit to the Playhouse next week will certainly be an evening well spent. From the rise of the curtain the laughter starts, gradually rising to roars as the antics of the players in that well-known comedy, "My Wife's Family," is unfolded.

The plot deals with a cleverly conceived mix up of pianos and babies, but after an evening of wholesome entertainment and good fun the whole tangle is straightened out to the satisfaction of everyone. The usual cast of Playhouse favourites are performing, and patrons would be well advised to book early for this great attraction.

BELFAST DROWNING ACCIDENT.

ACCOUNT OF EYE-WITNESS.

THE MILEWATER BASIN AFFAIR.

An inquest was held touching the death of William Smith, aged 58, of Mountcashel Street, Belfast, who was drowned while bathing at Milewater Basin on Saturday last.

John Mallagh, Alexandra Park Avenue, said about 11-45 a.m. he observed Smith wearing a bathing costume, about to enter the water. He appeared to fall backwards into the water, and disappeared. When he did not reappear witness and Samuel Warden went to raise the alarm. Witness was unable to attract the attention of men in a boat in midstream.

The Coroner (Mr. T. E. Alexander) said while the medical evidence was that death was due to asphyxia, he was of opinion that Smith had taken a weak turn. He expressed sympathy with the relatives.

STOLEN NAVAL PLANS REPORT.

GERMAN LINER CAPTAINS

TO APPEAR AS WITNESSES.

NEW YORK, Saturday.—The captains of two German liners have been summoned to appear as material witnesses in the investigation which is being carried out by the United States Government into alleged Nazi espionage activities (states Reuter).

They are:—Captain Heinrich Lorenz, master of the North-German Lloyd liner Chemnitz, who was formerly attached to the Europa, and Captain Frans Friske, master of the Hamburg-America liner Hindenburg.

A one-armed German-born naval draughtsman, Christian Danielson, has also been summoned. All have been granted bail.

Whether they had permission from the Federal authorities to leave is not known, but an official of the North-German Lloyd Line declared:—

"Naturally they will be available if and when called upon."

Danielson, whose importance in the case is indicated by the fact that his bail was fixed at 10,000 dollars (£2,000), was said at the Court hearing to be employed at Bath (Maine) Iron Works, as a draughtsman engaged in building naval ships.

According to the "New York Times," "it is known that at least part of the plans for the U.S. Navy's newest destroyers have been stolen, and it was believed that Danielson was in a position to illuminate the Grand Jury on this phase."

BRITISH OFFICER KILLED

TRYING TO SAVE ORDERLY.

Capt. Eric de Burgh Edwardes, of the 18th Royal Gharwal Rifles, has been killed at Lansdowne, a military station in the United Provinces, while trying to save his orderly.

The Indian stumbled near a railing on the roof of the officers' mess and Edwardes gripped his hand to prevent his falling over. Both fell 100 feet to the ground and Capt. Edwardes was killed instantly.

Capt. Edwardes, who was 32, was to have left for England on Tuesday to be married.

MR. CORDELL HULL'S PLAN.

NATIONAL ISOLATION INSECURE.

A conviction that the United States cannot afford to be completely isolationist was expressed by Mr. Cordell Hull, Secretary for State, in a speech to the Tennessee Bar Association.

A great Power like the United States had not only rights, but duties, he said.

"It is my firm conviction," Mr. Hull continued, "that national isolation is not a means to security, but rather a fruitful source of insecurity. For, while we may seek to withdraw from participation in world affairs, we cannot thereby withdraw from the world itself.

"Attempts to achieve national isolation would not merely deprive us of any influence in the councils of nations, but would impair our ability to control our own affairs.

"Deliberate renunciation by us of any participation in international affairs would make for an easier triumph on this planet of lawlessness, brute force and war. In a world growing internationally more and more disordered and chaotic we would be compelled to increase our armed defences on a scale that would impose a truly crushing burden on our people.

"Even so, we would have to live in constant danger that the rising wave of international anarchy would sooner or later reach and batter down our own walls and engulf us as well as the rest of mankind.

"WE SHOULD CO-OPERATE."

"Within the limitations of our traditional policies, and without entangling alliances or involvements, we should co-operate sincerely and resolutely with like-minded nations to encourage the peaceful settlement of controversies.

"There is again abroad in more than one part of the earth a spirit of international anarchy. Solemn contractual obligations are brushed aside with a light heart and a contemptuous gesture. Respect for law and observance of the pledged word have sunk to an inconceivably low level. The outworn slogans of the glorification of war are again resounding in many portions of the globe.

"Armed force, naked and unashamed, is again being used as an instrument of policy and a means of attaining national ends through aggression and aggrandisement. It is being employed with brutality and savagery that outrage and shock every human instinct."

FOUR-POINT PROGRAMME.

Mr. Hull then outlined a four-point programme of the steps which the United States was prepared to take immediately to reverse the "present disastrous trends in international relations." He promised (says the "Daily Telegraph and Morning Post" Washington correspondent) that the United States would co-operate in—

Adjustment of international economic relationships;

World disarmament;

Humanising the rules and practices of war:

Exploring all other methods of revitalising the spirit of international co-operation.

"There is a desperate need in our country, and every country," he said, "for a strong and united public opinion in support of a renewal and demonstration of faith in the possibility of world order based on law and international co-operative effort." Once public opinion had developed along these lines, he said, there should be no great difficulty in finding acceptable ways and means of achieving the desired end."

LEVIES FOR PIG PRODUCERS.

The Ministry of Agriculture announces that a special trading levy of 2s per pig has been imposed as and from Monday, May 30, in the case of sales of pigs by producers to bacon-curers or to the Pigs Marketing Board. This levy is necessary to meet trading losses incurred by the Board.

At present the administrative levy or contribution amounts to 1s per pig and the total amount of levies payable to the Pigs Marketing Board will, therefore, be 3s per pig. In addition the insurance fee of 6d per pig will continue to be deducted by licensed bacon curers in the case of pigs bought by them.

LINEN TRADE REVIEW

No marked change in general trend — Demand patchy and for immediate wants — Trade Pact holding up U.S. business—Fancy end hopefulness —Russian flax position — Marked decline in last seven years—Reports from sources of supply.

There has been little change in general conditions in the linen trade. Some slight improvement has been noticeable in the merchanting end, but there is no evidence of any definite change so far as the manufacturing and producing ends of the industry are concerned; any business passing is relatively small and much below normal. Apart from these conditions a certain amount of optimism is apparent. This is based on the knowledge that stocks are low and replacements are bound to follow. This conclusion is supported by many inquiries received recently asking for quotations.

In places the tone is more cheerful, but some sections of the trade, such as the tailoring end, are somewhat despondent at the paucity of orders coming through. It is thought by many that the constant political upheavals of Central Europe, which have been so frequent of late, have reacted against the steady flow of commerce.

The position of weaving factories is much the same with no definite change to report. Small miscellaneous orders from the home and colonial markets are still passing, and are augmented by some moderate lots from foreign markets. While these help to keep looms occupied, the absence of forward delivery orders makes the position difficult for manufacturers who cannot look far ahead. The industry in general is eagerly awaiting some definite settlement of the U.S.A. trade agreement. The uncertainty regarding the projected rates for linen goods still causes some anxiety in the trade.

There is little to report in regard to business with the States. The conditions there at present are anything but good. Certain small orders still percolate through, chiefly to tide over requirements until the tariff question is completed. Prices still remain steady, due to the firm cost of raw material.

THE FANCY END.

An improvement is reported in the fancy end branch of the business, and some good orders have been recorded during the past week. It is known, however, that several wholesale houses are very much over-stocked in other textile goods, and it is thought they may curtail further commitments until their own stocks are reduced. Whether this will affect future demands remains to be seen.

Damasks and household linens still command a certain amount of attention, although quantities in most cases are below the average. Coloured and printed dress linens are usually slow, especially at mid-season periods. There has, however, been some business passing in moderate quantities in these goods.

In the export trade two countries stand out prominently as users of our linens, namely, Australia and South Africa. Australia comes second after the United States and South Africa comes fourth. The good business from Australia is likely to be permanent, as latest advices from Sydney go to show that a boom is in progress in New South Wales and some other parts of the country.

Another favourable feature is that China, with all her troubles, is still able to absorb linens to the value of more than £20,000 per month. It is no doubt true that many of these may be ordered by American firms, but it is satisfactory to see that in the present very serious condition of affairs they can get the linen through to the proper quarters, and after receiving the embroidery work, that it can be delivered to its ultimate destination. This business comes to about 5 per cent. of our export trade, and it is a great matter that it has not been extinguished so far.

Latest advices received from China state that some factories and warehouses in Shanghai are open, which were out of action for the greater part of the last six months of 1937 and the early part of this year.

The demand for domestic linens such as typed linen glass cloths, rollering towels and huckabacks is patchy and much below normal, although in isolated cases some moderate quantities have been booked. Speaking generally the home market is reported quiet, but showing every indication from inquiries being received of an improvement.

There is no change to report so far as yarns are concerned. Small parcels still change hands, but no general movement on the part of manufacturers to purchase. The gap of 1s per bundle still exists between yarn production costs and the consumer's ideas of value. Tow yarns are reported quiet, but values still remain firm.

Notwithstanding the pessimistic reports about trade conditions generally, a large spinning firm has for the year ending in April shown a very handsome profit. The results show what can be done under skilful management and with up-to-date equipment.

SIGNIFICANT FIGURES.

The raw material position is much the same as previously reported. The Soviet is not selling. It may be of interest to note that according to figures published recently by the Soviet Customs the export of flax in 1937 amounted to 34,486 tons as compared with 57,106 tons in 1936, a drop of 22,620 tons. The rapid decline in the Soviet exports in the last three years is shown as follows:—

1932	82,500 „
1935	59,100 „

It will be noticed by these figures that the export in 1937 was little more than a third of that in 1934. The reasons underlying this shrinkage are almost exclusively internal economic conditions, and are not linked with the demand for flax, or the price situation on the international market.

The steady decline in Soviet exports as shown in the figures should be an incentive to our Ulster Government to push ahead the growth and cultivation of flax in this country as already outlined in the columns of this review.

Regarding the cultivation of flax at home, there has been some improvement in demand for seed in a few districts during April, but, in a general way the position has not been much altered, and it is considered that, while there may be an increased acreage in one or two districts, the area sown under flax may not show much improvement over the previous year. It is certain, however, that next year's crop will cover a more extended area. The month of April saw the end of the season for the marketing of 1937 produce, and the supplies were sold at lower prices than the previous month, averaging 8s 6d per stone.

There is no official quotation for Russian flax, and the conviction is held that Russia has no more to offer this season, apart from a few unimportant lots. Although Russian flax can still be bought from some dealers, the latter have little left. Dealers' prices for Group IV. vary according to the sorts he has in stock. The average price is now £51 (gold) for Group IV. c.i.f.

CONTINENTAL REPORTS.

Lille Flax.—Business continues to be difficult, due, on the one hand, to the high level of prices and, on the other, to the reticence displayed by sellers, whose stocks are very small.

Russia is not selling. She has even ceased to quote nominal prices. Germany has just bought 1,000 tons from Estonia and Lithuania, and hence prices on these two markets are firmer. Quotations are as follow:—£50-£50 10s (gold) for Group IV.; £43 for Werro Petchour; £37 basis R. for Haut Courland.

The recent devaluation of the franc has augmented reserve among buyers and sellers. The former, however, are in a better position to await developments as they do not seem at the moment to be troubled with urgent requirements of flax. Moreover, the condition of the market is now transitional, with the first consignment of the new crop trickling in and the balance of the old crop being liquidated.

Business in Belgian flax was rendered difficult by the trend of political events in Belgium and by the uncertainty regarding the future trend of the Belgian franc. Certain Belgian producers are refusing to do business in Belgian francs and are making offers in French francs. Some, however, continue to make offers in Belgian francs, and these were able to do business at unchanged prices in the week under review.

Business in scutched tows is still non-existent. On the other hand hackled tows are experiencing a satisfactory flow of business at prices which are, however, being disputed.

BELGIAN FLAX.

Ghent—The Belgian flax market is still characterised by the subdued outlook which has existed for two months. The volume of business is small compared with the volume of production, as processors are taking a reserved attitude. It is astonishing that the rate of production should be so high in view of the low prices being offered by spinners. Yet certain processors are working at double shifts without making sales. The reserve displayed by spinners and merchants may perhaps be construed as an attempt to take advantage of the uncertainty of international exchange rates by exercising a pressure on prices.

The impression prevails that if the political horizon in Belgium and in the neighbouring States were clear business on the Belgian flax market would improve.

It is reported that Irish and German spinners are the main support of the Belgian flax market, although they scrutinise the flax carefully and are almost exclusively interested in superior and select grades. French spinners are buying inferior qualities regularly, but Belgian merchants are finding the devaluation of the franc an impediment to business, as spinners in the Nord are naturally desirous of transacting in French francs.

Belgian spinners are not displaying any great activity, but they are making regular purchases of inferior and average grades.

The situation of the market for tows is much the same. It is reported that merchants are reserved in attitude and that they are accumulating stock in the hope of an improvement in the general situation.

Courtrai.—There was no appreciable alteration in the market for scutched flax in the week under review, although activity among French spinners was slightly greater. On the whole, the market is calm, with a fairly satisfactory demand for higher qualities, but a subdued tone in average and inferior grades. French spinners are still the main support of the market.

RUSSIAN AND BALTIC.

In most consuming centres there are few buyers of Russian and Baltic flax to be found, and Germany may now be considered the only potential customer. The latter country has been in negotiation for some days with Latvian, Estonian and Lithuanian sellers.

Soviet Flax.—There is nothing new to report. The Russian Monopoly, as was announced last week, has executed delivery of all its contracts. The control of the situation now passes to merchants as the Monopoly may be considered a non-participant.

Latvia.—German spinners, who have engaged in conversations with the Latvian Government, were offered 1,000 tons, but at prices which they considered too high, and they postponed the sale for the time being. Although the Latvian Monopoly has decreased its prices, they are still higher than those in force at the consuming centres.

Estonia.—Germany has been active on this market also; 1,500 tons are said to be involved. 800 tons were purchased in the week under review, but there is no indication of what will happen to the balance of 700 tons.

Although this flax, on the basis of current quotations, is a more interesting proposition than either Soviet or Latvian flax, it is, nevertheless, considered too dear by spinners.

Lithuania.—Lithuanian flax is greatly sought after by German spinners, and purchases are expected as soon as negotiations with the clearing office are concluded. In point of fact it is considered that 1,000 tons have virtually changed hands.

FLAX AND TOW YARNS.

Lille.—The situation of the flax-spinning concerns here is still exceedingly precarious. Several purchases for stock have been made, and some export business has been done but, on the whole, owing to the depression in the weaving end of the linen industry, demand from weavers is extremely small.

From the point of view of prices, the tendency is firm. It can be said, however, that slump conditions prevail in the linen industry, and the fact must be faced that if demand does not improve in the near future flax-spinners will be involved in serious difficulties. It is doubtful whether such an uptake in demand is possible with raw material at its present high level. The root cause of the matter is the high price of linen compared with cotton, a discrepancy which is directing demand on the latter.

Spinners find it impossible to reduce their terms for flax yarn since current quotations actually mean a loss of 100 francs per paquet. In the opinion of "Le Nord," the problem is really to find a method of producing cheaper supplies of good quality flax.

Lille Cloth.—The situation in the weaving end is exceedingly depressed.

BURIED MAN FOUND DEAD.

Although rescue squads worked feverishly throughout the night and until yesterday evening, they failed to rescue alive Samuel Gardner, a Woolwich Borough Council workman, who was buried beneath 30 feet of earth following a subsidence in Rockcliffe Gardens Recreation Grounds, Plumstead, on Thursday afternoon.

Yesterday evening the body of Gardner, who was 39 and lived at Barnfield Road, Plumstead, was recovered.

FIGHT WITH ARMED BANDIT.

RAND CAFE STRUGGLE.

A 65-year-old man, Mr. C. Geritis, had a desperate fight with an armed bandit who tried to rob him in his Johannesburg cafe and succeeded in saving the £30 in cash in his till.

He was sitting at a table near the counter writing a letter when a car drove up with three men in it. One of them, the driver, remained in the car with the engine running, and the other two got out and entered the cafe.

They went up to the table where one produced a revolver and ordered Mr. Geritis to raise his hands. Describing the incident later, the victim of the hold-up said.

"I struck the hand in which he was holding the gun upwards and grabbed hold of him. I pulled him down and he fell.

"He was astonished and just sat on the ground still holding the revolver which was then pointing at the ceiling. Then I grabbed hold of him again and I heard his companion say, "Hit him, Hit him!"

"I kicked him and he broke away. I went to the door to call for assistance, but the man with the gun hit me on the head with it twice."

Both men then ran out of the cafe and jumped into the car, which made off at a high speed.

Mr. Geritis was found by neighbours bleeding profusely. He was taken to hospital, but after treatment was discharged.

BACK TO WAR-TORN CANTON.

Because he played truant from school, a Chinese boy has been ordered to make the long journey back to China, and has lost his chance of settling down in Australia.

With his parents living in North Sydney and himself left in Canton, Lee Nai Bun neglected his studies and solemnly promised that if allowed to join his parents he would reform and attend school regularly. He was then taken to Australia, but the old habit crept back to him and soon he was "mitching" in order to go out bird-nesting and to indulge in youthful pastimes with other lads.

This was too much for the immigration officials, whose patience became exhausted. They interviewed the parents and school officials, and finally decided to cancel Lee's permit.

Now he has to make the long lone journey back to war-shattered Canton.

DID WHAT 150,000 COULDN'T.

Five undergraduates by a clever hoax managed to do what 150,000 other people wanted to do but couldn't.

When a new cruise liner called at Melbourne large crowds tried to visit her, but only a privileged few with official passes were allowed to inspect the ship.

The undergraduates dressed in academic robes, hired one of the city's most exclusive saloon cars, and drove to Port Melbourne. Impressed by the car, the guards on the pier made no attempt to challenge them.

Temporarily halted at the gangway by ship's officers, who asked to see their passes, the undergrads produced an elaborately printed invitation to the opening of Union House at the University the day before. They were all bowed on to the ship, shown round the vessel, and later invited to the official luncheon on board.

CAPE AND MIDGET CAR RACING.

Midget car racing, already popular in Britain and America, will shortly be seen in South Africa.

A few weeks ago two of these little cars arrived, and recently four more were unloaded from the cargo steamer Kattegat.

It is expected that local men will be employed as drivers owing to the expense of importing "crack" drivers from overseas. They will have to teach themselves the "tricks of the trade," as no one in South Africa knows anything about this type of sport.

CHAMPION ROAD BILLIARDIST.

Norman Shaw, the Australian professional runner, is now the proud owner of the title "world champion road billiardist." He won this strange distinction by pushing a billiard ball along three and a half miles of roadway from Penrith (New South Wales) to Kingswood in 40 minutes.

"Even Walter Lindrum hasn't got a feat like this to his credit," he said after his triumph.

Six other "billiardists" competed. Each had to propel a billiard ball by means of a billiard cue. If the ball rolled into a ditch replacement on the edge of the road was permitted.—Press Association Foreign Special.

SURPRISE FOR FOOTBALLERS.

A wartime football match has had a sequel twenty years after, when three surprised ex-soldiers were presented with medals in commemoration of the event.

In 1918 the 16th Battalion met the 14th Battalion of the Australian Expeditionary Force in a game of football. Captain V. Kettering, of the former battalion, was so pleased when his men won that he promised to buy medals in London and present them to the players. Returning from leave with the medals he found three South Australian members of the team had returned to their country. He lost all trace of them, and put the medals in a drawer, where they were forgotten.

Captain Kettering died. This year his widow found the medals and sent them to the Secretary of the 16th Battalion Club.

He traced the three soldiers, but said nothing until the annual reunion of the members, at which they were present. Then, twenty years after, the three men were surprised to receive the medals for a match they had almost forgotten.

BAN ON ROME SHOEBLACKS.

The 300 shoeblacks of Rome are in despair, having been informed that they will not be allowed to follow their trade much longer.

During Herr Hitler's visit to Rome the shoeblacks were given a holiday on the ground that their activities were not dignified. They have now been summoned to their Union headquarters and told that they will be medically examined. Doctors will decide the best type of work for them.

TO FUNERAL FROM SING SING.

A funeral service was taking place in St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church, Jerome Street, New York. An 18-years-old youth sat in the front pew quietly sobbing. Either side of him sat two men in uniform, to one of whom the youth was secured by handcuffs.

The youth was James Sullivan, and he had been brought from Sing Sing prison, where he recently began serving a sentence of 75 years for second degree murder. The funeral service was that of his mother, Mrs. James Sullivan, senior, who had died of apoplexy at the age of 43.

Sullivan had been brought from the prison that morning. He was taken to his home, and in the house knelt beside his mother's coffin. He sobbed continuously, and after a few minutes his father assisted him to a chair.

Later, with his guards, he was driven to the church for the High Requiem Mass. After the service he was driven back to the prison, while his mother was buried in a nearby cemetery.

Sullivan had originally been sentenced to death, but the Court of Appeals quashed the sentence and allowed him to plead guilty to a charge of second degree murder.

THE BRIGHTON HOT COALS CASE.

SIEGE OF AIRMAN'S HOUSE.

FLYING SQUADS ON SCENE.

A big crowd on Friday night surrounded the home in Picton Street, Brighton, of Leading Aircraftman Stanley Parrack, who was fined £25 at Brighton for making his son Dennis, aged seven, pick coals from the fire as a punishment.

There were cries of "Lynch him! Lynch him!" Police in four flying squad cars were sent to control the crowd. A report that Parrack had arrived at his home in a taxi-cab brought hundreds of people to the cross-roads near the house.

The crowd later formed a semi-circle outside the house, which has no back entrance.

POLICE CHIEF ARRIVES.

When a taxi-cab drove to the house just before 10 o'clock the crowd, thinking that Parrack was about to leave, surged forward and boohed. The taxi-cab contained two plain-clothes policemen.

A little later the Deputy Chief Constable of Brighton arrived to take command of the situation. He was accompanied by three inspectors, three sergeants, and about 20 constables. A police van waited in a side street.

By this time the crowd numbered considerably more than 1,000. Hundreds of people stood in the road at the back of the house. Not a light showed from the windows.

Policemen moved away dozens of cars and bicycles that had been left in roads leading to Picton Street.

On Wednesday the Air Minister, Sir Kingsley Wood, will be asked in the Commons by Mr. T. Kennedy (Socialist, Kircaldy) a question regarding the advisability of Parrack's continuance in the R.A.F.

STRUCK BY FALLING PLANK

INQUEST ON BELFASTMAN.

A verdict of accidental death was returned by the Belfast coroner (Mr. T. E. Alexander) at the inquest touching the death of Thomas Gildea, aged 47, a labourer, of Channing Street, who met his death while at work at Richardson's Chemical Manure Co. Ltd., Short Strand, on Monday last.

Robert Skelton, foreman, said they were demolishing the wooden casing of a tank. He placed Gildea on the ground floor to ensure that no one was injured by the falling planks. He called to Gildea and got an "all clear" answer. A plank was released and witness then heard a shout. He went down and found Gildea had been injured.

Henry M'Closkey, May Street, said planks were being put through a hole and slid down a distance of 25 feet. Gildea had given an "all clear" answer and after a plank had been released, witness heard him shout. On looking through the hole witness saw the plank lying on Gildea.

Bernard Hughes, Foundry Street, said he saw Gildea reach for a rope, which was to be placed on the plank for dragging purposes, and the plank came down and struck him on the head.

Mr. Alexander said medical evidence showed death was due to fracture of the skull and laceration of the brain. He said it was his experience of Messrs. Richardson's that they took every precaution for the safety of their workmen, and he thought every caution had been exercised in that case. It was purely an accident. He expressed sympathy with the relatives.

Mr. H. J. Catchpole, who appeared for the firm, said Gildea was well thought of and during the past 11 years he had been picked for any work which required a little more than the ordinary intelligence.

Mr. George H. Leitch, replying for the next-of-kin, said it was ironical that Gildea should have met his death in that manner, as he had been placed to protect others from meeting a similar fate.

A.R.P. FILMS SHOWN,

ALONG WITH 'HELL'S ANGELS'

BELFAST CINEMA PRESENTATION.

Air-raid precaution films and a preview of "Hell's Angels," next week's attraction at the Imperial Picture House, were screened at that cinema yesterday.

The programme was presented by the Ulster Cinematograph Theatres, Ltd., in co-operation with the St. John Ambulance Brigade, officers of the R.A.F. and the Army units, and members of the Corporation and the police force being present.

Prior to the filming, Mr. A. W. Mann, A.R.P. Officer, said that at the end of the year it was expected that in Northern Ireland there would be 1,000 trained instructors and about 5,000 of the general public. That was not enough, however, as they needed 10,000 instructors and 100,000 people.

Two films, produced by the St. John Ambulance Brigade, showed how precautions should be taken during air raids, the type of equipment necessary, and the methods of combating poison gas.

"Hell's Angels" has every justification for its claim to be the greatest spectacle of war-time aviation. It reveals the exploits of both Allied and German airmen during the war, and the highlights of the film are the amazingly realistic battles thousands of feet above the ground. The cast is headed by the late Jean Harlow, Ben Lyon, and James Hall.

THE FREETHINKERS' CONGRESS.

"SYMPATHY WITH PROTESTS."

The Home Secretary, in reply to protests against the holding in London of the International Congress of the World Union of Freethinkers, writes:—

"While I appreciate that the holding of such a congress in a Christian country arouses resentment, it must be remembered that this country has a long and cherished tradition of liberty and toleration which in these times is more than ever important to maintain."

This passage occurs in a letter from Sir Samuel Hoare to Captain A. H. Ramsay, M.P., who in May sent the Home Secretary a resolution passed at a meeting attended by some 70 members of Parliament and representatives of the Christian Defence Movement.

The resolution urged that the proposed congress, if held in this country in September, as announced, was likely to cause a serious breach of the peace.

Sir Samuel, in his reply to Captain Ramsay, comments that he has already stated that "I should strongly deplore the holding here of a congress of this character, and I am in the fullest sympathy with the feelings which have promoted the protests against the holding of this congress, the organisers of which hold and propagate beliefs repugnant to the sentiment of the great mass of Christian people in this country.

"But the request made to me that I should take steps to prevent the holding of the congress pre-supposes that I have the necessary powers for this purpose.

NOT WITHIN HIS POWER.

"In this country with its free institutions, it is not within the power of the Home Secretary to grant or to withhold permission for the holding of a meeting, and no ban on this congress purporting to be imposed by me would have any legal validity. The law, of course, provides means of dealing with unlawful assemblies or with conduct likely to lead to breaches of the peace; but there is nothing contrary to our law in the assembly in conference of a body of Atheists and Freethinkers.

"The congress, I understand, is to be held in private, admission being obtained by ticket. I should be truly sorry to think that there is any foundation for the suggestion that some of those who are opposed to the holding of this congress may show their resentment by conduct likely to lead to breaches of the peace. I have every confidence that such unlawful conduct as a means of opposing the congress will not be countenanced or encouraged by the leaders of the Christian Churches and organisations.

"Of course the law relating to conduct likely to lead to breaches of the peace applies also to the organisers of the congress and its participants, and if either they or their opponents indulge in conduct calculated so to inflame public opinion as to lead to breaches of the peace the police will have no alternative but to take such steps as may be necessary for the preservation of public order."

There is also apprehension that the congress, though purporting to be a Congress of Freethinkers, may be in fact intended to further Communist aims. Sir Samuel comments he has no evidence that the congress is being organised as a means of Communist propaganda.

SCOTLAND-NETHERLANDS.

AN INTERESTING RECORD FOUND.

An interesting discovery was made recently by the British Consul-General at Rotterdam. Among the old archives he found a volume of the court book of the Conservator of Scots Privileges in the Netherlands for the period 1719-1740.

From at least the 15th century the Scots enjoyed trading privileges in the Netherlands, and the office of Conservator was created to guard these privileges and to maintain order. The Conservator exercised judicial functions over the Scots at the staple port, conducted all negotiations about trade, and sometimes acted as agent of the King in the low countries.

The volume has been deposited in the General Register House, Edinburgh.

WILL BE DONE "TACTFULLY"

UNDYING GRIEVANCE AGAINST I.F.A.

PARIS, Saturday.—The question of Irish-born footballers playing for English clubs came up for discussion at the 64th annual congress of the International Football Federation here to-day.

It was decided that the Football Association of Eire should tactfully be asked to be represented on the International Football Association Board, on which the Irish F.A. is already represented.

Eire says that the Irish F.A. cannot claim to represent all Ireland.

The executive met the Eire representatives yesterday and promised to take steps to clear up the situation. Meanwhile it is learned that Eire intends to attempt to meet the Irish F.A. in order to try and reach some agreement.

Eire points out what she describes as the unfairness of the present situation—whereby players born in Northern Ireland and now with English clubs cannot be used by Eire owing to the attitude of the English F.A., but, at the same time, Northern Ireland uses some Eire-born players for international matches.

The congress was attended by representatives of more than 30 countries, including Franco Spain and Republican Spain.—Reuter.

ENGLISH SIGNING-ON SEASON.

STEIN FOR NEW BRIGHTON.

M'GARRY GOES TO BARNSLEY.

New Brighton yesterday signed James Stein, outside-left, who has been with Burnley for the last two seasons. Stein helped Dunfermline Athletic to win promotion to First Division of the Scottish League before joining Everton in 1928.

While with Everton he gained First and Second Division championship medals and a F.A. Cup winners' medal in 1933.

Reginald Smith, 22-year-old inside-right, of Wolverhampton Wanderers, yesterday joined Tranmere Rovers, who paid a substantial fee for his transfer.

Smith formerly played for Bristol City and Colchester. He stands 5ft. 9½in. and weighs 11st. 7lb. He made several appearances in the Wolves senior eleven last season. Smith is Tranmere's sixth close season capture.

Derby County have transferred George Hannah, half-back, to Port Vale, and may also transfer Sydney Wileman (right-half) and George Merritt (inside-forward), who have been sought by the same club.

Dan M'Garry, outside-left of Morton, signed for Barnsley yesterday. M'Garry joined Morton three seasons ago from the junior club Arthurlie. He is 5ft. 8in. in height and weighs 11st.

THE EXHIBITION TOURNEY.

CELTIC BEAT HEARTS.

Celtic qualified to meet Aberdeen or Everton in the final of the Empire Exhibition football tournament by defeating Hearts 1-0 in last night's semi-final at Ibrox Park.

Hearts played excellent football, and on play ought to have secured an early lead. A header from Black struck the crossbar, and although Briscoe actually had the ball in the net, the point was disallowed through Walker standing off side. Celtic only had a brief turn of attack.

Half-time—No score.

Celtic had a very lucky break when after five minutes Black was left clear with only Kennaway to beat. Instead of taking time and placing the ball he shot hard at Kennaway, who saved grandly at the expense of a corner.

Celtic had a period of attack, during which Dykes played magnificently. Robson was taken off for attention for five minutes.

ANOTHER BIG CROWD

AT ULSTER POLICE CARNIVAL.

MINISTER TAKES SALUTE.

SPLENDID PROGRAMME.

One of the largest crowds ever seen at Balmoral enjoyed to the full the Friday night sports programme of the R.U.C. carnival. Fortunately the rain kept off until the programme was almost completed, and there was little inconvenience as a result of the showers.

A distinguished party occupied the grand stand, including members of the Judiciary and the Government of Northern Ireland.

The tattoo was presented with the same success as on the previous night, and all its phases were timed with clockwork precision. The staging of this pageant is a remarkable piece of organisation, and all concerned with its direction are deserving of the highest praise. To say that the public were enthusiastic is a mild way of expressing their sentiments. They were thrilled by the magnitude and vividness of each and every display, and it was remarked that the 50 men of the Royal Irish Rifles, representing the South African period and looking real veterans of the battle line, came in for a special cheer.

The salute was taken by the Rt. Hon. J. M. Andrews, D.L., Minister of Finance, and, as before, the proceedings concluded with the National Anthem.

The sports programme had many events of interest. A very good performance was put up by Pte. Delaney, Welch Regiment, who won the 100 yards Army (N.I.D.) championship in 10 4-5secs. The high jump attracted special attention and resulted in a victory for Bert Shillington (Willowfield T.H.) who, off 6in., crossed the bar at 6ft. This was Shillington's first appearance since his return from the Empire Games in Sydney as one of the members of the Northern Ireland team.

The two-mile team race was run in conjunction with that for the Northern Ireland Army District Challenge Cup. This brought D. Canavan, of Ballydrain, the three-mile Ulster champion and the winner of many races into a challenge which was one of the most exciting ever witnessed in Ulster. Canavan took the lead at an early stage of the race, with B. Gilbert (Northants) his nearest rival. The Ballydrain man seemed all over the winner, but 150 yards from the tape the soldier put up a wonderful sprint and secured the verdict amidst a scene of tremendous enthusiasm. This success gives him also the Northern Ireland District Championship. The best team was that of East Antrim, with Ballydrain second, and Northants third.

The five-mile cycle championship of Northern Ireland emerged in an exciting tussle for premier honours, the winner being F. W. Templeton (North Belfast), with Bertie Hughes (Ballymoney) second and Samuel Sargent (Northern) third. The winner's time was 13min. 17sec.

Details:—

100 Yards Championship Northern Ireland Army District, for N.I.D. Challenge Cup and medal—1, Pte. Delaney (1st Bn. Welch Regiment); 2, Pte. Dykes (2nd Bn. Northants Regiment); 3, Rfm. Ellingham (Depot, Royal Ulster Rifles). Time, 10⅘secs.

Five Miles Cycle Championship—1, F. W. Templeton (North Belfast); 2, Bertie Hughes (Ballymoney); 3, Samuel Sergeant (Northern); 13mins. 17secs.

Lap Prize—Victor Piggott (Belvoir).

880 Yards Flat handicap—1, A. G. Baldwin (East Lancs. Regiment), 57 yards; 2, W. J. M'Neill (R.U.C.), 67 yards; 3, W. L. Andrews (N.B.H.), 70 yards. Time, 1min. 48⅗secs.

Two Miles Team Race—1, East Antrim, 33 points; 2, Ballydrain, 41 points; 3, Northants Regiment, 46 points. Individual placings—1, B. Gilbert (Northants); 2, D. Cannavan (Ballydrain Harriers); 3, A. Workman (East Antrim). The Northern Ireland Army District championship was run simultaneously, and Gilbert, therefore, won the Championship Cup.

One Mile Cycle Women's Handicap—1, Rea Taggart (Maryland), 60 yards; 2, Margaret E. M'Nerlin (Windsor), 10 yards; 3, Ena M'Clure (Maryland), 80 yards; 2mins. 45 3-5secs.

Tug-of-war Final (catchweights) — Five Corners, Ballyclare, beat Enniskillen R.U.C. by two pulls to nil.

Throwing the Javelin, handicap—1, Constable J. Green (R.U.C.), 25ft.—169ft. 9ins.; 2, D. Draffin (Queen's), 25ft.—156ft.; 3, G. Gregg (Queen's), 15ft.—152ft. 6ins.

Half-mile Cycle Scratch, novices—First Heat—1, C. J. A. Sloan (North Belfast); 2, Noel Murray (Windsor). Time, 1min. 18secs. Second heat—1, W. J. Adams (R.U.C.); 2, W. M'Clatchy (Northern). Time, 1min. 16secs. Third heat—1, T. H. Girvan (Maryland Wheelers); 2, J. M'Cluskey (Belvoir). Time, 1min. 15 2-5secs. Final—1, Adams; 2, Girvan; 3, M'Clatchy. Time, 1min. 15 3-5secs.

50 Yards Handicap, boys 5-10, to sons of policemen—1, E. Millar (Musgrave Street); 2, R. Lamont (Roden Street); 3, J. Clarke (Antrim Road). Girls, 5-10—1, Nora Doyle (Roden Street); 2, H. Lamont (Roden Street); 3, Eileen Murphy (Musgrave Street).

120 Yards Ladies' Handicap—First heat—1, E. F. Clulow (Co.-op.); 2, F. M'Comb (B.R.A.). Time, 13 1-5secs. Second heat—1, E. Parke (North B.H.); 2, G. Donegan (N.B.H.). Time, 13 3-5secs. Third heat—1, S. Thompson (N.B.H.); 2, J. M'Roberts (Co.-op.). Time, 13 3-5secs. Fourth heat—1, M. Lockhart (N.B.H.); 2, R. Kenning (N.B.H.). Time, 13 2-5secs.

Final—1, Clulow; 2, Parke; 3, Lockhart. Time, 13secs.

The highest prices recorded for sows was £13 10s and for boars £4 13s. Supplies were on a level with those of last week.

IDEAL WIFE DOES NOT DOMINEER.

NOR WASTE 'HEAR HEAR'

EXPERTS ON BIG SUBJECT.

"HOW TO BE HAPPY THOUGH. . ."

A Nottinghamshire miner's wife has just been chosen out of 5,000 other women as "the most representative British housewife," and once more husbands all over the country have begun asking each other "What are the qualities of the ideal wife?"

The Nottinghamshire wife is Mrs. F. M. Millward, of Mansfield, and she was chosen because she had had six children, had been married 21 years, and was a wonderful "Budgeteer," and was really happy.

Mrs. Millward, who is a member of the Women's Institute, of the Women's Section of the British Legion, and of a choral society, thinks it is a fatal mistake for married women to have no interests outside their home.

More has been written and said upon the subject of the ideal wife in the last few years than upon almost any other subject.

Mr. Robert Boothby, Conservative M.P. for Aberdeen and Kincardine, for example, warned bachelors not to marry any girl until she had proved she could cook, while Mrs. Dobbin Crawford, a Liverpool surgeon, urged that a man and woman should marry for love, should be of the same social scale, the same age, and interested in each other's pursuits and occupations.

"CORRECT HIM SOMETIMES."

Viscountess Astor, M.P., thinks a good wife should not be afraid to correct her husband sometimes.

"Every woman knows," she told a gathering of wives at Nottingham, "that no matter how much you love your husband, you don't say 'Hear, hear' all the time. Love him, but correct him."

Mr. Lewis Casson, the actor-husband of Miss Sybil Thorndike, thinks it is an excellent thing for a married woman to have a job, believing that "too much domesticity is bad for all."

Mrs. M. M. Bear, founder of the Wayfarer Guild, thinks domestic servants make excellent wives because of their training, and told a meeting of the Guild that, though young men might walk out with factory girls or shop assistants, when they wanted to settle down they chose domestic servants as wives.

A nagging wife is sometimes a blessing in disguise in the opinion of Dr. Josial Oldfield, who told a meeting of the Kennington and Lambeth Brotherhood, "Many a lazy man has been nagged into activity and fame by a wife who has made his home life so unbearable that he has had perforce to do something to regain his male supremacy."

INTERESTING POINTERS.

One of the most complete sets of rules on how to succeed as a wife was given by Dr. Ethel Dukes, woman psychologist, in a recent lecture at Friends' House, Euston Road. Among he do,'s and don't's were:—

DON'T

Domineer over your husband.

Criticise him in the presence of others.

DO.

Settle financial problems before marriage, and have a personal allowance of your own.

Have patience, courage, commonsense, and a sense of humour.

Have the faculty of forgiveness.

Keep your mind and body young.

"LET DOYLE PROVE HIMSELF."

HARVEY AND TITLE BID.

RESENTS TOMMY FARR'S OFFER.

Tommy Farr's £2,000 a side, winner-take-all, offer to defend his British and Empire heavyweight championships against Jack Doyle has roused Len Harvey into action, the cruiserweight champion indignantly protesting against Doyle being considered for a championship fight.

"Let Doyle prove himself before he is allowed to fight for the highest honour in British boxing," said Harvey to a reporter. "Farr has repeatedly ignored my offers to fight him, and yet he says he is unable to get a contest in this country, and is wasting his time.

"I repeat that I will fight Farr for £1,000 a side, not on a winner-take-all basis, because that would not be allowed in any case, and I am ready as soon as he says the word. That offer goes for Doyle as well."

Meanwhile all three men are in training, Doyle at Slough, Farr at Blackheath, and Harvey at his home, but with the exception of Farr, who has engagements in America to fulfil later in the summer, a fight for them is not in prospect in the immediate future.

"WINNER-TAKE-ALL" STIPULATION.

Doyle is willing to accept Farr's offer of a side stake of £2,000 for a title fight, but wants the purse to be divided on a 60-40 basis, the major portion to go to the winner.

Farr, however, will not hear of a sharing of the purse.

"The winner must take the lot," he said. "My £2,000 is there waiting to be put down whenever Doyle is ready, and if he thinks so much about his chance of beating me, he should not cavil at my stipulation."

"Gains is prepared to fight Farr for the championship for £1,000 aside," his London manager told a reporter. "If the British champion does not want the match, then this offer holds good for Jack Doyle on a winner-take-all basis."

ROY BOON IN LIMELIGHT.

BRUSSELS, Saturday.—Roy Boon, the Chatteris boxer, who recently surprised the boxing world by beating Jimmy Walsh, the British lightweight champion, is matched against Raymond Renard, lightweight champion of Belgium, at Harringay Arena on June 14. The fight will be over eight rounds, and is on the Ben Foord-Eddie Phillips programme.—Press Association Foreign Special.

M'GRORY-CAPLAN TITLE FIGHT.

The British Boxing Board of Control have approved the purse submitted by Mr. A. M. Creamer, promoter, of Glasgow, to stage the fight between Johnny M'Grory, holder, and Benny Caplan, contender, for the featherweight championship of Great Britain and the British Empire.

ROWING IN DUBLIN.

DRAWS FOR TRINITY REGATTA.

The draws for the Dublin University Boat Club Regatta on June 9 and 10 reveal that in the Isthmian Cup, senior fours, Bann meet University College, Dublin, in the opening heat. In the Lady Elizabeth Cup, for second senior fours, Bann meet Drogheda in the opening heat. Belfast Commercial meet Drogheda in heat D of the Chapelizod Cup for junior fours. Methodist College have as opponents University College, Dublin, the only other entrants, in the Junior Cup for under age fours, and in the Islandbridge Cup for maiden fours, they are drawn against Dublin University Boat Club.

FIRST TEST TEAM.

THIRTEEN CALLED UP TO NOTTINGHAM.

ONLY ONE FAST BOWLER.

OMISSION OF LEYLAND.

The England team to meet Australia in the first Test match at Nottingham, beginning next Friday, will be chosen from the following thirteen players:—

W. R. HAMMOND (Gloucestershire), captain.

K. FARNES (Essex).

J. C. CLAY (Glamorgan).

BARNETT (Gloucestershire).

VERITY (Yorkshire).

HUTTON (Yorkshire).

AMES (Kent).

WRIGHT (Kent).

COMPTON, D. (Middlesex).

EDRICH (Middlesex).

HARDSTAFF (Nottinghamshire).

PAYNTER (Lancashire), and

POPE, G. H. (Derbyshire).

The only notable absentee is Leyland, the Yorkshire left-hand batsman, but he, like Goddard, is said to be unfit, though eight wickets for 63 runs against Hampshire on Friday hardly sustains this statement.

The newcomers to Australian Test cricket in the selected 13 are Clay, Hutton, Wright, Compton, Edrich and Pope, though Clay played against South Africa in England in 1935, and Hutton appeared against New Zealand. Barnett and Paynter have both played in Tests in Australia, but not in England.

J. C. Clay, who heads the bowling averages this season, and Paynter are the "veterans" of the side. Clay is 40 and Paynter will be 37 in November.

In spite of this the England team will probably be one of the youngest ever fielded against the Australians. Eight of the 13 selected are under 30—Farnes (26), Barnett (27), Hutton (21), Wright (23), Compton (20), Edrich (22), Hardstaff (26) and George Pope (27).

Hammond is 34, while wicket-keeper, Ames, is 32 and Verity, one of Yorkshire's two representatives, is 33. The average age of the 13 players is a little over 28.

A SPINNING ATTACK.

The selectors, delaying long over their final choices, on Friday night ultimately decided upon a kind of general utility team (writes Howard Marshall in the "Daily Telegraph and Morning Post").

The unexpected appearance of J. C. Clay, the 40-year-old Glamorgan off-break bowler, and the fact that Farnes is the only genuine fast bowler included, makes it plain that our fortune is to depend on a spinning attack.

Just how the selectors will juggle with the bowlers at their disposal we cannot do more than guess. A deal depends on the weather. With rain in the offing the selectors might go the whole hog and play Wright, Clay and Verity.

It is a long while at any rate, since England took the field with only one fast bowler. Perhaps the selectors argue that, if the weather is dry, we shall never finish the match in four days, anyhow, whereas it is just as well to have plenty of spin available in case the wicket is wet.

Wright certainly bowled his way into recognition during the trial match. His leg breaks are bowled at medium pace, and, with the googly and top spinner in reserve—not the off-break—Wright can be very awkward. Pope is a most useful all-rounder, a capable batsman and a lively fast-medium bowler, while Clay delivers his slow off-spin with mature wisdom and control.

We are then to have a spinning attack, though it is difficult to sort out the possible permutations and combinations of the nominated bowlers. The choice of batsmen is equally perplexing, with Barnett as a peculiarly awkward piece of the puzzle. Barnett played grandly in Australia, and on his form during the last M.C.C tour he should be chosen without question. Possibly the selectors will put him in with Hutton and drop Edrich to No. 3, or put Barnett in first wicket or give him a chance at No. 5 instead of Compton.

BATTING REASONABLY GOOD.

There seems to be two facts to guide us through this confusion. The first is that Hutton and Edrich established themselves in the trial, so why disturb them? The second is that Barnett strongly dislikes going in lower down. This leaves us with Paynter in Wyatt's place at No. 3.

Whichever way the batting is switched about, it looks reasonably good. Some of us may still feel that there is something wrong about an England team without Maurice Leyland, but on form he 's out of the running.

There will be argument about the bowling. Many people would have had Capt. J. W. A. Stephenson in the side, and I gather he is fighting fit, with his Achilles tendon as sound as ever. Others would have plumped for Pollard or Smith (J.) or F. R. Brown or Nichols. The alternatives are many, but frankly I doubt whether it makes much difference.

We have no outstanding bowler like O'Reilly, and the selectors have, therefore, given us variety since the quality is so level.

There are, I think, the makings of a most businesslike team here, and I for one still believe that England's chances are tolerably good.

WHAT AUSTRALIA THINKS.

SYDNEY, Saturday.—Surprise at the selection of J. C. Clay and the omission of Maurice Leyland are the chief reactions here to the choice of the 13 men from whom England's Test team will be selected, but on the whole the combination is considered to be the strongest that England can produce.

The choice of Hammond as captain is everywhere applauded. The "Sydney Sun" puts a fresh angle on the selection by heading a story, "Selectors untied the knot of the old school tie."

A. F. Kippax expressed surprise at the omission of Leyland when interviewed by the Press Association. "England may miss Leyland," he said. "I would have chosen him and Paynter as the most likely menaces to O'Reilly."

M. A. Noble expressed surprise that England could afford to drop Leyland. "Otherwise," he remarked, "it seems a good combination."

The side is acclaimed by the "Melbourne Herald" to be the strongest combination in England. "The English selectors are to be congratulated on judiciously blending youth with experience and spin with speed" says the paper.—Press Association Special.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS.

The Test trial at Lord's was drawn. W. R. Hammond made 107, and England led the Rest by 79 runs. On batting again the Rest made runs freely, Fishlock being not out 109 at the close of play. There were many missed catches during the day.

W. R. Hammond, England's new captain, reached his thousand runs for the season. He is the third man to do so.

Lancashire remain at the top of the championship table, but at one time they took an embarrassing number of Sussex wickets at Preston, embarrassing because a first-innings lead would have reduced their average.

The Australians beat Gloucestershire by ten wickets, none of the county batsmen except the captain, B. O. Allen, being able to stay long in face of W. J. O'Reilly's deadly bowling.

Yorkshire gained first-innings points against Hampshire by the narrow margin of 14 runs. Leyland's bowling was the decisive factor, his eight wickets costing him less than eight runs apiece.

Worcestershire, for whom Jackson and Howorth bowled admirably on a wicket suited to their talents, beat Essex by 60 runs. Jackson's seven wickets cost only 44 runs, and his analysis for the whole match was remarkably good.

Somerset's decision to put Kent in first was rewarded by first-innings points. Gimblett, scoring his first century of the season, made nearly half their runs. Kent's bowling, without the aid of Wright, was revealed as inadequate.

P. Cranmer, captain of Warwickshire, took charge of the situation against Surrey when his side made a bad start in their second innings. Aided by errors in the field, Warwickshire won by five wickets.

A recovery by the later Middlesex batsmen in the second innings was insufficient to prevent Oxford University from winning. The University made the runs for the loss of eight wickets, a solid 60 by E. J. H. Dixon being the highest score.

S. AUSTRALIAN GIFT TO BELFAST

WAS SEEN BY PORT PIRIE RESIDENT

Four cases of South Australian tinned fruit are on their way to Belfast for the patients in the Ulster Hospital for Children and Women, Templemore Avenue, as the result of a photograph which appeared in the "Telegraph" some time ago.

The photograph was of some working girls taking gifts to the hospital. It appeared also in the "Weekly Telegraph," in which it was seen by Mr. Arthur Johnston, of 45 Wandearah Road, Solomontown, Port Pirie, South Australia.

The photograph made such a strong appeal to Mr. Johnston that his own gift is now on the way to the hospital.

MR. JOHNSTON'S LETTER.

In the course of a letter to the secretary he says:—

I don't know you, but this note will probably be a sufficient apology for not troubling about a formal introduction.

Some months ago a few copies of the "Belfast Telegraph" (weekly edition) were passed on to me, and in one of these was an illustration showing a few working girls taking their little gifts for the little patients in your hospital. As a result of that picture we are forwarding to you, per the Town Clerk of Belfast, four cases of South Australian tinned fruit, in the hope that it will afford a little fleeting pleasure to the little inmates of your institution.

The fruit should be with you a week or so after this letter arrives, and I trust the youngsters will have as much pleasure in sampling it as we have in sending it.

Miss K. N. Kelly, secretary of the hospital, in a letter to the "Telegraph," says:

We are grateful to' you for the picture which has had such happy results!

"The fruit will be very welcome," she adds, "and I am writing to Mr. Johnston to thank him on behalf of the patients for his kindly act."

STORM INTERFERES WITH FISHING.

POOR RESULTS AT ARDGLASS.

Storms have interfered with the Ardglass herring fishing, which this week may be described as almost blank. On Wednesday night the motor-drifter Family Friend lost 10 nets through rough weather. So far only one Scottish drifter is operating at Ardglass, and the results are not encouraging.

MID-WEEK CRICKET.

EXTENSION OF LEAGUE.

SECTION "B" FIXTURES.

A meeting was held on Friday evening in Mr. Abernethy's Studios, 29 High Street, Belfast, to arrange fixtures for Section B, the newly-formed section of the Mid-week League.

June 8—Duncairn v. Ulidia.

June 14—P.O. Engineers v. Ophir.

June 15—Ulidia v. St. Mary's.

July 7—Ulidia v. Ophir.

July 19—Ophir v. Willowfield.

July 20—Ulidia v. G.P.O., Duncairn v. St. Mary's.

July 26—P.O. Engineers v. St. Mary's.

July 27—G.P.O. v. Ophir.

August 1—P.O. Engineers v. Duncairn.

August 3—St. Mary's v. Willowfield.

August 8—Willowfield v. G.P.O.

August 10—P.O. Engineers v. Willowfield.

August 16—P.O. Engineers v. G.P.O.

It was agreed to play this competition under the same rules as the Mid-Week League now in existence, and that the entrance fee of 5s each team would also apply. The entire proceeds will, as usual, be devoted to charity.

The office-bearers for this competition will also be the same as the existing competition, viz.—President, Mr. T. Barbour, J.P.; chairman, Mr. Harold Abernethy; joint hon. secretaries, Messrs. Jas. C. Picken and R. B. May; hon. treas., Mr. R. B. May.

The secretaries of the above clubs have been asked to furnish the result of each match played by their team to Mr. R. B. May, 81 Marlborough Park South, Belfast, immediately after the conclusion of the match in order that a League table may be published every week.

Next season it is hoped to commence another League in this competition, as there are a number of clubs who would have joined this year but for a lengthy list of friendly fixtures already arranged.

GAMES IN EAST DOWN.

In East Down the Dixon Cup contests occupied enthusiasts this week. Downpatrick travelled to Bucks Head, where they dismissed the home eleven for 33, and they replied with 35 for four.

Shrigley, with two men short, could muster no more than 35 against Ballygawley, who knocked up 104.

Against Ardmoen, Ballee could scrape together no more than 47, Ardmoen having no difficulty in wiping off the arrears, stumps being pulled at 57 for one.

In the Ballee and District League the results were:—Downs II. 85; Rathdune, 37. Ballygawley II. (who had only six for a team), 17; Ballee II. 60.

The June Issue of Baird's Guide

The June number of Baird's North Irish Rail and Bus Guide is now on sale, and a tip-top twopence-worth it is. It contains just the information you require about the various transport services—Road, Rail, Sea, Air—and all the timetable alterations are so clearly indicated that "he who runs may read."

Further, there is a fund of useful facts about Fairs, Markets, and Half-holidays in provincial towns, and an important exclusive feature is an up-to-date Garrison Directory of the Northern Ireland District Command.

THE TRIGO CUP.

FIRST ROUND RESULTS

ATTRACT LARGE CELTIC CROWD.

Three heats in the first round of the Trigo Cup, in which North and South were represented, attracted one of the largest week-end attendances seen at the Celtic venue since the season commenced some three months ago. The racing, not only in this competition but during the entire programme, proved highly interesting and some exciting finishes were witnessed.

The honours of the three heats decided fell to the Dublin representative, Clonarney Town, who put up a spectacular performance when securing the fifth heat in the splendid time of 31.47 secs., just a shade outside three yards of the record held by Strong Mutton.

Starting joint-favourite with Spruce Lawn, this good-looking son of Town Mutton looked well out of it at the first turn when he was led by Horan's Finnside and Spruce Lawn, but showing a great turn of speed up the back straight he just managed to secure the rails at the final bend, and drawing away had four lengths to spare at the line.

SLIPAWAY'S GREAT RACE.

Slipaway, owned by Mr. J. Shaw, ran one of the best races of her career when annexing the third heat in a close-run race. Best away, the Moneyrea representative lost her position approaching the first turn and was passed by Mount Divis entering the back straight. Drawing level again the pair raced neck and neck to the second turn, where Mount Divis assumed command. Nearing the finish Slipaway came again, and showing a powerful turn of speed got up on the line to snatch a length victory from the Newry dog.

Roe Diver proved successful in the fourth heat, beating Shamra Valley by a neck in the poor time of 32.40secs. The Wexford representative looked like coming through at the final turn, but failed to stay and finished at the tail end of his field.

ULSTER SMALL-BORE RIFLE CLUBS.

THE FIRST ROUND RESULTS.

TWO DOUBLE POSSIBLES.

The weather conditions for the first round period were anything but favourable judging from the wet state of some cards returned. R.U.C. and East Belfast "A" met under shoulder to shoulder conditions at Clara Park range, the former winning by 21 points. Bessbrook with 1,178 ex 1,200 had ten points to spare in their match with the Argonauts, whilst C.I.Y.M.S. had nine points in hand over Springfield. East Belfast "B" sprang a surprise over Bangor "A," and the newly formed club from Poyntzpass had a walk-over Bangor "B," the latter not returning cards.

J. Sheriff (C.I.Y.M.S.) and W. Gray (Bessbrook) were the only shooters to return double possibles, and are to be congratulated. Clandeboye had a bye in this round.

R.U.C. 1,185 beat East Belfast "A" 1,164. R.U.C.—S. J. Poots 100, 99 (199); M. Reid 99, 99 (198); W. Seawright 99, 99 (198); R. Duncan 100, 98 (198); R. M'Clean 98, 98 (196); A. Holland 97, 99 (196)—total, 1,185 ex 1,200. East Belfast "A"—T. M'Millen 99, 97 (196); J. M'Kee 97, 97 (194); W. Bennett 96, 98 (194); J. M'Ewen 96 98 (194); W. W. Hewitt 97, 96 (193); A. M'Millen 95, 98 (193)—total, 1,164 ex 1,200.

Bessbrook 1,178 beat Argonauts 1,168. Bessbrook—W. Gray 100, 100 (200); J. Gray 100, 99 (199); D. Linton 100, 98 (198); S. Todd 98, 97 (195); J. Bradley 96, 98 (194); L. Brown 97, 95 (192)—total, 1,178 ex 1,200. Argonauts—J. B. Armstrong 100, 97 (197); J. A. Armstrong 100, 95 (195); W. A. Davis 98, 97 (195); A. D. Simpson 98, 97 (195); H. Courtney 98, 96 (194); J. E. Glendinning 97, 95 (192)—total 1,168 ex 1,200.

SPRINGFIELD BEATEN BY C.I.Y.M.S.

C.I.Y.M.S. 1,170 beat Springfield 1,161. C.I.Y.M.S.—J. Sheriff 100, 100 (200); J. J. Beasant 99, 98 (197); W. Pemberton 98, 97 (195); J. Magee 99, 96 (195); G. F. Webb 96, 97 (193), N. Hislop 94, 96 (190)—total 1,170 ex 1,200. Springfield—T. C. B. Henderson 100, 99 (199); J. J. Thompson 96, 98 (194); G. M'Carthy 98, 95 (193); S. Armstrong 99, 94 (193); T. Foote 95, 97 (192); J. Russell 94, 96 (190)—total, 1,161 ex 1,200.

East Belfast "B" 1,152 beat Bangor "A" 1,144. East Belfast "B"—W. Robinson 100, 97 (197); R. Cannavan 97, 95 (192); F. Kershaw 97, 94 (191); S. Roberts 98, 93 (191); E. M'Cormick 98, 93 (191); W. M'Kibbin 98, 92 (190)—total 1,152 ex 1,200. Bangor "A"—R. S. Craig 99, 99 (198); F. J. Greenaway 100, 95 (195); F. J. Harris 93, 98 (191); A. V. Jelly 95, 95 (190); R. Rankin 96, 94 (190); S. CHURCH WINDOWS DAMAGED

DISCOVERY AT MAGHERAFELT.

A stained-glass window in the Baptistry of St. Swithin's Church, Magherafelt, and one in the west nave, have been badly damaged by stone throwing, which is attributed to the action of boys.

The discovery was made by the sexton and the matter reported to the R.U.C. The windows are covered on the outside with strong wire protection, but this was not sufficient to withstand the force of the stones which were thrown—some of which were found a good distance up the inside of the church.

The windows were installed in the church at the time of its erection in April, 1858.

WITH BOY SCOUTS.

AIR SQUADRON AT CUBS' RALLY.

JACK SCOVELL'S ACCIDENT.

PROVINCIAL CENTRES BUSY.

In the early days of Scouting the Chief Scout was faced with the problem of dealing with thousands of small boys, under Boy Scout age, who wanted to join the Movement. During the years of the Great War experiments were made with Scout activities for these boys, and ultimately the new adventure of Wolf Cubbing was launched. The Scouts find romance in their tales of pioneers and backwoodsmen, and, in search of a similar romantic basis for Wolf Cubs, the Chief Scout thought of the story of Mowgli from Kipling's Jungle Books. Thus, for Cubs the imaginative Mowgli stories provide both romance and character training. Scouting is essentially an outdoor movement, and Cubmasters are therefore urged to get their Cubs out on every possible occasion. Evidence of Cub enthusiasm for outings was shown by the great number of Cubs (over 1,000 boys) who attended the Belfast Wolf Cub rally at Carrickfergus on Saturday last. The rally was one of the most successful events in the annals of Belfast Cubbing. One of the "high spots" of the rally was, of course, the visit of a squadron of Royal Air Force 'planes from Aldergrove. Despite the heavy arrangements which were entailed by the Empire Day Air Display at Aldergrove, Wing-Commander J. P. C. Wood generously permitted a special visit of the squadron to Carrickfergus. The thrill of the display given by the airmen was naturally all the more exciting by reason of the fact that it was a complete surprise to the Cubs, who had only a few moments' warning that the squadron was coming over.

SYMPATHY WITH IDEAL SCOUT.

To Patrol Leader Jack Scovell, 46 Dunluce Avenue, of the 54th Belfast (St. Thomas') Group, has befallen one of the greatest misfortunes possible to a Scout. In the course of his employment on Wednesday Jack had his right foot so badly crushed that it had to be amputated at the Royal Victoria Hospital. His Group Scoutmaster, Mr. J. Steen, upon being informed of the accident, was deeply moved, and voiced his heartfelt sympathy with the boy and his parents. Expressing the highest admiration for the unfortunate Patrol Leader, Mr. Steen described him as an ideal Scout whose thoughtfulness for others and his manly personality had endeared him to brother Scouts and officers alike. Patrol Leader Scovell has grown up in the Scout movement, having joined as a Cub and progressed steadily until he gained leadership of the Raven Patrol in the 54th. His splendid physique and undoubted ability in athletics singled him out in all Scout activities, and his affliction is brought home more keenly by the fact that he was to have competed in the R.U.C. Sports. He ran in the East Belfast relay races, and was a very enthusiastic player for his Troop eleven in the recently-formed Boy Scout Football League. Always a lover of the open air, Jack was planning to camp with others of his Troop during summer holidays, but unfortunately this is now no longer possible. It is to be hoped that he will in some way be enabled to resume at least part of his Scouting activities, and though the future circumstances will be a severe test of his splendid spirit, his Scoutmaster is confident that Jack will win through in a manner befitting such a splendid Scout as he has proved himself to be. He is the only son of Mr. A. H. Scovell, Civil Servant, former instructor to the Queen's O.T.C.

HEROIC CHINESE SCOUTS.

Officially recognised by the Boy Scouts International Committee only last October, the Boy Scouts of China have won the hearts of all their brother Scouts in other countries by their participation in humanitarian work among the Chinese people during the unfortunate happenings in that part of the world. Many of their heroic and self-sacrificing deeds are revealed from time to time as the war goes on, and it was with very real grief that Scouts in this country heard that a number of Boy Scouts and Girl Guides who were attending the wounded in repeated air raids on Canton were among the victims.

Reports from provincial centres indicate that scouting's forward movement in the Province is receiving the extra impetus customary during the summer months. In Muckamore the high growth of membership and exceptional enthusiasm is giving great satisfaction. Larne Scouts are also having a busy period and are in the throes of preparation for a rally with other organisations on Tuesday next. The present interest of the Warrenpoint Scouts lies in their new camp site at Mourne Park, Kilkeel, where a great deal of good pioneering work is being performed in the laying out of the camping ground.

Rover Scouts from all North Belfast Crews are to meet on Tuesday evening on the Ballysillan road to take part in a wide game in the nature of a treasure hunt on foot. Over 50 Rovers took part in a similar game last year and all agreed that it was the best District outing ever held. Good weather is hoped for, but the Rovers will assemble whatever the conditions.

Wolf Cub teams engaged in a five-a-side competition at the Oval football grounds last week, a competition which was also open to Life Boys. The football ability of the youngsters delighted the spectators, who saw a well-merited victory by the 12th Pack. Runners-up were 28th (St. Patrick's).

37TH PARENTS' NIGHT.

The 37th Belfast Group annual Parents' Night attracted a representative gathering. Rev. R. Rainey Workman (Assistant Chaplain to the Group) occupied the chair, and complimented the Group on their decision to run a Midnight Revue in aid of the Markham Colliery Disaster Fund. A striking address on the miners and their home life was appreciated by both parents and boys. During the evening A.C.M. Maitland received a handsome thumbstick for his work in connection with the ambulance team. Mrs. Workman congratulated the team and their instructor on winning the Rotary Ambulance Cup and the St. John Ambulance Cups. Competitions resulted as follows: Cubs under 10 years (O'Grady Drill Down)—1, Cub Hewitt; 2, Cub Lennox; Cubs over 10 years (O'Grady)—1, Sixer Maginn; Patrol Leaders and Seniors (O'Grady)—1, Patrol Leader Brown; 2, Patrol Leader Sloan; 3, Patrol Leader Turner; Cubs' Physical Drill—1, Sixer Maginn; 2, Second Lyttle; 3, Second Bell; Cubs Marching—1, Sixer Maginn; 2, Second Bell; 3, Second Johnston; Scouts (O'Grady)—1, Scouts Gardiner and M'Neice; 2, Scout Ferguson; Cup for best scout of the year, Scout M'Neice; Monthly Patrol Cup (Scouts), Lion Patrol (P.L. Sloan); Monthly Patrol Cup (Cubs), Yellow Six (Sixer Maginn); Individual Monthly Cup (Scouts), Second Reid (Hawks); Cubs, Gold Medal, Sixer Maginn; Pennant for the best patrol of the evening, Beaver Patrol (P.L. Turner). The presentation of prizes followed.

DERRYGORE HOUSE BURNED.

MAID'S TIMELY DISCOVERY.

OCCUPANTS ESCAPE BY LADDER.

Derrygore House, Enniskillen, the beautiful residence of Mr. H. Montgomery Irwin, J.P., was burned to the ground this morning.

About 2 o'clock one of the maids was awakened by a fit of coughing and discovered that her room was full of smoke. She immediately jumped out of bed and gave the alarm. When the servants ran to rouse Mr. and Mrs. Irwin in another part of the building they found that the flames had cut off the stairway.

Mr. Irwin was awakened, however, by the noise, and he and Mrs. Irwin were rescued by means of a ladder placed against their bedroom window. They were clad in their night attire and dressing-gowns.

So rapidly did the outbreak spread that before the police or Enniskillen Fire Brigade arrived the whole premises were in flames, and it was obvious that no efforts could save the building. Police, assisted by servants and other local people from adjoining cottages, managed to remove some furniture from the lower rooms, but everything else was destroyed, including all Mr. Irwin's books, private documents, etc. The damage is estimated at several thousands of pounds.

Derrygore House is beautifully situated on the shores of Lough Erne, nearly opposite Portora School, but is some miles from Enniskillen by road, and, consequently, some time elapsed between the discovery of the fire and the arrival of the fire brigade.

Head-Constable Thornton, R.U.C., was one of the earliest on the scene and he and other members of the police force worked hard, but unavailingly, to quell the outbreak.

HAND AND NAIL CARE.

EXPERT MANICURIST IN BELFAST.

A demonstration and interesting talk on "The Care of the Hands" was given by Miss Buckler, the well-known manicurist, in the Carlton Hall, Belfast, on Friday evening.

A manicure, she said, did not mean painted nails. It meant hand and nail care. She particularly recommended the use of Cutex Hand Cream—a delightful lilac perfumed preparation—to keep the hands soft and white.

The correct treatment of cuticles was demonstrated in careful detail, and helpful advice was given as to the choice of shades in nail polish, the newest in these being heather, laurel, clover, thistle, tulip and burgundy.

The demonstration was organised by Messrs. Johnson Bros., Duncrue Street, Belfast, who are the sole agents in Ireland for Cutex products.

TYRONE MAN DIES IN ENGLAND.

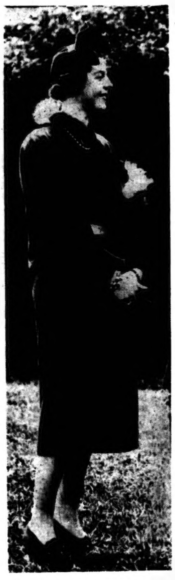
The death has taken place at Grange Estate, Stockton-on-Tees, of Mr. Hugh Kelly, a native of Dromore, County Tyrone, who was a former surveyor of taxes and held important posts in this capacity in Ireland and England.

The London Diary of an Ulsterwoman

THE incomparable Derby is over for another year. Some of us have seen dreams of wealth vanish in a few seconds; a few have made the price of a new ensemble for Ascot. The morning of Derby Day was the nicest for weeks, and though it poured almost immediately after the race, and a terrific gale started, the early sun tempted race-goers to don their summer frocks and suits, even though they carried mackintoshes, which these days can look so gossamer-like. As usual the meeting drew every type of person to the course.

Royal Attire.

There were Royalty and artisans, the very wealthy and the poor, all out for a day's sport. Queen Mary, regal and looking very happy, was there, attractive in an ensemble of a pale mauve shade with toque to tone. The Queen was in a soft shade of turquoise, a coat and frock of wool georgette, with the fur on the coat of a slightly deeper turquoise. The Duchess of Kent, now in half-mourning, came in a coat and skirt of white silk patterned in black, and a white straw hat with a hanging veil at one side. An angora coat of heather purple was worn by the Duchess of Gloucester over a printed silk frock, and her small felt hat was of heather tone.



LADY MARY STEWART.

The Marchioness of Londonderry, who will spend Whitsun at Mount-stewart, was there, wearing a black two-piece, silver fox skins trimming the hem of the coat. With her were Lord Londonderry and Lady Mary Stewart, the latter in navy. Lady Maureen Stanley, who thoroughly enjoys race meetings as befits the daughter-in-law of Lord Derby, was also present, wearing an ensemble of lime green and brown.

Derby Ball.

In the evening the King and Queen gave a "Derby Ball" at Buckingham Palace. There were almost a thousand guests, including practically all the members of the Royal Family. It did not begin until after ten, and for the first time in the Palace a ball breakfast was served. Usually such functions at the Palace end shortly after midnight, as they are for the most part State or Court events, but the Derby Ball was a private affair, and did not end until the early hours of the morning.

Many of the women wore frocks in pastel shades and ornately embroidered, and lots of crinolines were seen. Thus Lady Londonderry chose a crinoline frock of black net embroidered with multi-coloured flowers. Earlier in the evening she and Lord Londonderry had been the guests of the Italian Ambassador and Countessa Grandi at a dinner party given in the Italian Embassy in honour of the Prime Minister and Mrs. Chamberlain.

There had been all sorts of events, charity and otherwise, in connection with the race. Earlier in the week there had been a ball arranged on behalf of a London hospital, and which was attended by the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester. A junior committee had helped to organise it, and acting as chairman was the granddaughter of the Duke and Duchess of Abercorn, Miss Vivien Kenyon-Slaney. Amongst those who brought parties to the dance were the Marchioness of Dufferin, the Marchioness of Londonderry and Lady O'Neill.

Surprising Hobbies.

It is always interesting to find that people's hobbies are what one would least expect from them. It never ceases to be a surprise to me to find that some of the oldest and wealthiest families in the country have hobbies which are essentially practical, hobbies like sewing, embroidery, knitting. At an exhibition of needlework which opened in London this week Queen Alexandrine of Denmark showed some lovely work she has done. She has from time to time given specimens of her work to members of the Danish Royal House. Her daughter-in-law, Princess Ingrid, has a set of chairs covered with petit point done by the Queen, and to her son, Prince Knud, and his wife, Princess Caroline, the Queen gave a white linen bedspread which she made and embroidered in blue silk. The exhibition was organised by Denmark's Society for the Promotion of Home Crafts, of which the object is to beautify homes and take away from them everything that is not artistic.

Louisa Lady Antrim is, I hear, very interested in the Oxford Group Movement, which has strong devotees all over the globe. The other night an Ulster man, Sir Lynden Macassey, K.C., delivered a speech in favour of the group. It was at a dinner party given in honour of the 60th birthday of Dr. Frank Buchman, the founder of the movement.

FOOD SELECTION

THE importance of food selection can be best understood when it is known what the different food substances are, and what is the function of each.

They are as follows:—

1. Proteins. These exist in meat and fish, some vegetables, and also in cheese and milk. They are body-building, forming and renewing tissues, and are particularly necessary to growing children.

2. Fats, which are found in the fat of fish, animals, and birds, and in butter and cream.

3. Carbohydrates, which exist in all foods containing starch and sugar.

Both fats and carbohydrates serve to produce energy and heat, yet both should occur in one's diet, as neither can act as an adequate substitute for the other.

4. Various mineral salts, which serve to build bone and brain, and improve the condition of the blood. They are contained in many different foods, milk being particularly rich in them.

5. Vitamins. These are known as accessory food factors. Their purpose is to promote growth, and prevent disease, there being certain illnesses, known as "deficiency diseases," which are the outcome of some vitamin deficiency. There are five outstanding vitamins—namely, A, B, C, D, and E. Very few foods are absolutely devoid of vitamins, and some foods contain several.

Additionally a large quantity of water is needed by the human organism, and probably many people do not absorb sufficient. Water assists in the absorption of food by dissolving it after it has been digested, and also helps to rid the system of waste matters.

SHOULD THE WOMAN PAY?

A widespread movement in America—that land of movements—in favour of women paying their share of the bills for dinners, dances, and entertainments when taken out by men has, it is lately reported, failed. But the exact reason for the failure is obscure.

It is stated by one of the leaders of the movement that men get more wages than women, and therefore can more easily afford to pay; but elsewhere it is said that women have to spend so much more on clothes than men do that they have little left over for going fifty-fifty in amusement costs.

A good deal could be said about both these reasons; but the whole question is deeper than this. It is not so much a matter of £ s d as of sentiment. In days not very long past, when woman was the carefully guarded, ignorant, and inexperienced occupant of what was little better than a seraglio, it was almost indecent for her to eat in public, and the idea that she should pay or help to pay the score was too terrible for contemplation.

EVEN thirty or forty years ago a woman of independent means who visited a restaurant unaccompanied, when on such a harmless adventure as a shopping tour, stood the risk of being looked upon as "fast."

By LYDIA STEVENS

Progress makes such rapid strides nowadays that even whilst we take part in it physically, mentally we may be left a little behind, and so prejudices linger. Men and women mix in business to-day, the latter often in as responsible financial positions as the former; but there is still a risk. A man does not care to borrow from a woman, though it may be a perfectly legitimate business transaction with every safeguard for her.

When he seeks amusement with her, though his wage may be smaller than her's, he still feels that he is doing something caddish on accepting money. That is the man's side of the question.

WOMEN have not discarded all their ingrained prejudices yet, for all their cries of Equality and Fraternity, and, despite their outward show of independence, they derive satisfaction from the feeling of reliance on the men.

After all, the paying of a bill in a restaurant is on a par with helping the woman with her cloak or escorting her across the busy street, and the woman likes to see herself taken care of for all that she might do the thing better for herself.

"Gold diggers" there always will be—women who, whatever position they may be in, are out to get what they can from a man, and the more he foots the bill the better they like it. But they are a negligible quantity in face of the whole question as applied to the whole sex.

Not until women have attained complete independence and a state in which they can run a world without men will genuine fifty-fifty agreements, in matters financial and otherwise, be really taken for granted.

HEADGEAR

WHAT something new on the head can do for a depressed woman only a woman knows! If you are getting one of the new wide-brimmed, flat, picture hats, see that it has a bandeau or gripping ribbon at the back, so that it will fit on to the head with some comfort. These new wide flat hats are very lovely to look at and most becoming, but when winds do blow, then one wishes one's hat were not quite so flat if there is no securing band.

Fitness In All Things.

Just as there is a sense of fitness as to the choice of wear for different occasions, so there should be in the use of make-up. As much as good clothes, so carefully-chosen cosmetics are part of the intelligent and modern woman's equipment. And the choice and use of these cosmetics show what a woman's judgment is worth.

Any woman who appreciates good manners in the wide sense would never dream of walking in the country or going to church with the same amount and type of make-up as if she were going to a theatre or a ball.

People who are careless about their clothes are careless about make-up, too. This is a great mistake, for common-sense should dictate to a woman to make the very best of herself.

CLEAN THE TOYS.

Toys should have a periodic clean up and refurbishing. A timely patch or a stitch will lengthen the life of an old friend. If a "cuddly" will not wash, give it a dry shampoo with powdered magnesia, rubbing this in, leaving it for a few hours, and then beating out with a small cane.

DUBLIN OFFICE OF ARMS.

TRANSFER NEGOTIATIONS.

LONDON, Saturday.

Negotiations are now on for transferring Sir Nevile Wilkinson's Office of Arms in Dublin Castle to Eire Government. It is a public office—but its front doors are always locked. You have to ring. Thirty years ago Crown jewels, worth £50,000, were stolen from it. It still has many valuables. Its records were useful after 1922 Four Courts burning. Former Ulster King of Arms had made a hobby of copying important title deeds and wills. Eire's Constitution doesn't allow citizens to acquire titles, but Arms Office is kept busy. Applicants for copies of armorial bearings and certificates of arms come from Irishmen all over the world. Grant of arms costs £44, grant of supporters (including stamp duty) £60, change of name and arms by Royal licence under deed or will £160, and change of name only £100.—William Hickey, in the "Daily Express."

WHITSUN.

Whitsun, or Feast of Pentecost, for which Parliament adjourned yesterday, commemorates events recorded in chapter II. of Acts. Origin of name Whit Sunday is a matter of controversy. Wycliffe declared that Whit—or the old spelling Wit—had reference to Apostles receiving gift of tongues. Others suggest that "Witentide" was in Saxon times a day for selecting wise men for Witenagemot, or local parliament. Weight of opinion favours derivation from White Sunday in reference to white garments worn by newly-confirmed children.—"The World This Morning," in the "News-Chronicle."

GEORGE V ON EX-KAISER.

Signor Nitti, Italian Premier in 1920, has a reference in his new book, "The Disintegration of Europe," to King George V.'s attitude towards the ex-Kaiser. On the day the Allied Conference in London gave up the idea of bringing the ex-Kaiser to trial, Signor Nitti, who had been opposed to it, was asked to lunch at Buckingham Palace. Signor Nitti felt it necessary to assure the King that his opposition was not inspired by any lurking sympathy for the ex-Kaiser, whose braggadocio had always excited his aversion. Thereupon King George said with a smile that he knew William II. better than did Signor Nitti, and judged him more severely. "All the same," he added, "the idea of putting him on trial has been a monstrous absurdity. The best thing is to say nothing more about it."—"Peterborough," in the "Daily Telegraph and Morning Post."

GIRL WHO BEAT HELEN.

Well, here is the truth about Mary Hardwick who triumphantly defeated Helen Wills-Moody. Everyone wants to know why she will not play for England in the Wightman Cup. She will still say "No" for health reasons. She is under doctors' orders not to play too much tennis, and it is only by resting with plenty of sleep and good food that she has been able to recover her form. "I played at Bournemouth against doctors' orders, and made the trouble worse," she told me. "A prolonged series of matches is impossible, but I hope by proving that Helen is not unbeatable I shall have encouraged other English girls." She hopes to be fit for Wimbledon.—Noel Thompson, in the "Daily Sketch."

KNOCKED DOWN BY MOTOR-CAR.

ON WAY TO JOIN LINER.

TWO TAKEN TO HOSPITAL.

Two passengers who were walking on their way to board the Union Castle liner Windsor Castle to sail for South Africa yesterday, were knocked down by a motor-car in Southampton Docks a short distance from ship, and were seriously injured.

The two people, Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson, who had been staying at a London hotel, were taken to hospital, and were unable to sail on the ship. Two messenger boys were also injured in the same accident, and one of them, Albert Williams, of Carnation Road, Southampton, died soon after admission.

BELFAST CITY MISSION.

CHIEFS AND MISSIONARIES MEET.

The superintendents and missionaries of the Belfast City Mission held their monthly meeting in the Hostel Cafe on Friday evening. The following were present:—Messrs. F. J. Holland, M. A. Mitchell, G. M. M'Neill, H. Crawford, T. J. Kinnear, O.B.E., Barrister-at-Law; S. Brown, J.P.; J. Brown, E. Irwin, J. Taylor, R. Workman, J. Price, J. C. M'Neill, T. Rainey, M.A.; R. Cairns, J. K. Wallace, Capt. R. Watt, F. Mulligan (secretary) and 28 missionaries.

The company were entertained to tea by Mr. Marcus A. Mitchell. The meeting was opened by prayer by Mr. W. Anderson. The Chairman, Mr. F. J. Holland, received the mission reports, which as usual dealt with the various aspects of the work. In all 3,500 families were visited during the week. These visits and the meetings made a profound impression in the districts, and hundreds who never enter either church or mission hall heard the Gospel.

Reports from two districts were given of special evangelistic meetings.

Capt. R. Watts, Messrs. G. M. M'Neill, H. Crawford, T. Rainey, T. J. Kinnear, Jas. Price spoke of the work.

The question of creating more interest in the retiring allowance fund was considered at some length. As the income from this fund is inadequate to meet the demands upon it, it was thought that more should be done to make provision for those who had given the best part of their years for the uplift of the poor of the city.

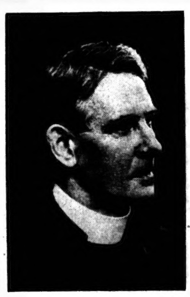
Mr. W. J. Gillespie closed the meeting with prayer.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

NEXT WEEK'S MEETINGS.

REV. W. J. CURRIE NEW MODERATOR

The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Ireland will commence its annual meetings in the Assembly Hall, Belfast, on Monday evening, the 6th of June, when the retiring Moderator, the Rt. Rev. Dr. John Waddell, M.A., will deliver his valedictory address, and the Rev. Dr. W. J. Currie, M.A., Bangor, will succeed him in the Moderatorial chair, having received the majority vote of the Presbyteries earlier in the year.



[Photo by Halliday]

DR. CURRIE.

Rev. Dr. Currie is recognised throughout the whole bounds of the Presbyterian Church as a man who, discreet in all that he does and says, is well fitted to adorn the high position to which he has been called. His period of office is, therefore, looked forward to as one which will be marked with continued progress, both material and spiritual, for Irish Presbyterianism.

LEVIES FOR PIG PRODUCERS.

The Ministry of Agriculture announces that a special trading levy of 2s per pig has been imposed as and from Monday, May 30, in the case of sales of pigs by producers to bacon-curers or to the Pigs Marketing Board. This levy is necessary to meet trading losses incurred by the Board. The total amount of levies payable to the Pigs Marketing Board will, therefore, be 3s per pig.

WHITSUN HOLIDAY TRAFFIC.

DEPRESSING CONDITIONS.

THOUSANDS OF VISITORS.

Whitsun cross-Channel traffic to Belfast this morning showed an increase when compared with that of last year, but unfortunately leaden skies and heavy rain greeted the visitors.

Three vessels were required to bring the travellers from Heysham to Belfast, and this line alone disembarked about 3,000 passengers at Donegall Quay.

There was only one vessel from Liverpool, but it landed about another thousand passengers.

The very big majority of the visitors are spending the Whitsun recess at the various seaside resorts, and both the railways and the Road Transport Board did good business in carrying them to their destinations.

Bookings on the Heysham route to-morrow night are very heavy, and three vessels, in addition to the ordinary mail boat, will be utilised for the purpose of bringing the visitors to Ulster.

It is expected that about 4,000 passengers will be landed at Donegall Quay on Monday morning.

Many local residents who are fortunate enough to have the Whitsun holiday left Belfast for the seaside on Friday evening, and railway traffic was good.

Motor traffic on the Antrim and Down coast roads was very heavy, and the seaside resorts present their usual crowded summer appearance.

It is only to be hoped that to-day's heavy rain is but the prelude to a period of sunshine and warmth, so that the visitors may enjoy their stay in Ulster.

DORSETSHIRE DESERTERS.

5 MEN BROUGHT TO HONG KONG.

HONG KONG, Friday.—Five members of the crew of H.M.S. Dorestshire, who are alleged to have deserted from the cruiser when she was in Australian waters, arrived here in the steamer Nanking this morning in the captain's custody.

The men are now in the cells of H.M.S. Tamar and will probably be tried by court-martial immediately.—Reuter.

CAPSIZED YACHT FOUND.

BODY LASHED TO MAST.

A small yacht which had been found overturned near the South Shoebury Buoy, with the body of a man lashed to the mast, was towed into Leigh, near Southend, by a fishing smack yesterday afternoon.

The yacht, the Impetuous, belongs to Sheerness, and it was taken out on Wednesday by Mr. William Thomas White (28), of Halfway Road, Minister.

It was last seen off Sheerness on Wednesday evening and was presumably lost in the gale.

A LAUDABLE EFFORT.

A NEW departure in diplomacy is to be inaugurated by the British Government, according to an announcement made by Mr. Butler, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, in Parliament on Friday. Whether it will have the desired effect we cannot tell, but it ought to have the sympathy of those people of all shades of political views and of all nationalities who have been shocked and pained by the reports of the needless and apparently premeditated slaughter of civilian populations in Spain and China. Pride in the remarkable progress of science and invention in recent years must be greatly diminished by the reflection that the resources placed at the disposal of the human race have been converted to such base purposes. Man has effected the conquest of the air only to make use of his newly-acquired powers for the ruthless slaughter of women, children and infirm persons by air bombardment, carried out in wholesale and indiscriminate fashion. If Christendom is condemned to look on at the perpetration of such deeds as a passive spectator, the position will be too humiliating for words. Our forefathers were kindled to a white hot flame of indignation by stories of massacre in far-off lands, such as Turkey, and strenuous efforts were made to put a stop to the atrocities which were being perpetrated. Britain finds herself once more in a position where action of some kind is necessary. To intervene by force of arms would probably have the effect of involving the world in worse evils, but there are still ways in which she can make her influence felt on the side of humanity. The British Government has delivered a strong protest at Burgos, the headquarters of the Spanish insurgents, and is asking France and other States to co-operate in bringing pressure to bear to stop this wanton destruction of the lives of non-combatants.

In this connection it may be mentioned that Mr. Cordell Hull, the American Secretary of State, in a speech delivered at Nashville, in Tennessee, on Friday condemned the policy of isolation which the United States has hitherto pursued in international affairs to a great extent, and said the country was prepared to join in an international agreement for the reduction of armaments. If this pronouncement is to be taken as expressing the views of the American Government it is not too much to hope that the Washington authorities will take a strong line in presenting remonstrance both at Burgos and Tokio against what can only be termed crimes of the blackest type. The British Government believes that with the aid of public opinion the ærial bombardments in Spain, which have been wantonly carried out of late, can be stopped. At any rate, the effort is worth making, and the culprits ought to be made to understand that they have incurred the condemnation of the whole civilised world. The evils existing at our own door ought to be dealt with before those in the Far East, but the turn of the latter should come in good time. It is proposed to ask all the foreign Governments who are in any way identified with either of the parties now fighting in Spain to join in setting up an independent commission. This would be ready to proceed to the scene of any ærial bombardment and report on the damage done, as well as whether the plea that military objectives were arrived at by the assailants, can be substantiated. The report of this committee would immediately be published and the light of full publicity would thus be directed upon the use of what are rightly described as barbarous methods of warfare. The proposal, as affording a way out of an extreme serious situation, merits careful attention.

Thoughts for the Times
DR. A. D. BELDEN

Mightier than the Bomb

IT is not often that this modern world of ours is treated to the spectacle of a great people in process of practising the Sermon on the Mount, and we may be, therefore, deeply grateful to General Chiang-kai-Shek and the Chinese people for a most remarkable demonstration of this kind.

Our blood has run cold more than once at the appalling atrocities perpetrated upon Chinese cities by Japanese bombing aeroplanes. We know how callously thousands of Chinese women and children have been put out of existence in this way, yet when the time came for the Chinese Air Force, of which Madame Kai-Shek is the effective head, to go into action over Japanese cities, they proceeded deliberately to drop—not bombs—but pamphlets containing the strongest possible assertions of friendship for the Japanese people and the Japanese Emperor, though dealing faithfully with the Japanese military caste.

A great people, in some respects one of the greatest upon earth, whose civilisation runs much further back into history than our own, has put its faith definitely in the weapon that is "mightier than the sword," in ideas that are more explosive than bombs, at the very time when the most Christian nations of the earth are putting their faith afresh, alas! in the bombing aeroplane.

ONE has seen no great outburst of enthusiasm for General Chiang-kai-Shek's method from Christendom; possibly this significant piece of news got lost amid the recurring crises in Europe. Yet it may well be that this action may do more to end the war in the Far East than all the bombardments that have taken place.

One would like to see more direct reasoning and mental intercourse between the peoples of all the various countries that are in antagonism, and I commend this possibility to such an organisation as the F.I.L., magic letters that stand in the stead of "For Intellectual Liberty," a praiseworthy organisation of intellectuals in this country drawn together in defence of freedom of thought. Would it not be possible to establish a number of systems of direct exchange of views between, say, different strata in the nations of Europe—doctors speaking with doctors, scientists corresponding with scientists, engineers with engineers? The printed word is always the hammer that breaks in pieces the power of tyranny. Even as one said long ago: "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free."

THIS does not mean, of course, that we are pleading for mere verbal propaganda; there is not the slightest doubt that a great deal of the destruction of the enemy's morale was accomplished in the Great War by propaganda leaflets dropped from our aeroplanes behind the German lines, but we know how much of that propaganda was "doctored"; it was not a gesture of genuine friendliness to a misled people, it was simply another military arm. What we are asking for is a new belief in truth, and in its power to break the bonds of fear and suspicion and hate.

Let all who write where many read reflect on the sublimity of their opportunity. It was the printing press that produced the Reformation and played its great part in the French Revolution. It was a book by a man named Karl Marx that produced modern Russia and is behind much of the modern turmoil; it was a book called the Bible that made the British Constitution and American Liberty. Let us get to work; words may be the most powerful things of all if they embody that Word by Whom all things were created and without Whom "nothing was made that was made"; that Word, which is the very Reason of God, upon which all words are built, and which is the everlasting Sword of the Spirit.

Have YOU a Sense of Humour?

by LESLIE HENSON famous stage and film comedian

WHAT makes you laugh? Everybody finds something amusing; even the chimpanzee has a grin for occasions. What, in your case, is so funny that, thinking of it later, maybe in the street, it will still raise a smile?

For me the humour of Harry Tate will never pall. I can still sit round the fire with a few friends and reminisce for hours about his spontaneous wit. The recollection of Harry walking into his office and asking breezily "Any letters?" and getting a negative answer, saying "What, no letters! Oh then we must write some!" always makes me laugh. It is so unexpected. And that, I think, more than any other factor, is the secret of humour. It is the element of surprise, that is not tragic, that makes people laugh.

Groucho Marx who, these days, I find as funny as anybody, gets many of his laughs from the unexpected. You may remember in one of his films how he deftly extricated himself from the scrum in a football match, rushed up to a stand of about 75,000 people and shouted, "Is there a doctor here?" When one man rose to his feet Groucho shouted, "Well, how're you enjoying it, Doc.?" That is the sort of thing that makes me laugh, but if it didn't amuse you I don't think either of us need worry unduly, because humour is so much a matter of opinion.

EVERYBODY claims a sense of humour, sometimes because merely something amuses them. Personally I don't think any standard has yet been fixed for the measurement of humour. The most often quoted one, the ability of laughing at yourself, seems unfair, for sometimes the circumstances of the alleged humour are a matter of bitter significance to the person concerned. Again, men and women bloated with conceit have been indefatigable tellers of tales against themselves.

Laughter, as someone said, is like love and the elephant—easily recognised but not to be explained.

The people who one feels have a well-developed sense of humour are often those who have the most acute appreciation of the ridiculous. This is a modern phenomenon, no older at least than Lewis Carroll. The Americans so far have taken it to its greatest lengths. Does this strike you as funny? Picture a man dressed for a storm and with an umbrella, in a street filled with people in summer clothing. From the heavens on to his umbrella falls a cascade of water that touches no one else. Beneath are the words, in inverted commas, "Maybe he doesn't live right."

My wife, recently returned from the U.S.A., brought back this story. A woman going round the zoo and noting the glossy skins and well-groomed appearance of the animals, suddenly comes upon a miserable little specimen of a monkey—emaciated, pink-eyed and scruffy skinned. "What a dreadful looking little monkey!" she says, whereupon the monkey pipes up with "Well, I've been sick."

DOROTHY Parker, the American writer, is perhaps the best known exponent of this type of humour, and hundreds of jokes now in circulation are attributed to her. Typical is her remark to a particularly obstreperous young man who had annoyed her at a party. Bidding him good-night she said, "Remember me to your brother—I mean the one with the two heads."

These things amuse the Americans—so much so that recently, when a U.S.A. magnate was in England seeking new candidates for his staff, he tested applicants by their reactions to the following story:

A Frenchman had fought hard for his country during the war. When the war was over he was left, no longer the man he had been, with no job and only a pittance on which to live. In his little village his plight was common knowledge and, being kindly folk, the villagers decided to buy an old cannon, set it up in the market place, and appoint the veteran its keeper. This they did. So, ever after, when the old man had eaten his breakfast he would say to his wife, "Well, good-bye, Marie. I'm off to the cannon."

You don't see it? Nor did I, but on reflection I must admit the story seems funnier, though it still cannot stimulate a loud laugh in me and probably never will. This kind of surrealist humour has passed through various phases, a more elementary one being illustrated by such an example as that of two female camels chatting together somewhere in the desert and discussing the son of one of them, who is seen in the picture with a kind of volcanic eruption proceeding from his hump. Says his mother, "At the first he just complained of rumblings."

IT has crept out of the U.S.A. and permeated various spheres elsewhere, but it has not eradicated the taste for lowbrow humour. Not so many people nowadays will laugh at the sight of a clown falling down, though, in the past, a brick dropping on a man's head or someone slipping on a banana skin, were sure fine comedy stunts.

The place of knockabout has been taken by the broad joke, such as the one about the man who went to the appropriate authority saying that he wanted to change his name. "What is your name?" "Charley Stinks." "I can well believe you should want to change a name like that," said the Registrar, or whatever he is called. "What do you want to change it to?" "Harry Stinks," was the answer.

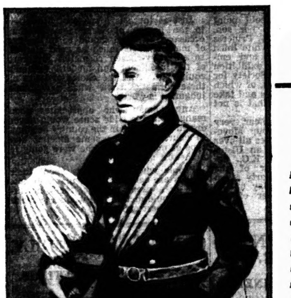
There is a piece of dialogue in my current show that runs, "See, see!" "That's Italian for 'Yes, yes.'" "I know a girl who said that—she got into a lot of trouble." One night I changed it to "I know a girl who said that—she got into a lot of mink coats." And the bigger laugh proved to me once again that it is the unexpected that counts.

Spontaneity is another big factor where humour is concerned and for ready wit the following remark of Arthur Wimperis would take a lot of beating. It was at a party and Anna May Wong and her sister, both beautifully dressed in oriental gowns and perfect down to the last detail, made a striking entrance. "Who on earth are these two?" Wimperis asked his friend. "Anna May Wong and her sister." "Ah well, two Wongs don't make a wite," said Wimperis.

THE ULSTERMAN who was the FATHER of the SUEZ CANAL

THE appointment of Sir Maurice Hankey as one of the British directors of the Suez Canal Board reminds one that the canal was a project which had occupied the minds of the Pharaohs from the dawn of history.

The world gives the credit of the great scheme that united two oceans and shortened the journey to Bombay by 24 days, to Ferdinand de Lesseps, but the world has forgotten that de Lesseps, in the triumphal opening of the canal in November, 1869, after ten years of construction, addressed the distinguished gathering who were present at the inauguration in these words:—"Messieurs, je vous presente l'homme a qui nous devons le Canal de Suez—M. le General Chesney, le Pere du Canal."



Major - General Francis R. Chesney mapped and surveyed the Suez country. At 83 because he felt tired after a 3,000 foot Mourne Mountain climb he saw a specialist.

It has been said that the blood of the martyrs is the seed of the Church, and it is more. It is that character which dies for faith that also lives for the accomplishment of the seemingly impossible.

LET us look at the forebears of General Chesney. We need not go back to the Anglo-Normans, though the Chesneys were of Norman blood. Suffice it to trace the General to William Chesney, who came from Scotland about 1641, and settled at Clonkeen, in the parish of Drummaul, Barony of Upper Toome.

William Chesney was either father or grandfather of Robert Chesney, of Grange, near Toome Ferry. Robert Chesney had a son named Alexander, who married Jane Fulton, and settled in Dunclug, near Ballymena. They had a son Robert, also of Dunclug, but who removed to "Kirkinreallough," in the suburbs of Ballymena.

This Robert married Elizabeth Purdy and emigrated in 1772 to South Carolina along with their four children, of whom, one was Alexander Chesney, who married Jane Wilson as his second wife, and from that union were born our hero, Francis Rawdon Chesney, and his almost as famous brother, Charles Cornwallis Chesney.

Thus far the Chesney descent, but what of the General's mother, Jenny Wilson? She was the eldest daughter of John Wilson and Elizabeth Kirkpatrick, of Birney Hill, Rathsherry, in the parish of Skerry, Co. Antrim, and this John Wilson was a son of John Wilson, who married as his fourth wife, Janet Brown (a beautiful woman). This last John Wilson came from Wastland and Nithsdale Cummock, in Ayrshire. And his sister was Margaret Wilson, the Solway martyr, who, as a girl of 18, when tied to a stake in the approaching tide, rather than abjure her faith, said—"I am Christ's; let me go," and the swirling waters covered her for ever.

This Wilson blood has made history in Ulster. Its vital energy is reflected in the telephone directory, where no less than 190 people of the name are subscribers.

But to revert to Alexander Chesney, who married Jenny Wilson. He served the Loyalist cause in South Carolina, and won the esteem of Lords Rawdon and Cornwallis West, and returning to Ireland, by their influence he obtained a position as tidewaiter in the Customs, settling at Ballymacveaghnore, near Annalong. Here the future General was born on March 16, 1789, at two a.m. The boy grew up in an atmosphere of romance, of smugglers and of pending rebellion.

Alexander Chesney, the Tidewaiter, had organised a corps called the Mourne Infantry, and by influence secured his boy a cadetship at Woolwich at the tender age of 15.

STORIES of wrecks at Annalong centre round this noble lad. His father was saved when the smugglers in mistake killed Chief Boatman Alexander M'Dowell. Captain Chesney made his son kiss the dead man. There is even an old song about this youthful hero—

Great praise is due to Captain
Chesney's son;
In the middle of all danger to the quay he did run,
And swam o'er the waves like
Leander of old,
And of young Hughie Purdy he quickly took hold.

He saved a ship by walking into the boiling surf and passing out a rope. Here the lad had his first love—Nancy M'Neilly of Glass Drummond, but she passed from his sight.

But what of the man Francis Rawdon Chesney? He was a brilliant military engineer. He planned a trade route through the Euphrates Valley to India, and when the trustees of the scheme pointed out the almost insuperable difficulties, Chesney replied: "If it were not for difficulties I would not be here."

HE mapped and surveyed the Suez country, and King William the Fourth was greatly pleased with results. He was, in fact, ubiquitous. In China he offered to keep the Yang tse Kiang from flooding, but the Chinese were jealous of foreign interference. He remarked that the Chinese were the happiest people on earth because from the age of four they were never idle a moment. And his life was on that plan. His first toy was his father's pistol which he took to bed with him at night. At 83 because he felt tired after climbing one of the Mourne Mountains, 3,000 feet high, he saw a specialist.

He spent his last days at Packolet (called after the old home in Carolina) near Kilkeel, and in the quiet graveyard there he sleeps the unending sleep.

What a tale he could tell in his old days! Of how his life at a time hung on the word of an Arab sheik; of spills from his frail coracle in the Euphrates.

Spunk marked his whole career. Once as a boy when his father chased him to whip him, the lad noting his father's shortness of breath, stopped to take the whipping. And to the end nothing could daunt him.

No wonder that the name of Chesney in the little kingdom of Mourne has been a power in its uplift and integrity for more than a century.

Uncommon Sense

Sparing the Rod—By JOHN BLAKE.

AT a famous aquarium the cats are trained not to indulge in any private fishing. Some time ago the aquarium officials revealed their cat-training methods.

When rats came into the aquarium in the winter and balanced themselves on the rims of the tanks to scoop out any sickly fish floating near the top, it became apparent to the fish keepers that something had to be done. And so they imported several cats. Their special job was to form a rat patrol. But instead of doing their duty as good soldiers should, the cats started after the fish themselves.

They had to be taught a lesson. So one of the officials gathered the indecorous cats together. In the centre of the group he placed an eel—an electric eel that can live out of water for more than an hour. The cats opened their eyes in delight at such a sight and pounced on the eel. But every cat that pounced bounced back when the eel started discharging electricity — four volts or so per contact. After a short course of study with the electric eel the cats developed an indifference to live fish amounting to positive repugnance. They were sent back to the rat patrol, and they have been dutiful soldiers ever since.

Some people maintain that that is the secret of teaching whether you have to deal with cats, dogs, or human beings. "Punish the offender," they declare. "Teach him a lesson. And he'll learn to behave."

But there are others who believe that better results can be obtained by opposite methods. "Reward good acts," they say, "and the subject will increase his good habits to overcome his vices." There are many cat trainers, for example, who claim that the only way you can develop a good cat is by adopting the reward technique.

• • •

The acquarium experiment is clear on some points. But it should be determined just how long it will continue to work. Will the cats forget the shocking experience in time and go back to secret fishing? If the teacher had rewarded them each time they caught a rat would they have forgotten about the fishing and turned to rat-catching?

I have seen problem children turn into promising boys and girls under the reward technique. And I know of a few cases where a timely spanking has produced wonderful effects.

It is hard to use either method exclusively, but if there must be a preference I would choose the reward method. I don't favour coddling, but the reward method seems to offer more to the subject than does punishment. If you reward him for good behaviour he has much to strive for. He can develop. If you punish you always restrict.

It is a question that has been debated since questions of behaviour were first discussed.

I know what the reward advocates would say about the aquarium experiments. They would probably tell you: "After that shocking experience those cats will have a very poor opinion of the aquarium officials. And they will feel perfectly justified in paying them back by fishing when the authorities' backs are turned. Whereas if the authorities had played fair and square, those cats would have been impressed, even touched, and they would have repaid in kind."

And if cats had a conscience the reward advocates would be right.

London Day By Day

Expressionism Under Study.

LONDON, Saturday.

Mr. Augustus John.

ONE speaks of modern German art with a sort of bated breath, for what we are allowed to exhibit at our public galleries has been deemed degenerate by the Fuhrer.

But art has no race and no boundary, and next month London will see some 20th century German art under the ægis of Augustus John, and an imposing list of patrons drawn from every walk of life.

To mention a few will show how diverse they are in character—Professor Julian Huxley, Lord Cranbrook, the Bishop of Birmingham, Dr. Cyril Norwood, and Rebecca West.

The organisers of the exhibition are, of course, aware that much of this art is now in official disfavour in the country of its origin, and that many of the artists are exiles. Their motives, however, are not political.

Expressionism, the most characteristic type of modern German art, is a type of art which aims above all at representing the inner or subjective feeling of the artist, and as such differs considerably from impressionism, cubism, and other types of art which have been practised in France during recent times, and are more familiar to the English public. Such an exhibition therefore is necessary from an informative and educational point of view, and has been long overdue in this country.

Hand versus Arrow.

THOUGH the M.P. who intended to introduce the Motor Drivers (Signals) Bill to the House of Commons has decided not to proceed with it, all motorists in this country will be relieved to hear that the position in regard to signals, whether given by hand or indicator, has at last been cleared up.

The doubt arose following the decision in a recent court case that a signal given by an indicator was not enough. So many cars to-day are fitted with indicators and stop lights that it was obviously necessary for the position to be clarified one way or the other as soon as possible.

The Ministry of Transport having consulted the Law Officers of the Crown has been informed that this decision has not rendered a signal given by an indicator or stop light ineffective in law. The onus thus still rests on the motorist to take all reasonable steps to avoid danger to other road users, and as long as he gives his signals clearly and in good time, by whatever method, a charge of negligence in that connection cannot be levelled against him.

Opinion on the subject of the respective merits of the two methods of signalling is very sharply divided. Arrows are very convenient, particularly in bad weather, and it seems to me that if motorists take a common sense view and combine the two methods according to the different circumstances in which they find themselves they will be quite adequately safeguarded.

A Duke's Misdeal.

ONE of the most rash deals a duke can ever have thought of transacting was that by which the second and last Duke of Kingston, without taking the trouble to inspect certain property which had come into his possession in the latter half of the eighteenth century, bartered it away in order to buy a wedding dress for his bride.

It so happened that he was in the district some years afterwards and was attracted by the house which stood by the broad river bank. He inquired who the owner was, and was astonished to hear that it was the property which had previously been his own.

This was Monktown House, down at Broughton Gifford, in Wiltshire, and one is reminded of the weird transaction by the fact that the stone-built house, with its mullioned windows, is again to pass under the hammer. The village itself is an old one, and has nine hundred years of historical association, King Ethelred and Baron de Bohun being early notabilities.

A Smugglers' "Hide."

A WELL preserved smugglers' "hide," in a cottage at the Strand, Winchelsea, has just been unearthed. It is nine feet high, eleven feet long, and about 20 inches wide, and was located when the owner was repairing the cottage.

Inside, the walls, roof and floor were lined throughout with thick parchment, presumably to prevent goods becoming soiled or damp through contact with the walls. On the dusty floor were rolls of lighter parchment, thought to have been used for wrapping smuggled tobacco. A roll of tarred canvas, used by smugglers for wrapping silks into bundles which would enable them to float was also discovered.

It is difficult to say how old the "hide" is, but the present occupier of the cottage, Mr. H. Jarrett, now in his 85th year, has lived there for 67 years. He did not know about it and he had never heard his father, who was a centenarian, mention it. The cottage has many cupboards and doors leading from one room to another, and must have been a smuggler's delight.

Credulous Children.

TOWARDS the end of a Parliamentary session large numbers of school children come up to see the House of Commons. It is part of their education.

It is to be hoped, however, that the information they glean is as a rule more reliable than that imparted to a party which visited Westminster yesterday. They arrived in time to see a horse being led into the yard of Mr. Speaker's house.

A cynic whispered to one of them that this was Bois Roussel being brought up to pay his respects to the "first commoner," and the credulous girls regarded the hack with the respect that would only be paid to a Derby winner.

Guile of Serpent.

MR. Ernest Brown is a proud man. For the third time in succession the motion for the adjournment of the House of Commons has passed off without him being called upon to defend the administration of his department.

Naturally, he is inclined to regard this as a sign of its efficiency. In him there is, however, some of the guile of the serpent. When M.P.'s make complaint of Labour Ministry administration he has a disarming way of replying to "Dear John," or even "My Dear John." He does not do this to everyone, but those he does so address are put into a difficulty.

Whatever his reply may be they find difficulty in being fierce about the reply couched in such friendly terms.

The Home of Pantomime.

ALTHOUGH pantomime has not been seen for many years at Covent Garden, the Royal Opera House is its traditional home. With its return this year by a production of "Red Riding Hood," by Mr. Francis Laidler, it is hoped to revive the annual Christmas show there. It depends on this year's success.

Mr. Francis Laidler, in whose hands its future lies, has produced more pantomimes in 30 years than anyone before, and in Covent Garden there is a fine record of successes. It was opened in 1733 by John Rich, the actor and the "father of English pantomime," who was famous as the best Harlequin of his time. In 1746 Garrick joined him there and a most prosperous season ensued.

Grimaldi, the most celebrated of English clowns, was another to make his great success there. Pantomime was discontinued after 1899, and it was not until 1921 that the next was seen. After a single season pantomime again fell off, and now there is every hope of a lasting revival.

Mr. Laidler has over 150 pantomimes to his name, and will be running some five others in different parts of the country at the same time as "Red Riding Hood."

Motorists and Signals.

Superiority Complex.

NOBODY on earth would have suspected Mr. George Lansbury of having an inferiority complex. Much to the astonishment of his fellow M.P.'s he has confessed to the possession of one.

I have known him in a distant sort of way since before the days when he became an M.P., and it has always struck me that what he suffered from was a superiority complex. In spite of the physical effects of his broken thigh bone I find no reason to alter that view, but Mr. Lansbury thinks differently. Funny isn't it?

REFRESHMENTS IN FIGURES.

LIFE BOYS KEEP COOL

AT THEIR GANAWAY OUTING.

THE STOCKTAKING SEASON.

Another first-rate opportunity was taken advantage of by the Belfast Battalion to demonstrate the great interest taken by the Boys' Brigade in physical training. On Thursday and Friday evenings of this week displays of this session's senior set of B.B. exercises were given before huge crowds at the R.U.C. Tattoo. The squad taking part was a composite one of some 170 boys from companies in the battalion, and right worthily they acquitted themselves.

The boys who had the honour of giving this display are to be congratulated very heartily, as are the officers who gave so much time to the organisation of it. In the wonderful final tableau our team and band were given a prominent place.

The organisers of the tattoo were particularly pleased with our effort, and did not hesitate to say so. All through the arrangements and rehearsals it was a real pleasure to co-operate with them. Their concern from first to last was for the comfort and well being of our boys, and at all times they showed a consideration for which we are particularly grateful.

Some time ago a good friend of the Boys' Brigade commented that we seem always to do things "in the mass." The fact, of course, is that the quiet (not always in the literal sense) work of companies in their own headquarters, and officers amongst their individual boys does not come much before the public. In handling a battalion as large as the Belfast Battalion it is not possible to get away from mass events, nor is it desirable, as there certainly is a tremendous thrill to be got from meeting with thousands of others just as keen members of the movement as one's self.

WEATHER BEHAVES—FOR ONCE.

The latest massed event was the Life Boy rally held on Saturday afternoon last at Ganaway. Someone spoke of it as a picnic, but what a picnic! A total of 1,100 boys and leaders, the boys all under 12 years of age, and the leaders—although they have lived much longer—yet in spirit little older than their boys.

The weather was almost unbelievably good, and certainly surpassed all our expectations. Ganaway was at its best, with acres of good, clean dry sand and green field providing abundance of room for all the games and fun that the boys enjoyed so heartily. As usual the open air tea was one of the events of the afternoon. After tea there was further time for games and fun, and all too soon came the time for departure.

There are always folk who glory in statistics. They will be interested to know that in the Ganaway canteen alone the Life Boys ate 25 gallons of ice cream and called for more, and that in addition to the eating of lots of potato crisps, chocolate, and other confectionery 686 bottles of mineral waters were consumed.

The Life Boys are not the only people who have been tackling big jobs, and the past week was a very busy one with the Special Badge Committee. On Tuesday night almost 200 boys were tested for the Wayfarer's Certificate in knot tying, map, and compass work, the collection and identification of wild flowers and trees, and the identification of wild birds. The carrying out of this huge task required the services of no fewer than 13 examiners, all of whom were kept very busy for three hours. Then on Thursday evening a further test was held for the Wayfarer's Badge, the subjects being:—The taking of bearings by the sun and the North Star, the reading of Ordnance Survey maps, and an advance test in wild flowers, leaves of trees, and wild birds. For this again a large number of examiners was busily employed.

On Wednesday night the same committee carried out a written examination in general camping knowledge, which will be followed later by a practical test in tent pitching. Over 50 boys attended this examination.

STOCKTAKING SEASON.

The annual stocktaking season has now come round again, and, indeed, we are already in the beginning of a new session. The end of May brings the counting of heads and the holding of annual meetings to consider the success or otherwise of the past session and make plans and appointments for the new. The last of the statistical return forms should have reached Battalion Headquarters to-day, and if all captains and leaders-in-charge have done their duty it should be known by now whether we in the Belfast district have again advanced in numbers.

On Wednesday next the annual meeting of the Life Boy Council will be held, and the battalion annual meeting is fixed for June 17.

Congratulations to the First Belfast Company on winning the sports meeting trophy at Campbell Park last Saturday. There were six competing companies, and a very keen contest resulted. The 25th Company, holders of the Shield, gained the runners-up position.

With the practices for and participation in the R.U.C. Tattoo quite a number of Battalion Cricket League fixtures have had to be put off. Cricket club secretaries are now asked to get these fixed up as soon as possible. Entries are invited for the Cricket (Knock Out) Cup Competition.

How many B.B. boys have seen the Jubilee Casket and know what it is? Those who are lucky enough to visit the Empire Exhibition will see it on view in the Hall of Youth in the Scottish Pavilion South. Here is the story as given in the official record of the B.B. Jubilee celebrations, which took place in Glasgow in 1933:—

"At the Jubilee Camp at Dechmont in the presence of thousands of B.B. boys, representing the whole Brigade movement, six lads, on behalf of their fellows, set their names to a parchment, which bore a secret message of greeting and goodwill addressed to their, as yet, unborn successors, the boys of 1983. This message, together with copies of the Jubilee programmes, was deposited in a casket of solid bronze, the lid of which was then closed and sealed. The message was thus safe in the casket till it would be opened by the boys of the Centenary Session, 1983."

SANDY ROW BOYS' OUTING.

The 59th Belfast Company (Sandy Row Methodist Church) held their first outing on Saturday afternoon last, when a party of 37 boys and four officers spent a most enjoyable time at Downshire Halt in ideal weather. After a hearty tea, games were indulged in, and 9-15 p.m. came all too soon, when the party entrained for home again, all tired, but happy.

TWO PRAMS—TWO BABIES.

STOLEN BY 10-YEAR-OLD GIRL.

A 10-year-old girl was remitted to the Sheriff at Glasgow yesterday on a charge of stealing two perambulators and two babies.

The little girl was taken in charge following a report of a baby being missing, and a search by parents in the east end of the city. There are two charges of a similar nature against her.

CHURCH ASSEMBLY:

BISHOP'S "DISTRESS" MOTION.

SUFFERING OF NON-ARYANS

FEEDING OF SCHOOL CHILDREN.

When the Anglican Assembly holds its summer session from Monday, June 20, the Bishop of Chichester, in the course of the proceedings, will move—"That this Assembly records its deep distress at the sufferings endured by 'Non-Aryan' Christians as well as by members of the Jewish race in Germany and Austria, and urges that not only should everything possible be done by Government aid to assist their emigration into other countries, but also that Christians everywhere should express their fellowship with their suffering brethren by material gifts, as well as by personal sympathy and by prayer."

The Bishop of Guildford will move the reception of "The Healing Church—the Unified Statement, 1938-39," and the Archbishop of York will move—

"That the Assembly approves of the formation of a Council on the Christian Faith and the common life on the lines and for the purposes set forth in the statement prepared by the Conferences at Lambeth Palace, and requests the two Archbishops to appoint representatives to serve on such a Council.

"That the Assembly approves of the Council when formed undertaking the tasks proposed in the said statement and appointing officers for the purpose if and when the Council is assured of the necessary funds."

MALNUTRITION.

On the question of malnutrition of mothers and children, the Rev. P. T. R. Kirk will bring forward a resolution—"That in view of the recent report of the League of Nations Mixed Committee on Nutrition, and of the evidence in our own country as to the extent that ill-health and poor physique are due to defective feeding during the years of growth, this assembly calls on the Government to place in the forefront of its campaign for a "fitter Britain," measures to make good the deficiencies in diet from which a large proportion of our mothers and children are at present suffering."

The resolution urges that the allowances for children under unemployment assistance and insurance should be increased to cover the minimum needs of healthy living.

A daily ration of milk should be provided, free of cost, to all children attending public elementary schools.

A free school dinner should be provided for children belonging to families where the expenditure available for food is insufficient for full health.

Cheap milk should be available for children under school age and for expectant and nursing mothers in all families covered by National Health Insurance or of equivalent economic status.

STIPEND OF CLERGY.

Sir Charles Marston and the Rev. W. J. Torrance have a joint resolution down on the question of the remuneration of clergy. Attention is drawn to the fact that whereas the standard of wages in this country had risen greatly during the last 20 years, partly as a result of the adoption of the principle of collective bargaining, and no corresponding increase in the stipends and fees of the clergy generaly had taken place—"The Assembly respectfully requests the Presidents of the Convocations of Canterbury and York to appoint a joint committee of the two provinces to formulate some policy to help the clergy towards a reasonable subsistence."

BELFAST DRAMATIC WEEK.

LADY CRAIGAVON'S GUESTS.

THE CLAIMS OF THE HOSPITALS.

At Stormont Castle on Friday, Lady Craigavon entertained a party of 200 to tea. The guests were ladies who are interested in the Belfast Dramatic Week, and anxious to help in the campaign which is to benefit the Royal Victoria Hospital and the Templemore Avenue Hospital.

The speakers were Lady Craigavon, Lady Clark, Miss Montgomery, Colonel A. B. Mitchell, Captain Maynard Sinclair, M.P., and Mr. H. Taggart.

At the outset Lady Craigavon said she was very pleased to see such a wonderful representative gathering, and one so calculated to make this scheme a great success.

Colonel Mitchell, speaking on behalf of the Royal Victoria Hospital, said he was frequently asked why it should be necessary for people to embark on a project of this kind. The voluntary hospital system still held the heart and affection of the people of this country. At the present time in the Royal Victoria they had (including the Maternity Hospital) 700 beds. The annual expenditure was £70,000 a year, but he was glad to say that up till now they had been able to run the hospital on the income obtained from a generous public. He thanked Lady Craigavon, Miss Montgomery, and Mr. Taggart for the trouble they had taken to organise the Dramatic Week.

On behalf of Templemore Hospital, Captain Maynard Sinclair thanked the organisers, and said that no matter how hard they worked the week would not be a success unless all the tickets were sold.

Mr. Taggart, giving an account of the plans, said that on opening night a dance would be given in the Plaza after the performance. He was glad to inform them that Lady Una Ross had consented to act as chairman of the Dance Committee and Lady Clark vice-chairman.

Lady Clark proposed a vote of thanks to Lady Craigavon, which was cordially passed.

40/- A WEEK CLERKS.

LESS THAN GRASSCUTTER'S PAY.

A Borough Council which advertised for a competent male shorthand typist at £1 15s a week while ready to pay £3 15s for a grass cutting machine driver was mentioned by Mr. W. H. Hughes, of Preston, in his presidential address at the National Union of Clerks' Conference at Leicester to-day.

He stated that many adult clerks received a mere £2 to £2 10s a week on which they tried to keep a wife and family. When some found their way into the police courts on a charge of taking their employer's money a wave of public indignation was aroused against low wages, but no indignation was aroused in hundreds of other cases of anxiety and misery where the underpaid men struggled on waiting for his football coupon to "come up."

DUNCAIRN UNIONISTS.

MR. W. F. NEILL AS CANDIDATE.

A very largely-attended meeting of Duncairn Ward members of the Duncairn-Clifton Unionist Association was held in the North Belfast Orange Memorial Hall on Friday evening.

Mr. John Wilson, J.P., who presided, stated that owing to the resignation of Councillor T. B. Doxford, M.A., who was now engaged on important military duties, they required to adopt a candidate to succeed him in the representation of Duncairn Ward. The Executive and Central Committee had unanimously recommended the name of Mr. W. F. Neill as the most suitable candidate. He was a vice-president of the Association, and resided in the Ward.

It was unanimously decided that the recommendation be approved, and Mr. W. F. Neill was adopted as the Unionist standard-bearer for Duncairn Ward.

An expression of thanks was passed to Mr. T. B. Doxford, M.A., for the time and valuable services rendered to the Ward and city during his term of office.

OUR ANTI-AIRCRAFT WEAPONS.

RAPID PRODUCTION

OF THE NEW 3.7 GUN.

HAS 18,000 FEET CEILING.

There seems to be some misconception as to the state of our anti-aircraft armaments (writes Major-General A. C. Temperley, the "Daily Telegraph" military correspondent).

Mr. Hore Belisha, the War Minister, announced recently in the British Commons that all units had their training quota of weapons and instruments. That is to say, in spite of the expansion of the two anti-aircraft divisions to the present strength of 40,000 men, there is every facility for training purposes.

Natural anxiety exists as to how far sufficient guns are available to cover London, and there are also doubts as to whether the present 3-inch gun is an efficient weapon.

I understand that the 3-inch gun has been completely modernised and, in the opinion of gunnery experts, is perfectly satisfactory for the work it has to do. Its ceiling has been increased from 10,000 to 18,000 feet, and this is ample in view of the atmospheric conditions in Britain.

There are not, I suppose, more than a few days in the year when aeroplanes can fly above 15,000 feet. Compared with the new 3.7-inch gun, its fire is actually more rapid, but, being smaller in calibre, its shell is naturally less powerful.

The new 3.7-inch gun was only adopted about a year ago, and it is a remarkable feat that it should now be in production in substantial quantities. A year ago the chief factory which turns it out was not in existence the skilled mechanics had not been trained, and the plant and machine tools had not been manufactured.

The achievement of the Munitions Production Department in providing a substantial quantity of the 3.7-inch gun already and ensuring a steady flow of them week by week is a considerable one.

JOINT NURSING AND MIDWIVES' COUNCIL.

THE SUCCESSFUL CANDIDATES.

A special meeting of the Joint Nursing and Midwives' Council for Northern Ireland was held at the Council Office, 120 Great Victoria Street, Belfast, on Friday, the following members being present—Dr. J. M. M'Cloy (in the chair); Misses Early, Beaton, M'Comb, and Gawley.

The examiners' report on the recent Preliminary Examination was submitted by the Examination Committee, and showed that of the 82 candidates who entered for the examination, 53 had passed and 29 failed. The following is the list of successful candidates, together with the schools at which they were trained:—

Belfast Infirmary—H. A. Anderson, K. E. Boston, M. A. Brady, S. Buchanan, A. M. Cairns, E. B. Conway, A. J. Dorrian, A. Esler, R. M. Henry, K. M. Hughes, A. Hunter, M. A. Johnston, M. R. Keightley, M. J. Kennedy, M. Lennox, I. Lyle, N. C. M'Culla, A. M'Ilroy, M. M'Kee, M. A. Miller, K. Ross, M. B. K. Simpson.

Mater Infirmorum Hospital—M. J. Bradley, M. Fitzpatrick, M. F. Hunt, A. Lennon, E. M'Cann, M. O'Loughlin.

Royal Victoria Hospital—A. R. Blane, C. E. Bradfield, E. E. Charters, R. G. Colbert, E. K. Fleming, R. A. M. Gillespie, R. M. Hynes, M. C. M'Cracken, D. L. Price, K. M. Reid, A. K. Withers.

City and County Hospital, Londonderry—J. F. Walker.

Down County Infirmary, Downpatrick—M. E. Parr.

The Hospital, Lurgan — E. A. M'Donald.

Ards District Hospital—H. Blakely.

Purdysburn Fever Hospital, Belfast—M. Y. Grant, B. Maguire, A. E. H. Porter.

Ulster Hospital, Belfast—E. F. Dennison, E. I. M. Patterson, E. V. Spratt, M. G. Williamson, S. E. Young.

The examiners' reports on the recent final examinations were submitted and showed that of the 56 candidates who entered for the examination for the general part of the register, 39 had passed and 17 failed. The successful candidates and their training schools are:—

Belfast Infirmary—M. Blayney, M. E. Davidson, V. D. Elliott, E. M. Hillis, D. F. Hunter, M. Jones, L. Kelly, G. M. Little, M. M. M'Connell, B. O'Connor, L. M. Patterson, A. E. Rock, A. Ross, M. R. Smith, A. Ward, M. M. Warwick, W. Watterson, A. M. Wilson.

Mater Infirmorum Hospital—B. G. Darby, E. M'Ilvena, M. E. M'Lynn, M. Power.

Royal Victoria Hospital—J. Beattie, B. Boyce, J. Calwell, A. E. N. Cromey, M. Gray, J. W. Hamilton, S. M'Creery, A. M. O'Doherty, F. M. Poots, M. V. Richardson.

Down County Infirmary, Downpatrick—F. J. Jennings, B. Lyle, E. M. Quigley.

The Hospital, Lurgan—E. Homes.

Tyrone County Hospital, Omagh—S. J. E. Alexander, M. R. Kennedy.

Of the 11 candidates who entered for the supplementary part of the Register for Sick Children's Nurses nine had passed and two failed. The successful candidates and their training schools are:—

Belfast Hospital for Sick Children—T. J. Allen, M. W. Allen, B. E. M. Atcheson, G. M. Burns, J. T. Gibson, S. Hunter, M. P. Parke, M. R. Parke.

Ulster Hospital, Belfast—M. C. Moore.

In accordance with the recommendation of the Examination Committee, the Council approved of the appointment of the following examiners for the examinations to be held in October:—

Preliminary—Mr. W. W. Bassett, Dr. R. W. M. Strain, Miss O. Chester, Miss E. Milner, Miss E. Jones, and Miss D. Melville.

Final examination for the general part of the register—Dr. R. Marshall, Mr. I. Fraser, Dr. A. J. Dempsey, Miss A. Watts, Miss M. O. Robinson, Miss M. M. Donnelly, Miss D. Hills and Dr. W. Carson.

Final examination for the supplementary part of the Register for Fever Nurses—Dr. A. Massey, Dr. F. F. Kane, Miss E. Carder and Miss E. G. Dunne.

The following supernumerary examiners were appointed for the midwives' examination to be held in June:—Mr. C. H. G. Macafee and Mr. W. W. Bassett.

CO. DOWN MEN REMANDED.

PORTAFERRY SPECIAL COURT.

On May 2 an offertory box in the Ballygalget R.C. Church, near Portaferry, was rifled, and a sequel to this was the taking over from the Cheltenham police, by Sergeant Moore and Constable Callaghan, Portaferry, of two men, Joseph M'Grath and John Croskery, both of Portaferry, in connection with the theft. The men had been apprehended in Cheltenham in connection with a charge of a similar kind.

They arrived in Portaferry this morning with their escort, and later in the day were charged at a special court, at which evidence of arrest was given by Sergeant Moore.

IMPORTANT ISSUES RAISED.

CASE CONCERNING RADIO.

HIRE PURCHASE AGREEMENTS.

"The only thing that seems not to be guaranteed in this case is the wireless set," said the Lord Chief Justice, sitting in the Ulster King's Bench Division, hearing a motion to set aside a judgment which Eirco (Wholesale Ltd.), Belfast, had obtained in March last for £449 odd, due on foot of a guarantee in respect of hire purchase agreements against J. Schleifer, trading as The Universal Radio Co., Commercial Buildings, 20 Ann Street, Belfast.

Mr. L. E. Curran (instructed by Messrs. White, M'Millan and Wheeler), for the defendant, moving to set aside, said that after judgment had been marked the plaintiffs made a bankrupt of the defendant and when the matter came before Mr. Justice Brown on a motion to set aside the bankruptcy on the ground that there was no debt, Mr. Justice Brown said that the best thing to do was to set aside the judgment, and therefore they now came in. The plaintiffs had taken up an unfriendly attitude to the defendant, but the position seemed to be that between the plaintiffs and the defendant was a trust company, or loan company. The arrangement was that Messrs. Eirco should supply his client with sets. His client got in touch with customers who had not got the money to pay for them, and the arrangement was that a London finance company, once it was satisfied with the standing of the customer or purchaser of the set, sanctioned a loan which would cover the cost of the set, and the question arose as to the liability as between the owner of the set, Messrs. Eirco, Ltd., the hirer, who was the defendant, the guarantor, who was the finance company, and the hirer of the set.

The Lord Chief Justice said that the application raised important matters, which would take some time. He, therefore, adjourned the matter until Thursday.

Mr. J. D. Condy (instructed by Messrs. G. Allen & Co.) appeared for the plaintiffs.

"BETS BY WIRE" CASE VERDICT.

THREE MEN FOUND GUILTY.

"ABRAHAMS THE MASTER MIND."

The jury in the "Bets by wire" case at the High Court, London, yesterday, returned a verdict of guilty against Abrahams, Harvey and Millward, and of not guilty against Smith. Judgment was deferred until a later date.

Before that stage was reached, the allegations against another of the defendants, Mr. Sheridan, had been withdrawn.

The plaintiffs were Ladbroke & Co., Ltd., of Burlington Street; Angus & Co., Ltd., of Clifford Street; and Services Pari Mutuel, Ltd., of New Bond Street—all London, W.

The defendants originally were Richard Abrahams, of East End Road, Finchley, London, N.W.; W. Harvey, a G.P.O. telegraph operator, of Killvon Road, Clapham, London, S.W.; J. Millward, Westcliff Park Drive, Westcliff; Cyril Smith, St. James' Square, London, W.; and W. H. Sheridan, of Cornwall Gardens Court, Kensington, London.

Mr. S. T. Pike, of Moorgate, London, E.C., another defendant, died after the action was started

All the allegations were denied.

Sir Patrick Hastings, K.C. (for the plaintiffs) when the proceedings opened yesterday, said that, after hearing Mr. Sheridan in the witness-box, he had felt justified in advising his clients that they might properly withdraw Mr. Sheridan from any charge of conspiracy.

After the speeches by counsel, Mr. Justice Laurence summed up, and the jury were absent over an hour and a quarter considering their verdict.

THE JURY'S FINDINGS.

They returned a verdict in the form of answers to three questions put to them by the judge, as follows:—

(1) Did the defendants, or any of them, conspire to defraud the plaintiffs? If so, state which.

Answer—The master mind of the whole fraud is Abrahams. Abrahams, Harvey and Millward, guilty. Smith, not guilty.

(2) Did Abrahams or Millward falsely and fraudulently represent to the plaintiffs that the telegrams were handed in before the races were won?

Answer—Some telegrams were put in after time, and some before. The results of races were known, and the name of the horse added after the race. About Millward, there is not enough evidence to show definite proof.

(3) Which telegrams were sent off fraudulently?

Answer—Telegrams 46 to 59 inclusive were fraudulent.

There was some question, added Sir Patrick, about the remuneration of the jury. It was impossible to make any arrangements on that matter until now, but his client had told him to say that, whatever the result, the Associate of the Court would be instructed to see that they had proper remuneration.

His Lordship, in agreeing to defer judgment, said the jury would be exempted from further service for seven years.

MOTORING FROM SIDE ROAD.

JUDGE ON "MISTAKEN NOTION"

A collision between two motor vans at Strangalwilly, County Tyrone, on September 23 last had a sequel before the Derry Acting Recorder on Friday, when John O'Hara, lorry driver, Carrickhue, County Derry, brought a claim for £15 damages against William Quigley, flesher, 71 Duke Street, Derry.

Plaintiff (for whom Mr. R. G. Connell appeared) stated that after delivering goods at a house he was returning by a laneway to the main road, intending to turn left, on which side the corner was "blind." He came out dead slowly and sounded his horn several times. He was about half-way out on the main road when he saw defendant's van 25 feet away. Plaintiff stopped his van and then the collision took place.

Patrick M'Dermott, driver of the defendant's van (replying to Mr. J. Lynn, defending), said he was driving at between 15 and 20 miles an hour. He did not hear a horn sounded as he approached the lane, and O'Hara's van practically "sprang" on to the main road and struck his van. Witness added that he swerved and did his best to avoid a collision.

Giving a decree for £10, with 10s witnesses' expenses, the Acting Recorder said there was a sort of mistaken notion that a car was not allowed to come out of a side road. If a car came out slowly from a side road and sufficiently under control that the driver was able to stop, the driver was entitled to come out. In the present case his Honour held that the defendant's driver should have stopped.

MUSIC IN BELFAST PARKS.

At Victoria Park on Monday (7-45 to 9-15 p.m.) Belfast Military Band (conductor Mr. George Dean) will play:—March "Sylvia" (Vlach); gavotte "Hearts and Flowers" (Tobani); caprice "The Butterfly" (Bendix); Andantino in D Flat (Lemare); euphonium solo "Love's Old Sweet Song" (Molloy), (Malcolm Reed); Selection of Gracie Fields' Songs (Nicholls); overture "The Marriage of Figaro" (Mozart); Spanish serenade "La Paloma" ("The Dove") (Yradier); valse "Thoughts" (Alford); selection "The Shamrock" (Myddleton); patriotic song "Ulsterland" (W. K. Gibson).

ROYAL CINEMA.

Something novel in the way of comedy fare is due at the Royal Cinema, Arthur Square, on Monday in "Danger-Love at Work," described as the funniest and most crazy comedy of the year. A lawyer has to get the signatures of a whole family to a land deed, and an efficiency expert is convinced the lawyer is a crook, while the whole family are as near cuckoo as they can be A real sense of ridiculous makes a delightful entertainment. The sporting feature, "Jennifer Hale," is a thrilling murder mystery.

RITZ THEATRE.

Edward G. Robinson is in superb form in "The Last Gangster," showing at the Ritz all next week. "E.G." is recognised king of the screen's bad men for his ruthlessness, tinged ever with a touch of humanity, and here in the part of the last of his evil race he beats his own great record. The supporting feature, "Saturday Night Revue," has a big variety cast, including the Kilties Juniors Band (on the Ritz stage a few months ago), Billy Milton, etc.

BELFAST HIPPODROME.

Ronald Colman has a dual role in the screen version of Anthony Hope's novel, "The Prisoner of Zenda," at the Hippodrome next week. The picture is taken directly from the stage dramatisation of the book, and Colman plays the part of the dissolute king and of the English officer who impersonates him to defeat the plotting of the king's brother, who wants the throne for himself. Madeleine Carroll and Douglas Fairbanks, jun., are in the cast.

CLASSIC CINEMA.

Thrills under the sea are the high lights of "Submarine D-1" showing at the Classic Cinema next week. Pat O'Brien and Wayne Morris are members of the submarine crew who have inventions for saving life, and they get a dramatic chance to use them when the vessel is rammed and sent to the bottom during manœuvres. The second feature, "45 Fathers," is the latest Jane Withers comedy, in which she raids an exclusive bachelors' club, and makes the members sit up and take notice.

CRUMLIN PICTURE HOUSE.

"The Thirteenth Man" at the Crumlin Picture House on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, is a breezy mystery drama about the killing of a district-attorney and the solution of the crime by a radio announcer. Weldon Hayburn and Inez Courtney head the cast. "Over the Garden Wall," at the head of the week-end bill, is a love comedy starring Bobby Howes and Marian Marsh. The comedy is punctuated by catchy songs and snappy dancing.

THEATRES AT A GLANCE.

LEADING FEATURES SURVEYED.

At the Empire next week the attraction will be the revue "Come, Look and Chuckle" with Wal Butler as comedian, supported by a big cast. The Picture House is retaining the delightful coloured film, "Ebb Tide," with its beautiful settings and charming story. The Imperial shows the big war film "Hell's Angels" with a special A.R.P. film and address by Mr. A W. Mann. The Lyceum screens for the first four days of next week "The Singing Marine" (Dick Powell and Doris Weston) and on Friday and Saturday "Mr. Dodds Takes the Air." "It's Love I'm After" at the Astoria on Monday, features Leslie Howard and Bette Davis and will be followed on Thursday by "New Faces of 1937." The Capitol and Broadway share programmes and will show on Monday and Tuesday "Wild Money" (E. E. Horton) and on Wednesday Jean Arthur in "Easy Living" and "Forlorn River" (Larry Crabbe). The Bangor Tonic has "The Singing Marine" for Monday, and "Back in Circulation" on Thursday. Annabella and Paul Lukas are in "Dinner at the Ritz" at the Troxy on Monday, with "Hot Water" supporting, and at the week-end "Wild and Woolly" and "Rhythm Racketeer." Midland features next week will include "A Family Affair" (Lionel Barrymore and Cecilia Parker) on Monday and "Blazing Sixes" (Dick Foran) on Thursday. "Between Two Women" at the Windsor on Monday stars Franchot Tone and Maureen O'Sullivan, and the mid-week change brings "Married Before Breakfast." The Coliseum announces the "Slave Ship" for all week with Warner Baxter and Wallace Beery in a striking sea drama. The Clonard bills "Midnight Menace," a melodrama, starring Charles Farrell, for Monday, with "Riders of the Rockies," and on Thursday "Captain Calamity." "Married Before Breakfast" (Robert Young and Florence Rice) will be at Savoy for early week, and gives place to "The 13th Chair" on Thursday. "Ladies in Love" at the Curzon on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, a romance with eight stars, has "That I May Live" in support, and at the week-end "Slave Ship" and "Come on, Cowboys." The Regal has "New Faces of 1937" and "The Big Shot" (Guy Kibbee) for early week, and "It's Love I'm After" (Leslie Howard and Bette Davis) on Thursday. The Strand and Majestic will feature "Rosalie" with Nelson Eddy and Eleanor Powell on Monday, followed by "Madame X" and "Beyond the Law" on Thursday. The Mountpottinger Picturedrome will show "Twenty Million Sweethearts" (Dick Powell and Ginger Rogers) on Monday and "Minstrel Boy," a musical romance on Thursday. The Park Cinema has "Night Club Scandal" (John Barrymore) and "Blonde Trouble" for early week, followed by "All Quiet on the Western Front," the greatest war film of all, at the week-end. The Alhambra has "Yesterday's Hero" (Monday) and "Keep Fit" (Thursday) with Bob Robinson and Nan Macken on the stage. "Charlie Chan at the Olympics" heads the first programme at the Stadium with Warner Oland in his Chinese detective role and "Navy Spy" follows on Thursday. "Wee Willie Winkie," the Shirley Temple comedy is offered by the Forum all next week, a picture which patrons will thoroughly enjoy, backed as the star is by Victor M'Laglen. The Castle has "The Go Getter" and "Blazing Sixes" for early week, and "Kid Galahad," the outstanding E. G. Robinson thriller, for Thursday. At The Duncairn "The Road Back," an after-war drama, on Monday, will be followed by "Captains Courageous" at the week-end.

BELFAST OPERA HOUSE.

THE SUMMER RECESS.

Following the final performance tonight of the Ice Musical Spectacle, "St. Moritz," the Belfast Opera House is closing for the summer recess and will re-open on August 1. The season has been a very successful one and the box office returns for the "St. Moritz" show have broken all records.

THE JAMAICA UNREST.

TROOPS FIRE ON MOB.

The officer administering the Government of Jamaica (Mr. C. C. Woolley), telegraphing on the 2nd June to the Secretary of State for the Colonies, reports that while the satisfactory situation in Kingston has been maintained conditions in parishes continue to give cause for anxiety. Police, fully supported by the military, are being taxed to the utmost.

Sherwood Foresters patrolling Saint Elizabeth and Clarendon were obliged to open fire upon a mob obstructing communications, resulting in two of the mob being wounded.

SYRIAN CRISIS.

MARTIAL LAW DECLARED

IN SANJAK OF ALEXANDRETTA.

Extreme tension prevailed on Friday night in the Sanjak of Alexandretta, the territory between Turkey and the French mandate of Syria, in which it is intended to establish an autonomous Government.

Feeling became so bitter between the Arabs and Turks, who are contending for supremacy in the elections for next month, that martial law was declared by the French High Commissioner for Syria, M. le Comte de Martel.

French troops and Moroccan levies, who total 20,000 in the Sanjak, were patrolling the main centres of the territory. About 30,000 Turkish troops are known to be concentrated on the frontier.

Events moved swiftly. First it was announced that the French Foreign Office had recalled the Governor of the Sanjak, M. Garreau, who recently adopted drastic measures to deal with Turkish terrorism.

BRITAIN INFORMED.

His place has been taken by Major Collet, commander of the armed forces, who is appointed acting-Governor. He is understood to be regarded favourably by the Turks.

All authority in the Sanjak is now in the hands of the military. Business is at a complete standstill, says the "Daily Telegraph and Morning Post" Antioch correspondent.

The British Government has been officially informed of the situation. M. Ankers, secretary of the League Commission, which has been taking a census of the Sanjak voters, has left for Geneva to obtain fresh instructions.

Registrations for the elections have already been suspended and it is believed in Antioch that no voting will ever take place.

ARMED ARABS ENTER.

Thousands of Armenians are fleeing from Sanjak, fearing that they may be massacred in the event of Turkish control being suddenly imposed.

Meanwhile Turkish Army officers in mufti have entered the Sanjak, thus joining the large Turkish population of the territory. Leading Arab Nationalists from Syria have also been brought in by the Turks.

On the other hand, strong bands of Arabs, presumably opposed to Turkish influence, have also crossed into the Sanjak.

The crisis has been precipitated by the Turks' determination to control Syria and Lebanon, which they regard as vital not only to their southern frontier but also to their entire position in the Near East. They appear to be convinced that they will fail to obtain a majority in the Sanjak elections. During the registration of voters they were able to work out an exact forecast of the result.

France's Syrian Mandate is to be terminated next year. It seems clear that the Paris Government, pre-occupied by the European situation, is anxious to dispose of its responsibilities in the Near East as quickly as possible.

PALESTINE JEWS TO DIE.

MILITARY COURT'S DECISION.

After a trial lasting seven days the Haifa Military Court last night convicted three Jews from Roshpinah, who were arrested on April 21 after firing on an Arab bus. They were also charged with carrying bombs, pistols, and ammunition.

Abraham Sheen (20) and Shlomo Benyussef (18) were sentenced to death, and Shalom Zurabin (18) was sent to a mental hospital. These are the first death sentences on Jews passed by a military court.

CRUISING LINER STRIKE.

SOUTHAMPTON SCENES.

CLOTHES RESCUED BY SWIMMER.

About half an hour before the Blue Star liner Arandora Star (15,305 tons) was due to sail from Southampton for a Mediterranean cruise on Friday evening 30 of her deck hands went on strike and walked ashore.

They claimed that they had grievances with regard to pay for Sunday work and messing arrangements.

Officials of the line endeavoured to negotiate a settlement, while passengers and other members of the crew lined the decks watching the quayside negotiations.

After about an hour and a half it was decided to move the liner from her berth into Southampton water, and the gangway was pulled up.

Two of the strikers dashed on board and the others shouted to members of the crew on board to throw their belongings to them.

A mackintosh and a suit fell into the water, and one of the strikers was lowered to recover them. He could not reach them, and losing his grip went into the water and swam around, gathering up the articles.

During the evening efforts were made by the company to sign on substitutes to complete the crew to Board of Trade regulations, and the liner was able to sail at about 11 p.m.

The Arandora Star had about 270 passengers on board.

BLOOMFIELD UNIONISTS.

THE WOMEN'S EXCURSION.

Bloomfield Women's Unionist Association held their annual excursion, when over 100 members and friends left the Unionist Headquarters, Glenmore Street, for Londonderry and Rosapenna. The weather was ideal. The outward journey was via Antrim, Bann Valley, Coleraine (where a short stop was made), thence by the coast to Derry, where lunch was served. The party then proceeded via Ramelton, Milford, Mulroy Bay, Carrigart, to Rosapenna, where a stop was made, and all enjoyed the view of the Mountains of Donegal. The route back to Derry was also a revelation of beauty, being via Creeslough, Kilmacrennan and Barne's Gap, where the party had tea. The catering was by M. A. Foster, Ltd., Derry.

After tea, Mrs. Forrest (chairman) spoke of the pleasures of the day and distributed prizes (presented by Mrs. Kenny and Mrs. Speers) to Mrs. Stewart and Mrs. Morrow.

Greetings were wired to Mrs. Carey, J.P. (president), who was prevented from attending, but who had helped to arrange a pleasant day for the members.

The visitors were greatly interested in the historic city. Mr. Matthew Kerr, Governor of the Apprentice Boys of Derry, together with Mrs. Cabena, District Mistress L.O.L. No. 2; Mrs. Wilson, District Secretary, and Mrs. Brown, District Treasurer, accompanied the party around the ancient walls, through the new Apprentice Boys Memorial Hall and the cathedral.

A collection was made amongst the party and handed over to Mrs. Brown as a contribution towards the new hall.

The route back was via Dungiven, Glenshane Pass, Toome and Antrim, arriving at Belfast shortly after eleven o'clock.

The officers in charge of the party were Mrs. Forrest (chairman), Miss Margaret Pierce (vice-chairman) Mrs. Knight, J.P. (hon. treasurer), Mrs. M'Keown (hon. secretary). Mrs. Innis, J.P., ex-chairman, accompanied the party. The transport was superintended by Mr. William Nabney.

EX-SERVICEMEN AND WAR WIDOWS.

WESTMINSTER DEBATE.

LABOUR M.P.'S COMPLAINTS.

PENSIONS MINISTER UTILITY MAN.

Mr. TINKER (Lab., Leigh), speaking in the British Commons on the motion for the Whitsun adjournment, raised the subject of war widows who lose their pensions because of allegations of misconduct.

"The general feeling in the House," he said, "is that these widows who are accused of wrong doing are not given the fullest opportunity of meeting the charges levelled against them."

These charges were very insidious, and the women were placed at a great disadvantage unless they could face their accusers and know exactly what was the charge against them. He appealed to the Ministry not to be so hard on these widows as they had been in the past.

He also appealed to the Minister to set up the committee of inquiry urged by the British Legion to go into the question of ex-Service pensions, in order to see whether the complaints which were being made were justified.

The Minister ought at least to try to remove the suspicion that justice was not being done to ex-Servicemen.

Mr. ELLIS SMITH (Lab., Stoke) complained that the Government White Paper on this subject was a bitter disappointment to the whole House. Promises made to men whose constitutions had been undermined or who had contracted disease as a result of war services had not been kept.

LETTER OF EX-SERVICEMAN'S WIFE.

He read a letter, which he said he had received from a woman who complained that her husband, an ex-Serviceman, had been in a mental hospital for 13 years, and because he had no pension she had to go out to work to keep herself and her daughter.

"I am getting older and feeling worn out," the woman wrote, "with the work and with the worry of my husband."

It was time, said Mr. Smith, that the Minister, if the Cabinet and the Treasury were not prepared to give more generous treatment to these people, should tell them that he was not prepared to carry on. He urged the Ministry of Pensions to give consideration to the request which had been made for an investigation. If members of the House did their duty to those they represented it was a full-time job, and what applied to members applied more so to Ministers of State. Nevertheless they found the Minister of Pensions (Mr. Ramsbotham) being used as chief propagandist for the Government throughout the country.

If the Minister of Pensions was giving the attention to his duty and to the administration of the Ministry of Pensions it needed he would not have time to fulfil those appointments.

"I also find," Mr. Ellis Smith said, "that if any Cabinet Minister is a bit off colour—("oh" and laughter)—it is always the Minister of pensions who answers at question time."

The Minister of Pensions ought to give more time to the question of ex-Servicemen's pensions.

Mr. LIPSON (Ind., Cheltenham) insisted that if a free vote of the House were allowed there would be an overwhelming majority in favour of the inquiry demanded by the British Legion.

Mr. LAWSON (Lab., Chester-le-Street) said that he had never seen such "a clever bit of juggling" as the Prime Minister's reply to the British Legion's demand. "It is an absurd answer altogether," he declared.

He quoted the case of a woman whose pensioner husband died and she was refused a pension because she was not married to him until two years after he was wounded.

"Is anyone," he asked, "going to say that that woman has not been wronged?"

THE MINISTER REPLIES.

Mr. RAMSBOTHAM (Minister of Pensions) said that with regard to the question of war widows who through their own fault were deprived of their pensions by the Special Grants Committee, Parliament had given the Minister of Pensions no power to amend or alter the procedure of the Special Grants Committee or to reverse their decisions. He was convinced the House had no intention of endeavouring to persuade him to accept from his medical advisers a certificate in which they did not believe. He was advised by Parliament not to grant a pension to a man unless he had a certificate from a medical man to the effect that the pension should be granted.

If the country were driven or persuaded to induce medical advisers of the Ministry of Pensions to relax their ordinary standard of evidence and relax their medical knowledge and to give certificates to the Minister of the day which did not represent the honest, conscientious opinion of the medical adviser in question, then we should have struck a blow at our pensions system from which we should never recover.

LADY A. MANTON'S CLAIM.

JUDGMENT AGAINST EX-HUSBAND.

Judgment was given on Friday in an action brought by Lady Alethea Manton and her father, Col. Philip Langdale, against Lady Manton's ex-husband, Baron Manton, claiming a return of furniture, pictures, and silver, and damages for their alleged wrongful detention.

The Official Referee made an order for judgment for the plaintiff, with reserved costs, for a return of the articles in the list, from which certain items had been deleted, and the payment of a sum of £206 in lieu of the return of a number of articles.

A counter-claim was dismissed with costs.

An inspection is to be made by Lady Manton with regard to certain disputed articles, and Mr. P. E. Sandlands, K.C., for the plaintiff, raised the question of the cost of the inspection. He remarked that according to old laws if a man took ten sacks of corn from another man, and put them with a hundred of his own, the man who had been wronged could take the whole hundred and ten.

It was agreed that the cost of inspection should be borne in the proportion of three-quarters by the defendant and one quarter by the plaintiff.

£5 FINE AND SUSPENSION

IN RATHFRILAND MOTOR CASE.

At Rathfriland Petty Sessions yesterday, before Major M'Callum, R.M., Hugh Francis Buller, Mountpleasant, Gilford, was prosecuted by District-Inspector Stratford for having been drunk in charge of a car at Rathfriland on April 25. Mr G. M'Spadden defended.

The R.M. imposed the minimum fine of £5 with 27s costs and ordered defendant's licence to be suspended for twelve months.

Joseph Peters, Cross, and James M'Loughlin, School Road, were each fined 20s and costs for keeping betting premises.

Matthew Curran, Carcullion, was charged with having been drunk and disorderly on May 10 at Hilltown and with having maliciously damaged a waterproof coat the property of Sergeant P. Dolan. Defendant, who pleaded guilty, was ordered to enter into £5 bail for twelve months and also to pay for the damage to the overcoat, this to rule both charges.

A fine of 20s and costs was imposed on Edward Loughlin, Lisnamulligan, for driving a horse and cart without due care.

Peter Heenan, Leitrim, licensed wholesale egg dealer, was fined 10s and costs in each of two cases for failing to identify each lot of eggs for re-sale purposes and for failing to deliver eggs on the day following their purchase.

A fine of 20s and costs was imposed on James J. Haire, Newry Street, Rathfriland, for knowingly making a false representation for the purpose of obtaining benefit under the National Health Insurance Act.

John Quinn, Hilltown, was fined 10s and costs for failing to dress cattle that were visibly infected with warble.

Belfastman's Brilliant Biography

"PRINCESS LIEVEN." H. Montgomery Hyde. (Harrap, 12s 6d.)

THERE were few figures in the political and social world of her day who exercised such a unique influence over political and diplomatic events as Princess Dorothea Lieven, yet it has been left to a Belfastman, Dr. H. Montgomery Hyde, to compile the first English biography of this remarkable woman.

Dr. H. M. Hyde.

Her collection of papers and letters, withheld from publication until 1936, forms an interesting and significant commentary on contemporary history. Most of the adult portion of her life was spent in England as wife of the Russian Ambassador to the Court of St. James. Educated under the patronage of the Empress of Russia, she was familiar from childhood with the atmosphere of intrigue and fear which surrounded Royalty, and this early training fitted her for her future life which was to be spent in three European Courts.

At the age of 15 she married Prince Christopher Lieven, then the undistinguished War Minister of the mad Tsar Paul, but it was not until more mature years, in 1812, following a short stay in Berlin, when they arrived at the Russian Embassy in London, that Princess Lieven became a definite personality in political circles, completely overshadowing her husband as a diplomatist. She soon became a force to be reckoned with in Regency London, hostess of a famous political salon, a leader of fashion and society, and a firm favourite of the Prince Regent, which was in itself enough to bring her into close contact with the political figures of the day. Wellington, Castlereagh, Canning, and Grey were each in succession at pains to court her friendship. Not the least of her striking qualities was that which enabled her to gain the ear of serious and responsible statesmen in whatever country she happened to be.

LORD CASTLEREAGH.

IT was at the Conference of Aix-la-Chapelle that Dorothea first met Prince Metternich, and so began the celebrated affair, the truth of which has come to light in their recently published correspondence, which is of interest not only in the personal light it throws on two famous personalities, but also in revealing their individual reactions to international events of the period.

It was at this time also that she became the firm friend and confidante of Lord Castlereagh, then busily engaged in forging together the Quadruple Alliance as a practical antidote to the impossibly idealistic Holy Alliance which was the brain child of the Lievens' Imperial master. For Castlereagh the Ambassadress had a profound admiration which the great Foreign Minister rewarded with his confidence and trust.

The Princess was a stubborn reactionary, yet her loyalties were far from being fixed. After her break with Metternich, although she had played a part in the Palace plot to overthrow Canning she turned round completely after Castlereagh's death and became a firm supporter of his great rival in the short time that elapsed before his death. As she wrote to a friend: "In England Prime Ministers die young."

The surprising volte face that followed saw her once again on terms of platonic friendship with another Prime Minister, this time the Liberal Lord Grey, and between the leader of English Liberalism and this horrified opponent of Parliamentary reform a brisk correspondence sprang up.

In the end it was in advancing the career of another of her proteges that she meddled once too often. It was to her influence that Palmerston owed his first portfolio, and ironically enough it was through him that the Lievens received their congé during the period of strained relations with the Court at St. Petersburg which followed the appointment of Stratford Canning to the British Embassy in 1834.

HER RECALL.

AFTER 22 years at the Court of St. James, 22 years of high politics, intrigue, and of playing Egeria to three English Prime Ministers, Princess Lieven looked upon her return home as little short of exile. Their recall was a sensation. Whig and Radical opinion, which saw in her and her husband bitter reactionaries and enemies of popular freedom, rejoiced. Even the "Times" showed less than its usual good taste:—

> "The recall of Prince Lieven, or rather of Mme. la Princesse, is an 'event.' We cannot say of her Serene Highness that the petite nez retrousse has occasioned much mischief, whatever her organs of speech and her implements of writing may have done; nor indeed is it quite credible that the cause commonly assigned for this earthquake in the diplomatic world should be a true one—viz., her Highness's appetite for meddling in politics and assuming the direction of every Cabinet in Europe, because for 20 years she has given abundant provocation of that kind. There never figured on the Courtly stage a female intriguer more restless, more arrogant, more mischievous, more (politically, and therefore we mean it not offensively) odious than this supercilious Ambassadress . ."

In St. Petersburg she had less scope for her activities. Among other things she longed for the maligned English climate, so ostensibly for reasons of health she moved to Paris and endeavoured, with considerable success, to set up another political salon. To this period of her life belongs what is perhaps the best known episode of her career—her romance, at the age of 50, with Guizot, the coldly intellectual bourgeois chief Minister of France. Now a widow, she could have married him, but the idea never entered her head. He was bourgeois, she an aristocrat; there was no more to be said. This friendship lasted for 20 years until her lonely death.

She was perhaps the last of the great ladies who from their salons exercised far-reaching influences on the politics of their day. The political salon lingered on, but its influence was gone, relegated to the purely social. The Princess was not blind to the changes of the time. The period of Napoleon, Wellington, Castlereagh, passed with George IV. It was the period to which she so essentially belonged, the dawn of Victorian England was her twilight. On the death of George IV., when such a state of Royal affairs had been unknown in human memory, she wrote to her brother: "What the nation most appreciates in its Sovereign is domestic virtue."

Dr. Montgomery Hyde does not indulge in romantic narrative. His biography, as is to be expected from the author of "The Rise of Castlereagh," confines itself to a straightforward account of facts drawn exclusively from letters and recorded conversations. The result is a splendid self-portrait.

In her letters Princess Lieven shows herself as she was—coldly self-interested, ambitious, unfaithful, unsympathetic, possessed by a lust for power for which her age provided no other outlet than intrigue and backstair politics. She had no resources within herself; uneducated, her greatest fear was of boredom and solitude. Her mind was masculine in its grasp of politics; her failings were all feminine.

It is interesting to conjecture what niche this able woman would have carved out for herself in the 20th century when her undoubted abilities could have had full scope, but Dr. Hyde is never side-tracked into romantic imaginings. In one volume he shows the whole course of haute politique in three European Courts in the first half of the nineteenth century in a happy blend of erudition and literary ability.

ULSTER FROM THE AIR

NO. 10—MIST AND CLOUDS OVER MOURNE MOUNTAINS

SIX-MINUTE STORY by MARTIN ARMSTRONG

No. 1 of a New Fiction Series

The Horse Fair

EVERY evening, for an hour at least, you could be certain of finding old Jim Parsons at the Golden Lion. It was there he met his friends and let fly those long rigmaroles of local history for which he was so justly famous.

"Now there's a story you'd never credit," he shouted on one of these occasions. "No, you'd never credit that a man could be so silly, but I knew the feller meself.

"Tommy Box, his name was. He was a farmer in a small way. Well, this Tommy Box he had an old pony and trap—it was in the days before these motor-cars and things, you see—and the pony was gettin' past the job. And he didn't know what to do about gettin' another. You see, he knew he'd get next to nothin' for the old one, and then he wouldn't be able to afford to give much for the new one.

"WELL, he mentions it to one or two people, and he mentions it to Bob Winch.

"Bob Winch was a smartish feller and up to all sorts of dodges, and he didn't mind helpin' an old friend on occasion. So he says to Tommy: 'Now look here, Tommy,' he says, "I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll take your old pony from you now and I'll put him into the sale at Storrington Fair what's comin' on in a fortnight's time and I'll see you gets somethin' for him: and in the meantime I'll lend you this pony of mine. Then, when the fair comes on, you can go over and pick out a pony for yourself and let me have mine back.'

"Tommy Box was a widower, you know, and he had an old woman to do for him—I forget her name; Nancy Something or other—and as soon as she heard about this pony business, she starts prophetisin' all sorts of trouble.

"She liked the old pony, you see, and when Tommy drove home from market and stopped in the yard, the old woman used to come out, and as soon as the pony heard the latch go he used to let out a whinny and the old woman used to give him a lump of sugar. So when Tommy got rid of the old pony, she started talkin', of course.

" 'You'll be sorry for it, mark my words,' she says.

"WELL, of course, Bob Winch gets to work on the old pony. He clips him, hogs his mane, cuts his tail, feeds him up a bit, and then, when the time comes round, he takes him along to Storrington Fair.

"In them days Storrington Fair was something. I can tell you, and you'd see maybe seventy or eighty horses and ponies there, so, as I was sayin', Winch takes Tommy Box's pony along, or rather he sends one of his chaps along with him.

"Tommy Box, he drives over as well, of course, to buy his new pony, and hand back the one Bob Winch had loaned him.

"As soon as Tommy got to the fair he began to look about for Bob Winch. He found him at last in the refreshment booth and he edges up to Bob and asks him: 'Is it all right about the old pony, Bob':

" 'But have you any idea what' he's goin' to fetch, Bob?' asks Tommy.

" 'You can take it from me,' says Bob, 'he'll not fetch less than eight guineas. So if you see anything to suit you, well, you'll know where you stand.'

"WELL that was good enough for Tommy, so he goes and has a walk round the fair and looks over the ponies and makes a note or two of likely ones, waitin' for the time of the auction. And, of course, when the time did come along, Tommy had forgot all about it and was thinkin' of somethin' else, so he was a few minutes late and one or two lots had gone already when he turned up. So he pushes his way into the crowd so as he could see the animals and the auctioneer could see him.

"There was a lot of entries and the biddin' wasn't very brisk, and Tommy stood there, keepin' his eyes open for a nice pony, strong, not too lively nor too expensive.

"He hadn't been there long before two of the ponies he'd fancied was put up. Tommy began biddin' for each of them, but in no time the biddin' shot up to beyond what he was willin' to pay and he had to let them go. He was beginnin' to be afraid he was goin' to find nothin' to suit him when another came up that he'd made a note of, a bay geldin', a nice mover, picked up his feet nicely, held his head well, and seemingly a strong, quiet beast.

"Tommy liked the look of him, and he began to bid. The biddin' began at five guineas and the pony was knocked down to Tommy for ten. Well, that was all right. The beast was worth ten to him, and if his old one fetched eight he'd only be two guineas down.

"SO he goes and has a cup of tea and a sandwich, and when he comes out who should he run into but Bob Winch. 'Well, Tommy,' says Bob, 'and have you managed to suit yourself?'

" 'I have,' says Tommy. 'I've picked up a decent pony for a matter of ten guineas, and I reckon I've no cause to complain.' 'Well, damn me if that isn't a bit of luck,' said Bob. 'Yes,' says Tommy, 'it's all right, or, rather, it will be, if the old pony fetches what you reckon he'll fetch.'

" 'Oh, then you haven't heard?' says Bob. 'He went a few minutes ago. Harry just came and told me. He went for what you gave for your new one, so you've come out square.'

" 'Ten guineas?' says Tommy. 'Why, who the devil was fool enough to bid ten guineas for the poor old beast?' 'Ask me another, Tommy,' says Bob. 'I didn't hear the gentleman's name. But I told you—didn't I?—we'd get eight for him anyhow?' 'Well,' says Tommy, 'the Lord help the feller what bought him.'

"Well, Tommy handed back Bob his pony, put his new pony into the trap and started for home. The new pony bowled the trap along in fine style, not too jog-trot and not too frisky, and seemingly he had no vices. He got Tommy home in no time, that pony did, and when his old woman heard the trap drive into the yard she opens the back door, as usual, and she goes out.

"BUT the moment she lifted the latch bless me if the new pony didn't let out a whinny, same's the old one. 'Well,' she says to Tommy, 'I'm glad you've had the sense not to sell him.'

"And, you know," said old Jim Parsons, looking round on the company with a grin, "she was right in a sense. Yes, damn me if Tommy hadn't bought his old pony off of hisself, and that's as true as I'm standing here."

HISTORY IN SURNAMES

HOARE—And Its Origin

IN such familiar phrases as hoary head, or a hoar frost, lies the clue to one of the sources of this surname. It was frequently an allusion to an appearance of age—to greyness or whiteness of hair. It seems probable that this was not the only source. The Anglo-Saxon word har, pronounced hoar, has had an important part in our place-names, and this word meant a boundary. Thus, hoarstone was a boundary stone. Therefore, it is a plausible conjecture that sometimes a Hore or Hoare got his name because he lived by a boundary. Not all the Hoares would have had to wait until they were grey or white to be known by the name.

• • • •

IT is a surname which gave Fleet Street London, and banking a romance. A gold bottle was displayed over No. 37, and this was the sign of James Hoare, who founded the famous bank of this name. He was originally a cooper, and legend had it that this bottle contained the leather bottle or purse and the half-crown with which this James Hoare had started business in the seventeenth century. Sir Richard Colt Hoare was of the banking family. He was born and died in Wiltshire and became its historian.

• • • •

ONE of the original Royal Academicians was the famous portrait painter known as "Hoare of Bath," but he had been born in Suffolk, and his son, Prince Hoare, attained some celebrity as a librettist. The banking Hoares gave a Lord Mayor to London in the eighteenth century, while another baronet was member of Parliament for Windsor. A distinction of Sir Joseph Hoare, of Co. Cork, was that at the age of 93 he insisted on taking his place in Parliament to vote against the Union. He once represented Askeaton in the Irish House of Commons, and was advising counsel at Dublin Castle.

• • • •

SIR Samuel Hoare, the present British Home Secretary, is the second baronet, and came of the old banking family. It has been hinted that there is a pun on his name in his motto which is Venit hora, but it is such a wicked pun that it is to be hoped it was unintentional. Sir Edward O'Bryen Hoare is the seventh baronet in the Irish line. Sir Henry H. Arthur Hoare holds the baronetcy which was conferred on the Lord Mayor of London of 200 years ago.

INDIGESTION

DISCOMFORT after food is often due to something which can quite easily be dealt with. Some people, for instance, have not the teeth necessary for efficient mastication and others do not take time to masticate properly.

Again, when there is great irregularity in meal-times the digestive organs may go on strike. Lack of exercise is often to blame for impaired digestion, and a common error is to worry and fuss about domestic or business matters during meals.

Finally, sound digestion is practically impossible for people who are constantly worrying about their health and about what they should or should not eat.

THE WINNING SMILE

JOAN McQUILLAN, of Fruithill, Loanends, Ballytweedy, Muckamore, Co. Antrim, is the smiling subject of the snap which wins this week's prize of half-a-guinea in our Happy Childhood Competition.

Each week 10s 6d is awarded the happiest study of a youngster. Entries should be addressed to "Child Photograph Competition," Belfast Telegraph, Royal Avenue, Belfast, and for next week's competition should arrive not later than first post on Wednesday, June 8.

"The subject is doing something in the best child pictures. The angle at which you take the snap, the moment you press the shutter, where the light is—all these count. Although youngsters have the happy knack of being able to pose without looking unnatural it is best to get your subject to forget the camera. Talk to the child, make him or her feel that it's all a game. Don't be too parental and give too many orders."

A PLAIN MAN'S SERMON

The Uses of Adversity

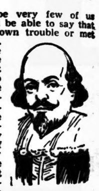
NOBODY wishes to have troubles or adversity. The great majority of people, if they were asked why we are in this world, would reply that we are here to be as happy as we can. How many a time have I heard that said; and it is a very natural thought and desire, too.

Possibly, on balance, there is far more happiness than unhappiness in the world; and if we were to number the days past of our lives, we should most of us have to admit that we had spent far more happy days than unhappy ones.



Shakespeare.

But there would be very few of us indeed who would be able to say that we had never known trouble or met with adversity. There is a verse in the Bible which says that "man is born to trouble, as the sparks fly upward"; and, certainly, human life as we know it—except for a very small handful of exceptionally favoured people—is anything but free from adversity, whilst some people seem to get very much more than their fair share of it.

Even if we have on the whole escaped it so far, we know that we can never tell from day to day when it will descend upon us, and we ought all of us to live prepared to meet it when it comes, just as we are all preparing at the present time to meet the possibility of air-raids.

If trouble comes, what are we going to do about it, and how are we going to meet it?

"GOOD FOR HIM."

THE first thing which we need to do is to remember that, though adversity is unpleasant and always unwelcome, it is not necessarily wholly evil. All down through the ages wise and thoughtful men of great experience have tried to remind us of this fact.

Nearly 3.000 years ago a man who had evidently been through deep waters wrote down the words, "It is good for me that I have been in trouble," and you can still read this verdict of his in your Bibles. He tells us too why he believed that it had been good for him. It was because it had taught him something valuable. It had taught him, amongst other things, how much God's fellowship and help can mean to a man when trouble comes. It had also, as he recognised, made him a better man.

Then there is Shakespeare who says, "Sweet are the uses of adversity," and asserts that it is like "the toad, ugly and venemous, which yet wears a precious jewel in his head." (A toad's eyes, in the dark, seem to flash fire; and this fact, no doubt, led to the popular misconception about its having a jewel in its head.)

Shakespeare's great contemporary, Francis Bacon, wrote in one of his famous "essays," "Prosperitie is the blessing of the Old Testament; Adversitie is the blessing of the New." And that is quite true; for the Old Testament promises happiness, wealth and long life as the rewards of a righteous life; and believes that adversities of all kinds are punishments for sins sent by God. The problem discussed by the Book of Job is how could God allow such an upright and virtuous man to suffer so much unmerited adversity. It has no answer to give to this question

But the New Testament takes a directly opposite view of adversity, and does not hesitate to say that, so far from its being a punishment, or anything of that kind, it is actually a blessing. It is very significant that in His Sermon on the Mount Christ—who was always right in what He said—picks out just precisely those people whom we should account ill-starred and calls them "blessed." (The Greek word actually means "happy.").

THESE ARE "BLESSED."

HIS list of happy people comprises the poor, the mourners, the persecuted and those who put religious principle before worldly advantage, and are prepared to suffer for it. As He always meant what He said, we may be quite sure that this is true.

If we look around us I think we shall not fail to see that just those people whose characters we most admire are those who have known trouble and adversity, and that it is to such as these that we should naturally turn for help and sympathy if trouble came to us. Their characters have, in fact, been enriched and strengthened by going through trouble, and we can find in them qualities for which we should look in vain in those whose lives have been always "the primrose path."

Most true of all is this of Christ Himself, Who has been all that He has been to millions of people just because He knew what suffering means. Try to imagine that He had never known anything about trouble and adversity, and think what a difference it would have made to His influence and to the help that He has been able to give.

There is something good to be found even in trouble, and what we need to do is to look for the "precious jewel" which it carries and use it in such a way that it will enrich our characters. Francis Bacon puts this truth very charmingly when he says that, "Virtue is like precious odours, most fragrant when they are incensed (burnt) or crushed"; and all of us will surely have known more than one person about whose life and character there hung, as it were, a fragrance which would not have been there if they had never known what trouble was.

Christ always taught that it is a mistake to suppose that God "sends" troubles to us; but He did teach that when they come, it is possible to face them and use them in such a way that we shall come to acknowledge that it is "good for us' to have been in trouble.

We all want to be happy; but do not let us forget that it is quite possible to live a life which is happy—in as far as it is free from trouble—and yet a life which is shallow and useless and which leaves the world no better than we found it.

May it not, after all, be better to have known what trouble is and to have left behind us some mark for good.

REV. L. B. ASHBY

Dean Inge And The Bible: Different Outlook

BELFAST WRITER'S VIEWS

Sir,—In the article on the Bible by the Very Rev. Dr. Inge there are a few statements which might call for a reply from those of us who come to the Bible with a somewhat different outlook from that of Dr. Inge. Your contributor says: "The claim to infallibility is never made by the writers themselves, and the doctrine of verbal inspiration has been a great stumbling block in the way of faith."

Well, speaking personally, a far greater stumbling block to my faith would be the suggestion that the book on which Christians are asked to base their faith was unreliable, and that it contained the "rites and superstitions of a still barbarous people." The book itself claims that these rites were given by Jehovah God to Moses to lay upon Israel as a feature of the covenant entered into between God and them, and which sanctified common sense tells us was an absolute necessity if sinful men ever were to learn the elementary facts concerning the holiness and the attributes of God. Books have been written demonstrating this, but quotations would be too lengthy.

HISTORICAL ASPECT.

The Bible is, first of all, history, and an accurate historian does not require to be inspired to write the truth. However, in view of its importance to us, we may well believe in the overruling providence of God in the preservation of the facts which are recorded in Genesis. That history truthfully relates the sayings and actions of some who were positively wicked, and of others who were endeavouring, although beset with temptation, to please God. In all such cases, the question of verbal inspiration does not arise. And the Book of Job contains internal evidence that the arguments of Job and his three friends were not inspired, but it leaves us with the problem—How did the author get to know of God's challenge to Satan? and the further problem—Would a deeply religious man write a book on why God permitted calamities, and credit the Almighty with a long speech which was a sheer fabrication?

Secondly, the Bible contains the history of the Israelites, and many prophecies respecting them, some fulfilled; some fulfilling; and some to be fulfilled, so that it has been well said that the truth of the Bible can be well demonstrated in one word—"Jew." In Lev. 26 we have a remarkable prophecy respecting seven times of punishment which it is commonly believed began with Nebuchadnezzar's conquest, and ended in A.D. 1917, when the Turks were expelled from Palestine. And the prophet Jeremiah in chapter 16 foretold of a time when God would "send for many hunters, and they shall hunt them from every mountain, and from every hill, and out of the holes of the rocks." Believers in the Bible believe that that prophecy is being fulfilled to-day. And in Lev. 26, from verse 40, we learn why the Jews are still in so much tribulation, even although Palestine has been delivered from their enemies. We read—"If they shall confess their iniquity, and the iniquity of their fathers, with their trespass which they trespassed against me, and that also they have walked contrary unto me; and that I also have walked contrary unto them, and have brought them into the land of their enemies; if then their uncircumcised heart be humbled, and they then accept of the punishment of their iniquity: then will I remember my covenant to Jacob, and also my covenant with Isaac, and also my covenant with Abraham will I remember: and I will remember the land." God is still waiting on the Jews to make this confession, and also indicates the many blessings which will come to them when they "shall accept of the punishment of their inquity." (Is. 40, 1-2.).

"THUS SAITH THE LORD."

In ancient Israel there were many religious teachers, both true and false, and when a prophet began his address with the words "Thus saith the Lord," and his words proved false, men would reject all he had said and written; but if his utterances invariably proved to be true, men would respect what he had written. Hence it was that Ezra and his colleagues, when compiling the sacred canon, selected only the writings of those prophets which had proved themselves to be true in the hard school of exrerience. Our Lord and His Apostles accepted these books as being true, and made constant appeal to them in proof of what they said. At the beginning of His ministry He taught, "Till heaven and earth pass, one jot or one tittle shall in no wise pass from the law till all be fulfilled." And, following His resurrection, we read that "beginning at Moses and all the prophets, He expounded unto them in all the Scriptures the things concerning Himself." Can anyone be a real Christian and yet reject the fundamental principles of Christ? Should not all Christian teachers accept the position of the aged Apostle when he wrote to his younger colleague in the ministry: "And that from a child thou hast known the Holy Scriptures, which are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus"? Was it not on the basis of such "knowledge" that so many thousands were converted at Pentecost and afterwards? Should not all Christian teachers seek to emulate Ezra the priest when he "read in the law of God distinctly, and gave the sense, and caused them to understand the reading"?—Yours, etc.,

MR. M'GLADE AND MR. ANDREWS.

Sir,—The chairman of the Licensed Vintners' Association should come with clean hands in the matter before accusing Mr. Andrews, Finance Minister, of making a "misleading statement." Mr. M'Glade says: "We can only infer that the continuance of the present excessive taxation is part of a Government policy deliberately designed to bring about the ultimate ruination and extinction of the Licensed Trade." Overlooking the frothy language, is Mr. M'Glade not aware that our Government of Northern Ireland has nothing to say to the rate of excise duties on alcoholic drink? This simple fact ruins the greater part of the speech. If Mr. Andrews cannot vary the duties he has the right, with large numbers of others, in welcoming a reduction in the revenue from intoxicants. He may have seen the evil results of the contrary condition in Great Britain following the reduction by one penny a pint in the price of beer and of the great advertising campaign. Between 1932 and 1936 the consumption of beer rose 19.2 per cent. and spirits 4.2 per cent., but convictions for drunkenness rose 45.3 per cent. Surely a tragedy. Again, why accuse the Government of charging duty for seven days' licence when the publican can only open six days. The remedy is simple. Let the licensee apply to have his licence converted into a six-day one, and an allowance of one-seventh will be granted. The tourist traffic has steadily increased since the Intoxicating Act, 1923, came into force, until now the ships, increased in size and numbers, are at times so crowded that tourists have had to be left behind on the quay, and difficulties of hotel and boarding-house is becoming acute. Yet, after the first year of the Act, the spokesmen for the drink traffic said that tourists having experience of it in practice would never come back. Do they not know to-day how their tourist talk is laughed at?—Yours, etc.

"CITIZEN."

IS THIS THE SAME DERRY?

Sir,—Many people are under the impression that De Valera will never get Ulster. De Valera will get Ulster, but it won't be by fighting for it, he will buy it. All over Ulster to-day the land is being bought by the Roman Catholics. Only the other day I read the following in an English paper: "Eire's national anthem was sung, 'Up De Valera' was shouted by a crowd of thousands in Londonderry's Guildhall Square. It was announced that all eight anti-partition candidates had been returned in the municipal elections in opposition to the Ulster Unionist Party.

"The anti-Partitionists have announced a policy of obstruction, embarrassment and non co-operation to make Unionist government of the city impossible."

Is this the same Derry that our forefathers fought for in 1688? Is this the same Derry that they starved for, and were reduced to eating the hides of horses and dogs and cats?—Yours, etc.

GEORGE II. COIN.

Sir,—A paragraph in your paper states a George III. coin, dated 1805, has been found by Mr. H. Ellis in Downpatrick, and Mrs. S. Kennedy, of Holland Drive, goes one better, she has a George II. coin dated 1741. Well, I can go one better than that—I have a George coin dated 1723.—Yours, etc..

BRITAIN AND SPAIN.

BASQUE VIEW OF MEDIATION

THINK GOVERNMENT WILL WIN.

Senor Irujo, Basque Minister of State in the Spanish Cabinet, who is on an official visit to the Spanish Consul in Perpignan, made a public statement yesterday on the possibility of the British mediation to end the Spanish civil war (says the "Daily Telegraph and Morning Post" correspondent).

"The proposal attributed to the British Government is based unquestionably on humanitarian lines," he said, "but it does not appear to be immediately realisable. Every hour that passes increases the chances of victory for the Government."

Expressing the view that the civil war was likely to drag on for some time, he added, "I have just made a tour of the front. The morale of the Government troops is very high. Their technical value grows every day as a result of well-organised training, which is producing good results. Time is working for us. We have succeeded in unifying different doctrines in the front line, and there is complete cohesion between the Government and the army."

Referring to the religious question in Government Spain, Senor Irujo, who is a Roman Catholic, said "A spirit of tolerance now reigns completely. The church opened for the Basques in Barcelona has many worshippers. We cannot admit that Fascist associations should conspire against the Republican regime under the cloak of Christianity."

CUBANS TO FIGHT IN SPAIN.

LA ROCHELLE, Friday.—Don Victor Gareres, Minister of Labour for Ecuador, who is en route for Geneva to attend the International Labour Conference, arrived here to-day. On the same liner there were also 50 Cubans who intended to join the Spanish Republican Army.

SHORTHAND TEACHERS MEET.

The annual conference of the Society of Shorthand Teachers opened this morning at Stratford-on-Avon, and there was a representative attendance of delegates from the various branches in England, Ireland Scotland and Wales. The delegates were welcomed by the Mayor of Stratford (Councillor Waldron, J.P.).

The Mayor stated it was a delight to him to again meet the delegates and he hoped they would have a successful conference.

Mr. J. Savage, B.A., J.P., Carrickfergus, was unanimously elected president of the society.

Mr. Savage returned thanks for the honour conferred upon him and said he had been one of the founders of the society, had been the first chairman, and was a member of the executive council since the start of their organisation.

This evening, on the invitation of the president and Mrs. Savage, a reception and dance will be held in Stratford Town Hall.

NEED FOR A STRONG ORGANISATION.

ULSTER M.P. AND ORANGEISM

SALE OF WORK AT MUCKAMORE.

The opening took place at Ballycraigy, Muckamore, on Friday afternoon of a two-day sale of work in aid of the renovation and building fund of Diamond L.O.L. No. 1422. The ceremony was performed by Lady Dixon, D.B.E., Cairndhu, Larne, in the presence of a large attendance.

Br. G. C. G. Young, M.B.E., M.P., who presided, complimented the Diamond L.O.L. on their enterprise, and expressed the hope that it would be abundantly rewarded. Their lodge, he said, bore a name of great significance to Orangemen, perpetuating as it did the never-to-be-forgotten Battle of the Diamond of 1795. He thought there was as much necessity for a strong Orange organisation to-day as there was in 1795 and more so, in view of all the negotiations that they saw going on from time to time between the British Government and the Government of the South.

"But we are not going to be dependent on Acts of Parliament or agreements with anybody," declared Br. Young. "We shall depend on the strength of our own right hand and the power of our Orangeism in Ulster to save us in the future as it has saved us in the past." (Hear, hear.)

In declaring the sale open Lady Dixon said she understood it had been organised to raise money for the enlargement of their hall and the carrying out of much-needed alterations. She thought it was very nice to see that the hall was so much appreciated in the district and most encouraging to see the response that was being made.

A vote of thanks was passed to Lady Dixon and the chairman on the motion of Rev. F. G. Bannon, M.A., rector of Muckamore, seconded by Br. F. T. Smith, D.M.

Mrs. Reade, president of the sale, and Rev. M. Majury also took part in the proceedings.

CASTLEDERG COURT DAY.

MOTORING OFFENCES.

At Castlederg Petty Sessions on Friday, before Mr. J. O. H. Long, R.M., Benjamin Millar M'Lernon, Main Street, Castlederg was fined 20s and costs for driving in a manner dangerous to the public, 20s for having defective brakes, and 1s for failure to report an accident within twenty four hours.

It was stated that defendant, following a Transport Board lorry, failed to observe a signal and crashed into the back of the lorry.

Defendant said he saw no signal given by the lorry driver. He attributed the defective brakes to the collision, and said he reported the accident immediately he returned from Belfast.

Michael Collins, Fyfin, Castlederg, was fined 20s and costs for having defective brakes on a motor-car, and Wm. A. Cather, Ardbarron, Castlederg, was fined 20s for a similar offence.

FOUGHT FOX ON CLIFF EDGE

DONEGAL MAN'S ADVENTURE.

Four South-West Donegal men, Messrs. Peter Watson, Clogher; George O'Reilly, Drimsoe; Joe Gallagher, Meenabull, and Rev. Mr. Heaslett, Rectory, Glencolumbkille, had an exciting experience when fox-hunting on Cruac an Cuileann Mountain on Friday morning.

They discovered a lair in a cliff overhanging Killtifeannaid lake. Mr. Gallagher's terrier entered the lair, and after a gruelling battle lasting over two hours, in which it got a bad mauling, the fox was chased out to the open.

Gallaher fired a shot at the animal as it bolted to safety. It fell and lay prostrate, apparently dead. O'Reilly went along the ledge to capture it, but it sprang at him and attacked him savagely, and he had to beat a hasty retreat.

NEW LICENCE SOUGHT.

APPLICATION AT DERRY COURT.

At Derry Recorder's Court to-day, Vincent Mulhern, the holder of an early-closing licence in respect of premises at 35 Strand Road, applied for a new licence under the Licensing Act of 1927.

Mr. H. A M'Veigh (instructed by Mr. T. Logue), for the applicant, explained that the application was based on the grounds that a full licence in respect of premises in the vicinity had been extinguished. The matter had come before the Recorder (Judge Osborne), who decided against the applicant. He (Mr. M'Veigh) applied for a speaking order and the matter went before the High Court on certiorari, when the order of the Recorder was quashed. The application was now made for a new licence.

District-Inspector Lynn having raised a legal point, Mr. M. D. Begley, Acting Recorder, adjourned his decision to give Mr. M'Veigh an opportunity to look into the point raised.

His Honour said he had every intention of granting the licence if he possibly could.

OUR RACING REVIEW

By 'Pink 'Un'

The surprising victory of the French-bred Bois Roussel in the Derby last Wednesday is now a matter of history. The son of Vatout was purchased by the Hon. P. Beatty for £8,000 after he had won over ten furlongs at Longchamp in April, and has proved a remarkably good investment.

It is another case of "novices' luck" in the great Epsom classic, the while Lord Astor and Sir Abe Bailey (the former particularly) strive in vain to achieve one of their life's ambitions.

No owner has had so many disappointments of late years than Lord Astor, who has supplied the runner-up on four occasions since the war, and his two representatives in last Wednesday's race (Pound Foolish and Cave Man) filled four and fifth positions respectively.

It was a most remarkable race that Bois Roussel ran. Last to leave the gate, for more than half the journey he was in the last four. Elliott, who rode the winner, said after the race:—"I did not realise that my horse was in the race with the least chance until he turned into the straight. He was still in the ruck at Tattenham Corner, but when I gave him a tap with the whip he began to pass one horse after another. I could see half-way up the straight that the horses in front of me were tiring, and as Scottish Union and Pasch began to falter Bois Roussel ran on. When I had once struck the front a little more than a furlong out my horse fairly flew into a four lengths lead, and the rest was easy."

The big disappointment was the relatively poor display of Pasch, who, according to Richards, "had every chance," but was beaten by the uphill finish.

WHITSUNTIDE RACING.

There are the usual glut of meetings on Monday and Tuesday next with fixtures down for decision at Hurst Park, Wolverhampton, and Redcar, and summarised selections will have to suffice:—

Hurst Park—Monday — 1.30—Little Flutter colt; if absent, Seilla. 2.0—Egyptian Ruler; if absent, Caledonian. 2.40—Suzerain; if absent, Fearless Fox. 3-10—Silver Harem; if absent, Fleet Street. 3-40—Uncouth; if absent, The Brown Ayah. 4.10—Carnival Boy; if absent, Ethiopia. 4.40—River Prince; if absent, Bonnet.

Tuesday—3.0—The Yankee; if absent, Shifting Sands. 3.30—Stolen Land; if absent, Invisible. 4.0—Rime Tout; if absent, Orphan Duckling. 4.30—Kota; if absent, Pondra. 5.0—Starflyer; if ab., Couvert. 5.30—Spritely; if absent, Sweet Ceylonese.

Wolverhampton — Monday — 1.45—Spiona; if absent, Matopo Hill. 2.15—Summary; if absent, Valkyrie. 2.45—Curl Paper filly; if absent, Cheer Boys Cheer. 3.15—Terror; if absent, Impression. 3.45—Incense Boy; if absent, Magnetique. 4.15—Dead Level; if absent, Ticca Gari.

Tuesday—1.45—Mansour; if absent, Hans Sachs. 2.15—Paris Nights; if ab., Apple Fritter. 2.45—Mr. Impertinence; if absent, Scaraben. 3.15—Pricket; if absent, African Star. 3.45—Karsavina; if absent, Temeraire. 4.15—Foxglove II.; if absent, Charleston.

Tuesday—2.0—Sea Chanty; if absent, M. Peacock's Selected. 2.30—Paddington; if absent, La Mist en l'Aire. 3.0—Pepita; if absent, Pretty Picture. 3.30—'Appy; if absent, Boro Boudour. 4.0—Jennie III.; if absent, Gold Vista. 4.30—Frank Butters's Selected; if absent, Inspiration (or Ship Ahoy).

MANCHESTER CUP.

The best racing is reserved for the latter half of next week.

The important Manchester fixture opens on Wednesday, and is continued over four days. Some nice prizes are to be won, but the most important event is decided at the penultimate stage of the meeting on Friday, when the Manchester Cup features the card.

While the class engaged may not be quite as good as some other years, there is the prospect of a keen struggle, for the race bears a very open appearance.

Top weight is Buckleigh, and Hogg's horse should be in much better shape than when beaten at the Craven fixture at headquarters a couple of months ago. Last season he showed himself to a thorough stayer when winning the Jockey Club Cup, and as the handicapper has not been too severe on him in the Castle Irwell event I am hopeful of seeing him returned the winner.

It is not in Dytchley's favour that he has not had a race this term, and I am going to take the risk of leaving him out.

Dragonnade finished fifth in the Coronation Cup at Epsom last Thursday, and now that the going has softened considerably his winning turn will not be much longer delayed.

Houghton has Atout Royal and Hurry de Savoie to select from, and at the weights the last-named makes most appeal. I am given to understand he has derived a great deal of benefit from the outing he had at Haydock Park, and is much expected.

Battle Song is in the same stable as Petit Bleu, who won the corresponding race last year. This son of Spion Kop was quite a useful performer last term, but this season he has accomplished nothing in his three races, and if he wins I will be on a loser.

Double Bracket was the victim of bad luck when beaten at Newmarket, and with a clear run I think Dines's charge will be well in evidence at the finish.

Domaha is nicely treated on the balance of his form, and others I note are Elgar, Spinalot, and Madeira Knight.

BUCKLEIGH

is undoubtedly the class horse of the race, and with a run I will not look beyond him for the winner. Only in his absence would I nominate Dragonnade.

On Saturday the Salford Borough Handicap can bring into opposition some of the best sprinters in training.

Ipsden heads the list with 9st 7lb, and over six furlongs he may not give the weight to some of the others.

With a pull of 20lb Over Coat will be a strong public fancy, and on the altered terms Bisgood's horse should easily turn the York tables on Paul Beg, whose penalty brings his weight up to 8st 10lb.

Carr has Sally Andrews and The Drummer (winner of the race last year) engaged, and the latter, who was second to Hazeldean at Thirsk in his only outing this season, may be the main hope of the Bolton stable.

OVER COAT.

The latter must stand as my selection, with Paul Beg next best.

SUMMARISED SELECTIONS.

The other selections for Manchester are as follow:—

Tuesday—2.0—Ring o' Roses gelding; if absent, French Marten colt. 2.30—Putupon; if absent, Hardhearted. 3.0—Astyanax; if absent, Incantator. 3.30—Greenwich; if absent, Boyd-Rochfort's Selected. 4.0—Nearchus; if absent, Piana. 4.30—Admiralty Arch; if absent, Empire Pearl.

FINANCIAL REVIEW

INVESTMENT STRENGTH OF FUNDS

CONTRASTS WITH HEAVY DECLINES

TRADE RECESSION SIGNS

LONDON, Friday Night.—Except for the firmness of British Government stocks, for which there has been a steady investment demand, and some improvement in Transatlantic issues owing to Wednesday's sudden improvement on Wall Street, security prices in the past week have dwindled in all departments, and in several cases the aggregate falls are substantial.

UNSATISFACTORY TRAFFICS.

Home Rails have fallen heavily on the unsatisfactory traffic returns. The decline of £315,000 in last week's aggregate gross receipts of the group lines was much worse than the market looked for, and brings the decline for the first five months of the current year to approximately £1,000,000 despite the 5 per cent. increase in charges now in operation.

BAROMETER OF TRADE.

In consequence not only are Home Railway stocks now quoted at the lowest calls recorded for some years, with "Brums" at 16 5-16 commanding less than half the price at which they were bought at one time last year, but Industrial shares have fallen in sympathy, as of course the trend of the railway traffics is a direct barometer of general business activity.

Foreign Rails have not moved to any great extent, but there have been sharp fluctuations in the price of German and Austrian Government Loans owing to reports to the effect that the German Government may either reduce the rate of interest payable thereon or default altogether upon them.

Chinese bonds have slumped on the apparently less advantageous military situation occupied by that country while Japanese bonds have also fallen sharply owing to the cumulative evidence that an early victory over China is quite out of the question.

INTERNATIONAL TEAS.

In the industrial department one of the worst falls relative to the price of the shares has been that of 1s 1½d to 10s 7½d in International Teas. Quite evidently the market is not looking for a final distribution larger than 5 per cent., which would reduce the total distribution for the year from 16 per cent. to 10 per cent.

The fall in the Cables and Wireless stocks indicate the impression that unless there is a great revival in the trade of the world the reduction in charges recently effected is not likely to be made good by the increased traffic.

GUEST, KEEN.

The increase in the Guest, Keen dividend for the past year of 1¼ per cent. to 7½ per cent., tax free, and the news that net profits improved by £176,700 to £1,075,500 has been much appreciated in the Iron and Steel section of the market, as has also been the maintenance of the large capital now ranking for dividend of the distribution (totalling 35 per cent.) on the Ordinary shares of the Whitehead Iron & Steel Company.

Turner & Newall, the big asbestos combine, is again paying an interim dividend of 3¾ per cent. on its £5,328,448 of Ordinary stock.

MINING SHARE MARKET DULL.

Quiet conditions have prevailed in the Mining share market during past week, and the general tendency has been dull, although some recovery was shown on Thursday. Western Holdings have again claimed the centre of the stage, only this time the movement has been in a downward direction following the publication of the assay values, and the rather colourless meeting.

S.A. Townships have dropped in sympathy, while Union Corporations and New Central Witwatersrand have weakened rather sharply. The dividend payers on the whole, however, have improved on Paris buying. West Africans have moved against holders.

Of diamonds De Beers have attracted attention.

Coppers after displaying irregularity in the early days firmed on Thursday on better Wall Street advices. The price of the metal is 30s per ton higher on the week. Despite the rise of £10 7s 6d per ton in the price of metal, tin shares have been easier. Miscellaneous mines have been offered.

OIL SHARES FIRMER.

A firmer tendency prevailed in the Oil share market during the past week. Anglo-Iranians have risen on the dividend and figures, while Mexican Eagles have inclined harder. Royal Dutch after being dull staged recovery on Thursday.

RUBBERS WEAK.

The price of the commodity, however, has risen to 5⅜d per lb. after having touched 5 13-16d per lb. immediately following the announcement that the quota had been lowered to 45 per cent. for the July quarter of this year.

United Sua Betongs have been sold, while Rubber Trusts, Anglo-Dutch, and Highlands and Lowlands have fallen away.

TEA SHARES QUIET.

Tea shares have been quiet throughout the week prices where altered being slightly lower.

IRON AND STEEL WEAKNESS.

The weakness of the Iron and Steel Share market indicates that all cannot be well within the industry. One hears talk of the likelihood of the price of steel being forced down. The decline in quotations has been exceptionally severe, for Dorman Longs, for example, which were 62s 6d in 1937, are now only 20s, while the 6½ per cent. Preference shares can now be bought at 19s to give a return of over 6¾ per cent. It may be recalled that the Ordinary shares received 10 per cent. last year. As against 34s, Colvilles are now no better than 19s 6d. Reduced prices might move manufacturers to action, although they would be chary of entering into large contracts unless they could be assured that prices would be maintained for at least six months. Despite the fall in Iron and Steel shares it might be inadvisable to sacrifice any at the present low prices.

SANITAS TRUST BONUS.

Sanitas Trust, Ltd., was formed to acquire the whole of the Ordinary capital of Sanitas Co., Ltd., which manufactures disinfectants and other preparations in daily use. The trust was formed to acquire the holdings of the father of the present chairman, who founded the Sanitas Co. over 50 years ago. It paid 10 per cent. in each year until 1937, and in 1934 a scrip bonus of 10 per cent. was forthcoming. It is now announced that, in addition to the cash dividend of 8 1-3 per cent. tax free the same as for the previous year, the directors are distributing one 1s Ordinary share for every share held, and one may make so bold as to say that the same dividend will be forthcoming on the doubled capital.

WORLD OIL PRODUCTION.

The Royal Dutch Petroleum Company report mentions that the world production of crude oil reached the record total of 280,000,000 metric tons, an increase of 33,000,000 tons over 1936. The United States retained the lead as regards production and consumption, but Venezuela, Iran, and Bahrein contributed substantially to the larger output. Royal Dutch Shell production reached the record total of 31,986,607 tons compared with 28,480,131 tons in 1936. The Royal Dutch Company estimates 1937 world consumption of petroleum and substitutes at 255,000,000 tons as against 237,000,000 tons for 1936.

WHOLESALE TEA DIVIDEND.

Brooke Bond & Co., Ltd., is one of the oldest wholesale tea dealers in the United Kingdom, and its teas are to be found in the the remotest parts. The company was created in 1892 and possesses a sound dividend record, while the directors have handled the finances conservatively, if not parsimoniously. In 1930 shareholders were given a scrip bonus of 100 per cent., and in the last balance-sheet the general reserve amounted to £500,000 or only £100,000 less than the total capital. The company has done well since the capital bonus was declared, and in the following two years £100,000 was allocated to the reserve in each year. Since then the reserve has been augmented by £50,000 in each year. To-day it is intimated that the final dividend will as usual be 5 per cent., making 10 per cent. for the year ended May 18. It will be interesting to hear the views of the chairman on the increased impost on tea as affecting the profits of the company.

JOHN BROWN PAYING MORE.

By declaring a final dividend of 1s 3d per share, tax free, on the Ordinary capital, John Brown and Co., builders of the Queen Mary and her sister ship, is increasing its total distribution for the year ended March 31 to 1s 9d per share, against 1s 6d per share in 1936-7. This year's payment represents a return of 8¾ per cent. per annum, tax free, on the original value of the shares and is payable on a capital of £2,153,893.

PHILLIPS AND POWIS AIRCRAFT.

Trading of Phillips and Powis Aircraft for 1937 resulted in a loss of £19,296 (against a loss of £31,586), increasing the debit balance to £71,118. The report states that the full benefit of increased orders placed during 1936 was not felt in 1937. Substantial orders on a larger scale were placed last year, with the result that the factory is now working to capacity. Full depreciation has been written off all fixed assets and stock-in-trade and work in progress.

PRINTERS' PROFITS TREBLED.

Profits of Thomas de la Rue, printers and pen manufacturers, for the year ended March have been more than trebled at £185,000, compared with £51,000 in the previous year. The directors are allocating £55,000 to reserve for tax, £51,000 to general reserve, and £10,000 to special reserve for plan obsolescence. They recommend redemption in full of outstanding profit sharing certificates at par (£15,483). The dividend is to be raised to 12 per cent. from 8 per cent., and there is also a distribution of bonus shares in the ratio of one share for each ten shares held.

WHESSOE FOUNDRY PROGRESS.

The directors of the Whessoe Foundry and Engineering Company make a gratifying dividend announcement for the year ended March 31. The dividend is to be 30 per cent. for the year, against 20 per cent. for 1936-7 and only 7½ per cent. for 1935-6, and the allocation to general reserve is to be £25,000, as compared with £10,000 one year ago and with £5,000 two years ago. The reserve will thus be raised to £75,000, against the issued capital of £200,000, which is all in Ordinary shares.

METAL INDUSTRIES.

The directors of Metal Industries, Ltd., recommend a final dividend of 4 per cent., less tax, on the "A" and "B" Ordinary stock, making, with the interim dividend of 3½ per cent., less tax, a total for the year ended March 31 last of 7½ per cent., less tax. In the previous year a capital bonus of 127 3-11 per cent. was paid, and the distribution for the year was equivalent to 7.52 per cent., less tax, on the increased capital.

BRITISH ELECTRIC TRACTION.

The revenue of the British Electric Traction Company for the year ended March 31, 1938, amounts to £669,404 against £585,673. After deducting general expenses, including fees, income-tax and staff fund, and Debenture interest, profit is £446,471, an increase of £55,576. The directors again propose a dividend of 5 per cent. on the Deferred stock. This entitles Preference stockholders to a further 2 per cent., making 8 per cent. for the year. The directors further recommend that £65,352, equal to 10 per cent. on the Deferred stock, be capitalised and distributed to the Deferred stockholders in fully-paid Deferred shares of £1 each. A similar distribution was made last year. This will leave £185,323 against £138,659 to be added to undivided profits account, making that £1,721,278.

LINGGI PROFIT ALMOST DOUBLED.

During 1937 the revenue of Linggi Plantations rose from £98,978 to £166,883, and after meeting general expenses, the net profit increased from £43,431 to £83,602. To this was added £20,173 against £24,925 brought in, making £103,776, from which Debenture charges absorbed £17,706 against £18,229. General reserve receives £30,000 against nil, and after maintaining the Ordinary dividend at 5 per cent., £27,370 is carride forward, subject to commission. The above figures include a dividend of 2½ per cent. from Oil Palms of Malaya in respect of 1936 and an interim of 2½ per cent. in respect of 1937. The final payment of 4 per cent. on account of that year has yet to be received.

TUG'S CARGO OF GOLD.

Unknown to the passengers on board the Canadian Pacific liner Duchess of Athol, which arrived at Greenock yesterday from Canada, eight boxes of gold were lying on the deck of the tender which took them ashore to Greenock. Plain clothes detectives were there guarding the bullion, but none of the passengers knew what was inside the boxes on which several of them were actually sitting. The gold was consigned to the Bank of England.

WAS HIS FACE RED?

One of my wife's funny ideas was to suggest we should go and live with her mother—A Man at Willesden Police Court.

WELL, IT'S A BIG SUBJECT.

Said a constable at Highgate of a young woman motorist summoned for disobeying traffic lights—I do not think the young lady saw the lights change, because she was busy gossiping to her mother, who was a passenger in the car.

Woman Motorist—Yes, we had not been in England long and we were talking about London.

BELFAST EXCHANGE.

THE WEEKLY SURVEY.

BUSINESS VERY MODEST.

WITH SOLE REDEEMING FEATURE.

The only encouraging feature this week on the Belfast Stock Exchange has been the strength of British Government stocks. American shares were also slightly better at the finish, but elsewhere prices were very flat, and business continued on a restricted scale.

In the Gilt-edged section, War Loan opened at 101 7-16—9-16, gradually improved to 102¼—½, but closed under the best at 102 1-16—102 3-16. 3½ per cent. Conversion Loan was dealt in at 101 15-16 and 102¼. 3 per cent. Conversion Loan fetched 102 13-16, 4 per cent. Funding Loan 113⅜, 4 per cent. Victory Bonds 111 5-16, Local Loans 88 5-16, and Guaranteed 4½ per cent. Bonds 112¼ several times. Some Ulster 4½ per cent. 1945-75 stock is in market at 107½.

Bank shares have been dull in tone, but Northern Bank "A" after changing hands several times at 97s 6d rallied to 99s, leaving off with buyers bidding 97s 6d and sellers holding for 100s. The "B" shares were done at 48s 6d and finished with sellers at 49s. Midland Bank Parts changed hands at 9 15-16 and £1 Fully Paid shares at 85s 10½d. Westminster Bank Parts marked 94s 9d, 95s, and 94s 9d.

Corporation stocks were in good demand, but sellers proved scarce. Belfast 3½ per cent. 1973 stock brought 101⅝ and 5 per cent. 1945 stock 109⅝ xd. A number of these issues were marked ex dividend on Monday. Belfast Harbour 1953-58 stock is wanted at 98⅜ and Water 3½ per cent. 1953-63 stock at 101. Water 5 per cent. 1950-60 stock fetched 111⅛.

Prices of local Rails were lower. Belfast & County Down 4 per cent. Debenture changed hands at 53 and 50, being a fall of 3 points on the week, market closing with 50 bid and no further sellers. Gt. Northern Ordy. was asked for at 4 and offered at 5. There are also sellers of 4 per cent. Guaranteed stock at 42 and Preference at 10.

London Transport B stock was recorded at 117½ twice.

In the Industrial market, Textiles were notably weak. J. & P. Coats changed hands at 37s 10½d, 36s 9d, 36s 6d, 36s 3½d, and Courtaulds at 35s, 34s 10½d, 34s 9d, 34s 3d, and finally at 33s 9d. York Street Ordy. are enquired for at 2s 6d and offered at 3s. 4½ per cent. Debenture stock of this company changed hands at 85⅜ xd.

In Bakery shares, Bernard Hughes Ordy. were quoted 34s 9d xd. and Preference 24s 6d xd. Inglis Ordy. are bid for at 85s, with no sellers under 88s. Debentures are also in demand at 116s 3d. Ranks 6 per cent. Preference were quoted xd. at 28s 4½d. Brewery shares were quietly steady. A small lot of Guinness fetched 113s 9d.

Tobacco shares were depressed, but made a partial rally before the close. British-Americans were done at 100s 6d and 100s 9d, and were subsequently marked xd. at 96s 10½d. Imperial of Gt. Britain Ordy. changed hands freely at 132s 6d, 132s 7½d, 130s 9d, 131s 3d, 131s and 131s 4½d.

In Miscellaneous Industrials, Harland and Wolff B Ordy. were done at 3s 10½d, Vickers at 20s 3d, and Tax Free Preference at 28s 7½d. Richard Thomas marked 3s 6d, 3s 2½d, Cammell Lairds 7s, and Baldwins 4s 9½d.

Other transactions were:—Imperial Chemical Ordy. at 29s, 7 per cent. Pref. at 32s 3d, Laganvale Estates at 17s, Lever Bros. and Unilever 36s 3½d, 7 per cent. Preference 31s 4½d and 30s 9d xd., White Tomkins and Courage Ordy. 38s, Triplex Glass 39s 3d, Standard Motors 11s 1½d, Marks and Spencer A 54s 6d, 54s 4½d.

Oil shares were firmer for choice. Anglo-Iranians were dealt in at 81s, 83s 9d and 80s 9d, and 8 per cent. Preference at 35s 3d, Burmahs 113s 3d, Shells 82s 9d cum. div. and 81s xd. Mexican Eagles 4s 10½d.

Mines were less active. Business was recorded in Simmer and Jacks at 15s 10½d, Reitfontein at 5s 1½d, Wiluna Gold at 18s, and Venterspost New at 7s 6d.

YET ANOTHER RAID ON CANTON.

40 'PLANES ENGAGED.

CONTINUOUS BOMBING.

GOVERNMENT OFFICES HIT?

CANTON, Saturday.—Forty Japanese 'planes dropped bombs continuously for 35 minutes on Canton to-day, rocking the city to its foundations.

Tremendous havoc was wrought in the vicinity of the Government offices, the Central Park, and Taishatao districts, in which 30 bombs fell.

A SECOND ATTACK.

HOW MURDER SECRET WAS REVEALED.

FRENCH PRISONER'S BOAST.

JUSTICE AFTER FOUR YEARS.

PARIS, Saturday.—On December, 1934, a Russian taxicab driver was shot and mortally wounded in Paris. Yesterday justice was done.

Bernard Gimborg, aged 31, a former soldier, who had served in Africa, was sentenced to life imprisonment.

His accomplice, Albert Dessons, aged 28, who had served in the navy, was sentenced to twenty years' hard labour. One evening in September, 1936, whilst he was in Sante Prison for the ninth time, Gimborg committed the imprudence of confiding to two fellow prisoners that he had two years previously killed a taxi driver, a Russian named Kohroch, at Athis Mons, on the road to Juvisy.

An informer among the prisoners told the authorities what he had heard, and so after nearly four years, during which the police had vainly sought the perpetrators of the crime, Gimborg and Dessons were arrested.

In court Dessons told how Gimborg, finding himself penniless, proposed a coup. They were to take a taxi, get rid of the driver, and commit a burglary with the aid of the car.

Kohroch was the selected victim, but he struggled so violently that Gimborg shot him in the back with a revolver.

Mortally wounded, he struggled to a garage, and gave the police a description of the men. Four days later he died in hospital.

Desson has twelve brothers and sisters, all living.—Central News.

FRENCH SIT-DOWN STRIKES.

GOVERNMENT TO FOOT THE BILL.

PARIS Saturday.—The French Government will have to pay French factory owners millions of pounds reparation for the damage done during sitdown strikes while the Popular Front Government was in power.

This was the effect of the French Court's ruling yesterday.

Employers claimed they called in the police—Government body—to order the expulsion of workers, and see that order was carried out. The police failed to eject the strikers, and consequently the Daladier Government has to foot the bill.—Central News.

"WHITLEYISM" JUSTIFIED.

The work of Whitley Councils was praised by Mr. W. W. Armitage (Sheffield) in his presidential address to the National Association of Local Government officers at Blackpool to-day.

"In those parts of the country where Whitley Councils are operating we are doing very well indeed and in my opinion Whitleyism has more than justified itself," he said.

"I am hoping to see the Asscs. Whitley Councils Bill introduced into the House of Commons very shortly."

THE MANX AIR RACE.

INTERNATIONAL ENTRY.

The international air race from Hatfield to the Isle of Man, which is open to all types of aircraft with a minimum speed of 100 miles an hour, was held to-day under an intricate handicapping system based on the estimated performance of each machine.

The starting times were varied. Starting at 10 o'clock it was hoped that all the competitors would be on their way within an hour or so.

The course set was a direct one to Liverpool, where there was a compulsory stop of 60 minutes, thence to Stanley Park Aerodrome, Blackpool.

The machines turned at Blackpool towards St. Bee's Head Lighthouse, and then turning again passed direct to the finishing line at Ronaldsway Aerodrome, Isle of Man.

This alteration in the finishing arrangements was made owing to the proximity of the old finishing line to Douglas Head. Pilots had to descend to a height of between 200 and 400 feet and then were faced with the necessity of rising quickly to clear the head.

A Naval patrol of the sea crossing between St. Bee's Head and the Isle of Man was arranged in case of emergency.

There were sixteen entrants, eleven of whom were British, three German, one Czecho-Slovakian, and one Latvian.

Flying-Officer Clouston, the England-New Zealand record holder, had entered a B.A. Eagle monoplane and was to have been accompanied by his wife. Unfortunately Mrs. Clouston had been taken ill and her husband scratched at the last moment.

Flying-Officer Tommy Rose, former winner of the King's Cup, also scratched, and a notable absentee from the Continent was Antoine Gazda, who was to have represented Switzerland. He reported to the organisers on Friday that he could not take part owing to difficulty in getting a new propeller ready.

Prominent British airmen in the race included:—

The Continental airmen included Major Hans Seidemann, the well-known German pilot, who was the winner last year. His machine was a six-seater all-metal twin-engined monoplane which has a maximum speed of 208 m.p.h. and a cruising speed of 171 m.p.h.

Lt.-Col. Josef Kalla, the Czech air attache in London, and a well-known pilot, entered a low-powered two-seater monoplane which has been designed for training and touring. Its maximum speed is about 133 m.p.h.

The Latvian entrant, J. Vittols, entered a low-wing cabin monoplane which can reach 149 m.p.h. His pilot was Mr. Philip Avery, the demonstrator and test pilot.

The start was delayed for over an hour owing to a strong following wind and the desire of the organisers that the race should end in the Isle of Man in mid-afternoon.

Flying-Officer Clouston told a reporter to-day that his wife underwent an operation in a Farnborough nursing home on Friday night. "I am waiting to hear whether it has been successful," he said.

BELFAST GIRL REMANDED.

At a special court in Lisburn this morning, before Mr. R. Wilson, J.P., Irene Crawford, Broadway Parade, Belfast, was remanded until June 11 on a charge of the larceny of a wallet containing £6.

Head Constable Magill stated that when he charged the accused she denied she took the money or knew anything about it, stating if any money was taken the girl who accompanied her must have taken it.

CARING FOR ANIMALS.

WORK OF THE ULSTER SOCIETY.

Tie records of the Ulster Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals for the month ending May, 1938, show that 97 complaints were received and investigated. Two offenders were fined anr 125 persons guilty of minor acts of cruelty cautioned. Number of visits to slaughterhouses, 108; to markets and fairs, 126. Seventy-three animals were humanely destroyed and 290 animals examined.

At the Tyrone Yard dispensary 191 animals were treated and a number sent hospital, while at the Shelter, Tyrone Yard, 238 lost, injured, and unwanted dogs were received, of which 122 got homes and 21 were claimed.

The number of cats received was 231. Thirty-seven got homes and three were claimed. The total number of animals humanely destroyed was 293.

CLAUDY SESSIONS CASES.

FAILURE TO KEEP TIME SHEETS.

At Claudy Petty Sessions, before Mr. J. C. Austin, R.M.,

James M'Fadden, Glen Road, Rosemount, Derry, and David Wolfenden, Strand Road, Derry, were each fined 2s for failing to keep time sheets.

Thomas Long, Kinculbrack, was summoned for using a tractor without an insurance policy, licence, or identification mark.

James Long, of the same address, was summoned for causing the vehicle to be used without the insurance, or a goods licence, and for employing an unlicensed driver.

All the cases against James Long were dismissed. Thomas was fined 10s in respect of the insurance, 2s regarding the licence, and 1s in the other case.

CAVAN MOTOR ACTIONS.

MAN GIVEN £100 DAMAGES.

At Cavan Circuit Court on Friday, before Judge Sheehy,

John Fay, Killymeehan, Stradone, farmer, sued Lawrence Grant, St. Mary's Villas, Drogheda, plumbing contractor, for £50 damages, caused as the result of falling into a excavation in connection with a sewerage scheme from Cavan town boundary to the County Home on December 25 last. Plaintiff's claim stated there was negligence by the defendant in not having sufficient protection by railing or otherwise alongside the excavation.

The defence was a denial of any negligence.

Philip Brady, shoemaker, Cavan, sued James Morris, Ivy Cottage, Farnham Road, Cavan, and Thomas Igoe, College Street, Cavan, Post Office employee, for £100 damages caused through the negligence of the defendant James Morris, his servant or agent in the driving of a motor-van in Farnham Street, Cavan, on February 4, 1938.

Plaintiff's claim stated he was knocked down when riding a bicycle, sustaining severe personal injuries.

WALKER CUP PLAY.

BRILLIANCE OF THOMSON.

BRUEN UNLUCKY IN HIS PUTTING.

With one round of the eight singles matches played, Great Britain were heading for their first victory ever in the Walker Cup battle against the United States at St. Andrews to-day.

We were leading in five of the eight games when 18 holes had been completed.

Britain won the foursomes on Friday by two matches to one with one halved, so that four of the singles were needed to make certain of victory.

The features of this great golf were:—

Marvin Ward's round of 67 to equal the best score ever done in the Open Championship at St. Andrews (by W. Nolan) and be nine up on Frank Pennink, English champion.

G.B.—Holes up.		U.S.—Holes up.
Bruen	0	Yates	3
Thomson	6	Goodman	0
Crawley	4	Fischer	0
Stowe	1	Kocsis	0
Pennink	0	Ward	9
Ewing	0	Billows	1
Peteas	3	Smith	0
Kyle	1	Haas	0

PLAYERS AND CONDITIONS.

America relied on the same players, but the home side made one alteration, Cecil Ewing (Co. Sligo), who was runner-up in the British Amateur Championship last week, taking the place of H. G. Bentley.

Thus Mr. J. B. Beck, the British captain, whose wife won the Irish women's title on Friday at Portmarnock, chose a non-playing role, like the American captain, Francis Ouimet.

SHOCK FOR SPECTATOR

IN the morning round at St. Andrews, Peters, from his drive at the fifth, knocked a pipe out of a spectator's mouth and the ball landed in the rough. From there he chipped up to within three yards of the pin, and the hole was halved in four.

All the matches, to be played over 36 holes, were confidently expected to produce stirring struggles; none more so than the top one, in which James Bruen, the brilliant Irish youth, led the way for Britain in opposition to Charles Yates, holder of the British Amateur title.

An hour before play was due to start conditions were ideal, although the sky was overcast. There was a slight westerly breeze, but it was hardly strong enough to disturb the flags at the mastheads.

Expectations of rain were fulfilled when a steady drizzle was falling as the first pair, Bruen and Yates, drove off. Most of the players carried towels for protecting their necks and keeping their hands dry, so as to avoid the risk of slipping grips. Yates, however, scorned any such protection as he strolled unconcernedly across the course from his hotel.

His score of 68 equalled the record of Bobby Jones, created in the Open Championship of 1927. As Thomson's score had been done in match play it will not be recognised as equalling the amateur record. Johnny Goodman, who has won the Open Championship of the States, simply could not match Thomson, and he finished the morning round six down.

But Marvin Ward (U.S.A.) did even better having a score of 67, which beat Bobby Jones's amateur record and equalled the professional record of W. Nolan. Pennink, playing weakly, found himself nine down, an unpleasant appetiser for lunch.

AFTER NINE HOLES.

Yates (U.S.A.) one up on Bruen.

MRS. JOHN BECK

IS NEW IRISH CHAMPION.

CUP REMAINS AT PORTRUSH.

In the 36-holes final of the Irish Women's Golf Championship at Portmarnock on Friday Mrs. John Beck (Royal Portrush) beat Miss Bridget Jackson (Chiselhurst, Kent) by 5 and 4, and thus the Championship Cup remains at the Royal Portrush Club, Mrs. Glendinning having won last year's final against Mrs. E. L. Kidd.

Mrs. Beck (nee Dorothy Pim) has for years been competing in the Irish championships and playing, on and off, in the Irish team. Singularly enough she has won the championship in a year when the selectors omitted her from the Irish side.

CRICKET IN ENGLAND

ESSEX V. AUSTRALIANS.

Essex included three fast bowlers in the side against the Australians at Southend to-day, and Kenneth Farnes and Nichols required careful watching.

The Australians, who left out O'Reilly and M'Cormick, were fortunate to win the toss, for the pitch looked in splendid condition and the sun shone brightly. Nevertheless, Fingleton, one of the opening pair, seemed none too happy against Farnes, and he gave chances in the England bowler's first and second overs. Nichols kept an excellent length, and in three overs conceded only one run. The match proved a big attraction to holidaymakers, and by noon there were about 7,000 present.

The discomfort of the batsmen against the pace bowlers was reflected in the score. Forty minutes' play produced 25 runs, and Fingleton and M'Cabe lost their wickets. Fingleton's off stump was knocked out of the ground at 14. Then 11 runs later Stephenson, coming on for Nichols, induced M'Cabe, the Australian acting captain, to sky a catch to slip, where Wilcox, whose 28th birthday it was, simply waited for the "gift."

Essex soon might have had three of their opponents out, for Brown was dropped at short leg off Nichols when seven. He settled down, but did not hit the first boundary till an hour elapsed.

It was alleged at Brighton Police Court on Thursday that Parrack forced his seven-year-old son Dennis to hold live coals.

A police car drove up to Parrack's house and Parrack, looking haggard and nervous, unlocked the front door and stepped into it with his wife, who carried their 12-month-old baby girl.

The removal of Parrack and his family followed a four a.m. police consultation with Mrs. Parrack's father and mother, who live in Wellington Street, Brighton.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

Among our priceless possessions are letters from clients we have served, expressing appreciation for the service we rendered them during their time of need. These speak more eloquently than anything we could say of the excellence of our equipment, the knowledge and training of our personnel, and most important, of the sympathetic consideration and personal attention given to every case we handle.

THE OVAL BOXING TOURNAMENT.

The first of the season's open-air boxing tournaments in Belfast will be staged by Mr. John Sholdis at the Oval Football Ground this evening, commencing at 7-30 o'clock, and it is expected that there will be a record rally of enthusiasts as a very interesting programme is advertised. All boxers engaged weigh-in at the Stadium, Cuba Street, at 2 p.m.

The top-liner is a ten-rounds contest at 8st. 2lb. between Jimmy Warnock and Snowball Frame, of Glasgow, and there is keen interest in this bout, as it marks the Irish flyweight king-pin's welcomed return to the ring

The eight rounds bantamweight contest between Charlie Brown, former Ulster amateur champion, and Kid Tanner (British Guiana) is another special attraction, it being recognised that the Belfast boy should be on his mettle to vanquish an outstanding coloured battler, who has so far defeated all British rivals set against him.

Through the kindness of Major J. D. M'Callum, R.M., D.S.O., the members of Rathfriland Lawn Tennis Club were on Thursday evening treated to a fine exhibition by some of Ulster's leading players.

It was the club's opening day, and the members' tournament was won by Miss L. H. Marks and Mr. V. L. Grant.

Subsequently exhibition singles and doubles were played by Major M'Callum's team, Messrs. L. Frankland, George Coyle, Jack Calvert, and J. W. M'Garry. Major M'Callum and his team were thanked by the club's president, Dr. William Speedy, J.P.
